Earl Carroll Among 43 Killed as Plane Strikes Power Line

Pilot Attempted Emergency Landing In Pennsylvania With Motor Afire

From Press Dispatches

Mount Carmel, Pa., June 17. A four-engine United Airlines DC-6 plane hit a power line near here and disintegrated in flames today, killing all 43 persons aboard. An eyewitness said "the whole scene looked like a living hell."

The ill-fated ship, flying 30 feet off the ground, in clear weather was attempting an emergency landing after one of the motors caught fire. It rammed into a transformer on the high tension wire at 12:41 p. m. (E.S.T.) The time was set because the crash cut off electric clocks at a nearby colliery. The plane veered away from a 265-foot-high coal breaker at the colliery. Had it hit it would have killed or injured 80 miners working in the breaker.

Stage Figures Perish

Among passengers on the coast-to-coast plane were Earl Carroll, famous theatrical producer; Mrs. Jack Oakie, divorced wife of the film comedian; Actress Beryl Wallace and two infants.

(News of the crash brought excited whisperings from Republican National Convention delegates gathering in Philadelphia. There was no indication, however, that any of those killed was a GOP delegate.)

Harry Stibitz said he was standing about 50 feet from the power line when the plane struck it.

"I turned to look up," he said, "and saw a mass of fire, explosions, plane wreckage and bodies hurling through the air."

"Flames and smoke flew about 90 feet in the air. The whole scene looked like a living hell."

Coroner John Evans said 16 bodies had been recovered.

"We don't expect to get any more," he said.

Ed Darlington of Radio Station WCNR at nearby Bloomsburg said "there was no sign of life and apparently everyone was killed."

He said "bodies and arms and legs were strewn all over the place. The plane just broke up into little pieces. One of the engines was the biggest thing left."

Burst Into Flames

State police said the plane burst into flames after hitting the wire which carried 60,000 volts, and then caromed 200 feet into a hillside.

They said the pilot, Capt. George Warner, jr., of Westmont, Ill., was attempting to pancake the plane on a long, wide smooth bed of coal dirt when he hit the transformer.

The crackup took place in the eastern Pennsylvania anthracite area, 4 miles from Mount Carmel and 135 miles from Philadelphia.

Fred Womer, a mechanic, said he saw the plane as it flew over Kulpmont a few miles before it crashed.

"I was standing outside of the garage where I work when the plane flew over with its left motor smoking. It obviously was in distress."

Flames started a brush fire that

U. N. Sending 50 Of Security Force To Palestine Duty

Lake Success, June 17 (AP).—The United Nations today disclosed 50 members of its headquarters security force are being sent to Palestine for emergency duty.

This is the first time a uniformed U. N. force of any kind has been assigned to assist in the world organization's peace projects abroad.

While the detachment is not an international military force, it does constitute at least a step toward a world police force.

The detachment consists of 44 Americans, three French, one Norwegian, one Swede and one Dane, all volunteers. They will get $15 per day plus regular U. N. guard pay.

The guards will be flown to Cairo Saturday and will be placed under orders of Count Folke Bernadotte, U. N. Palestine mediator.

GOP Rejects D. C. 'Rebel' Delegation

Foley Group Loses Move to Unseat Regular Organization

By a Post Reporter

Philadelphia, June 17.—The Republican National Committee late today threw out the case of an insurgent District of Columbia delegation to the GOP national convention, headed by Paul J. Foley.

Barring favorable action on an appeal, which is not likely, the decision means that voteless Washington will be represented at the convention by the three delegates and three alternates of the most "regular" District of Columbia Republican organization.

Marvin Willig, attorney for the Foley group, had just denounced the regular organization for the manner in which it conducted registrations and elections leading up to the selection of delegates to Philadelphia.

Motion Is Carried

Werner Shroeder, national committeeman for Illinois, arose and moved that the matter be dismissed "for lack of a prima facie case."

Former United States Senator Felix Hebert, national committeeman for Rhode Island, protested and insisted that Willig be allowed to use up the remainder of his time to finish stating his case.

Ezra R. Whitla of Idaho, chairman of the Convention Contest Committee, who was presiding, agreed and told Willig to use up his remaining three minutes. Then he put Shroeder's motion to a vote.

The motion was carried by a voice vote, with only a few dissents.

Joseph C. McGarraghy, vice chairman of the Republican State Committee for the District of Columbia, was ready to refute Willig's argument. The decision of the committee, however, made further oratory unnecessary.

District Meeting Called

James C. Wilkes, chairman of the Republican State Committee for the District, later called a meeting of officers and delegates and alternates in the Bellevue-Stratford.

He said they were going to work on the draft of a proposed plank for national representation for the District. In other convention years, the delegation has urged that citizens of the District be given the

Planks Stop Republicans On Platform

Influx of Ideas Baffles Committee On Streamlined Job

By Robert C. Albright
Post Reporter

Philadelphia, June 17.—The Republican Resolution Committee, streamlined to write a postage-stamp platform, today struggled with enough planks to floor Convention Hall.

Nine separate GOP subcommittees, spread across the city, took tomes of testimony on everything from the failings of the Eightieth Congress to home rule for the District of Columbia.

The subcommittees went to work on the platform after Chairman Henry Cabot Lodge, jr. (Mass.), organizing for the conventions' ticklish writing job, temporarily bridged a civil rights rift in his own party.

Civil Rights Plank

Before the opening meeting was well under way, Orville Bullington of Texas, raised a mild ruckus about non-South representation on the unit charged with recommending a civil rights plank.

Lodge suggested that delegates from Kentucky and the District were represented, but Bullington shot back:

"That's not the Deep South."

A hint from Lodge that nothing prevented a member from another State "swopping" assignments with Bullington was promptly taken by Mrs. Agnes Jones Gifford of New Jersey. She offered her subcommittee seat to the 6-foot Texan, who was partially appeased. But he told reporters he would fight GOP indorsements of pending anti-poll tax, antilynching and FEPC legislation, that are practically taken for granted here.

Bullington's Idea

"We ought to handle those things by constitutional amendments," said Bullington. "It's high time the South became a two-party country. We don't want to pull any Democratic chestnuts out of the fire."

For the balance of the day, the nine subcommittees sped witnesses through in five-minute hitches. There will be more talk tomorrow and then a special drafting committee will start condensing it into what Lodge hopes will be a "300-word declaration of prin-

East of Wisconsin

Georgetown Rezoning Order Bans Stores and Apartments

The District Zoning Commission yesterday approved zoning map amendments which will ban retail store expansion and new apartment houses in a Georgetown area east of Wisconsin ave. nw.

The action changes the area from commercial to restricted residential zoning.

The rezoning plan, requested by the Progressive Citizens Association of Georgetown, and the Georgetown Citizens Association, was supported by 12 witnesses at a hearing June 3.

Seven witnesses did not object to the plan in general, but opposed its application to particular properties they own or represent. None of these exceptions was granted by the commission

Properties affected by yesterday's decision include those on the south side of P st. nw., between Wisconsin ave. and 31st st.; north of O st. nw., between Wisconsin ave. and 31st.; both sides of 31st st. nw., between M and N sts.; both sides of Olive st. nw., between 27th and 30th st.; both sides of 28th and 29th sts. between Olive and M; and east side of 30th st. between Olive and M sts.

Similar rezoning of Georgetown areas west of Wisconsin ave. was approved by the Zoning Commission last February 25, after a sharp debate at a public hearing February 11.

Also granted by the commission yesterday was a change in zoning regulations which will permit nursery schools in residential districts, if approved by the Board of Zoning Adjustment.

This change was proposed by the Forest Hill Citizens Association and was unopposed at the June 3 hearing.

Truman Hits House GOP On Housing

Leaders Accused Of "Thwarting Democratic Process" In Blocking Vote

President Truman last night accused the House Republican leadership of "thwarting the democratic process" by refusing to allow a comprehensive housing program to come to a vote.

Developments on Capitol Hill yesterday made it clear, meanwhile, that if Congress adjourns Saturday there will in all probability be no housing legislation of any kind passed.

A House leadership-approved measure, minus public housing, slum clearance, urban redevelopment, and housing research, is scheduled to come to the House floor today.

Senate Chances Slim

It is given only a 50-50 chance of House passage and no chance at all of Senate acceptance. The Senate will insist on a conference on the Senate-passed Taft-Ellender-Wagner bill and there is scarcely any hope of conference agreement by Saturday night.

President Truman's slashing attack on GOP House leaders was made in a statement released and read to an audience around his private car at Indianapolis.

"It will be tragic if the comprehensive housing legislation which has been so long considered and which has come to the verge of final passage should be blocked by parliamentary devices which thwart the democratic process," Mr. Truman said.

"But if this is to be the case, the American people should know just how it was done and by whom."

GOP Leadership Hit

"The Republican leadership has thus decreed that the House shall vote only upon the emasculated housing legislation which the Republican leadership wants, and that it shall never be allowed to vote upon the kind of housing legislation which the people of this country need and want."

Then the President added that the House Rules Committee had deliberately "bottled up" the long-range TEW housing bill after the House Banking Committee, with the aid of "three forward-looking Republicans," had reported it out.

"I don't think you people ought to stand for that," the President said.

There is support for the President's position on both sides of Capitol Hill.

House Minority Leader Sam Rayburn (D., Tex.) said last night that "a very great majority" of the Democratic Party in the House will vote against the measure introduced by Chairman Jesse P. Wolcott (R., Mich.) of the House Banking and Currency Committee.

In order to bar any chance of offering public housing amendments to the Wolcott bill or sending it back to committee, the

Strikes Cramp Industry Abroad

Strikes in Britain, Belgium and France last night involved 347,000 workers with the most serious situation at Clermont-Ferrand, France.

The Communist-run General Confederation of Labor scheduled a one-hour token general strike throughout France for Saturday. A Belgian government spokesman said walkouts there were paralyzing the nation's industrial potential. Complete details on Page 23.

Third Veto Is Overriden By Congress

Leaders Warn of Similar Action If Any More Come From White House

By The Associated Press

An angry Congress yesterday overrode the third presidential veto in four days and leaders warned that if any more vetoes come from the White House they will be overridden too.

The triple play is enough to make history. Never before have three major bills been vetoed into law over a President's "I forbid" in a single week.

By a vote of 297 to 102, yesterday the House joined the Senate which yesterday overrode Mr. Truman's rejection of the Bulwinkle bill. This measure lets railroads make rate agreements, under certain circumstances, without fear of the antitrust laws.

Truman Vetoes Total 137

Sixty-nine Democrats joined 228 Republicans today to pile up the 297 total—31 more than the two thirds majority needed to override.

Four Republicans sided with 96 Democrats and two American Labor Party members in a futile effort to back up the President.

Truman Hurrying Back 'To Veto More Bills'

President Truman yesterday told a train crowd at East St. Louis, Ill., that he was hurrying back to Washington "to veto some more bills." The President is due here today. Story on Page 12.

On his campaign swing through the West he called the present Congress the worst in history—or at least the second worst.

Mr. Truman has vetoed 137 bills since he became President, and 131 of his vetoes have been upheld.

He vetoed 76 bills during the Seventy-ninth (1945-46) Congress, and all stuck. The first session of the GOP-controlled Eightieth Congress (1947) upheld 31 and overrode only 1, the Taft-Hartley Act.

Five Vetoes Overridden

The current session of Congress has received 29 vetoes, and has overriden 5. Those overturned in addition to the three this week were on the income-tax cut and on exempting news vendors from social security.

The two others batted down this week were:

1. A social security bill which Mr. Truman claimed would bar 750,000 persons from old age benefits. (Action taken Monday).

2. A $975,914,700 appropriation bill which the President turned down because it transfers the United States Employment Service from the Labor Department to the Federal Security Agency. (Wednesday).

Bulwinkle Bill Outlined

Mr. Truman had rejected the Bulwinkle bill, which became law yesterday despite his veto, because he said it is "inconsistent" with a "vigorous antimonopoly program."

The bill says railroads and other surface carriers cannot be prosecuted under the antitrust laws for getting together and making agreements on rates and fares, provided the agreements are approved by the Interstate Commerce Commission.

William T. Faricy, president of the Association of American Railroads, said the bill would aid orderly regulation of railroad rates.

Filibuster Threatened

Leaders Question Adjournment Of Congress by Saturday Night

By Mary Spargo
Post Reporter

House Speaker Joseph W. Martin, jr., and Senator Robert A. Taft (R., Ohio) last night agreed that it is "very doubtful" if Congress can adjourn as scheduled Saturday night.

A threatened Senate filibuster of draft legislation is the immediate cause of the Congressional leaders' predictions, but both sides also are faced with a huge stack of unfinished business.

Taft, chairman of the Senate GOP Policy Committee, said that if Senator Glen H. Taylor (D., Idaho) and others opposed to the draft carry out their proposed filibuster, the Senate will hold members in session until it is broken.

Taft said that if necessary the Senate will hold token meetings every three days during the Republican convention in Philadelphia.

On the House side Martin appeared to favor a recess until after the Democratic convention in July.

Other hitches have developed, too. House Democrats, angered at the GOP-dominated Rules Committee for refusing to allow them to vote on the Taft-Ellender-Wagner housing bill have started to drag their heels and slow the GOP rush toward adjournment.

House Minority Leader Sam Rayburn (D., Tex.), angrily lashed out yesterday and told the House he could show the Republicans something about "noncooperation" if that is what they were looking for.

On top of this Southern Senators are worried that the GOP leadership will try to jam through an anti-lynching bill sometime today.

For this reason they prolonged debate on a long-range farm program and plunged the Senate into a session that Senate Republican Whip Kenneth S. Wherry said would last "until midnight" anyway.

If Congress fails to adjourn, the GOP platform makers at Philadelphia will be confronted with a number of major embarrassments.

What can they say about civil rights, housing, poll taxes, curbs on communism and a host of other issues if a Republican Congress has to return and act on these measures?

The leadership of both houses yesterday were willing to toss overboard virtually all major legislation except the draft, farm, hous-

Compromise Allows Entry Of 205,000

Measure Now Goes Back to Both Houses For Final Action

By The Associated Press

Senate-House conferees agreed last night on a compromise bill to let 205,000 homeless Europeans into this country during the next two years.

The bill, which now goes back to both houses for final action, also would allow up to 15,000 aliens now visiting in this country to remain as permanent residents.

Two of the seven House conferees refused to approve the compromise, which eases some of the restrictions voted earlier by the Senate but retains others. Two of the five Senators, Ferguson (R., Mich.) and Kilgore (D., W. Va.) had not signed the conferees' report when it was made public.

For 3000 Orphans

As approved by a majority of the conferees, the bill provides for the entry of 200,000 "eligible" displaced persons, 2000 persons who fled Czechoslovakia after the Communists took over and 3000 orphans under 16.

They kept the Senate provision that "eligible" DPs are those who entered German or Austrian occupation zones before December 22, 1945.

Representative Celler (D., N. Y.), one of the conferees, said this requirement "completely scuttles" the bill because it "removes from eligibility most of the displaced Jews." Many Jews arrived in the occupation zones early in 1946.

Celler and Representative Boggs (R., Del.) were the House members who refused to sign the report.

The compromise also provides that at least 40 per cent of the 200,000 shall come from areas that have been annexed by a foreign country. In practice, this means from Lithuania, Latvia, Estonia and eastern Poland.

Discrimination Is Seen

The Senate had voted that half the DPs admitted must come from those areas. Critics objected that this would discriminate against Catholics since Latvia and the other areas covered are almost entirely Protestant.

Another provision approved by the conferees is that 30 per cent of the immigrants must be farmers who intend to be farm workers in this country. The Senate had

Retreat Might Mean War, Marshall Says

House Unit Warned Present Firm Policy Must Be Continued

Post Reporter

Secretary Marshall warned the House Foreign Affairs Committee yesterday that any retreat from the present firm policy of the United States might end in war.

These were the Secretary's grave words, as quoted later by Chairman Charles A. Eaton (R., N. J.) during the House debate on the draft:

"It is quite clear that recessions from our present line of action for the security of the United States would be most unfortunate and might lead to what we are trying so hard to avoid—that is war."

Statement Authorized

Eaton said he had been authorized to disclose the Secretary's warning. The circumstances of the disclosure were unusual.

Representative John E. Rankin (D., Miss.), an opponent of the draft but not a member of the Foreign Affairs Committee, had said earlier in the debate that Marshall did not believe in the danger of war.

Representative Arthur L. Miller (R., Nebr.), another draft foe, told a similar story. Finally Eaton announced he had telephoned Marshall and obtained his permission to deny the story.

"I'm not going to tell you what he did say, but I can tell you what he did not say," Eaton told the House. "He did not say there is no danger of war."

However, he quoted the one sentence about the effects of any backtracking by the United States.

Marshall Before Committee

Marshall had gone before the committee at 8 o'clock yesterday morning at his own suggestion. He thought committee members might like him to review the world situation before Congress adjourned, and he also wanted to thank Eaton and the committee for their support of the Administration's foreign policy in the past year.

As usual at such meetings, testimony is supposed to be secret, but several members talked about it later. Eaton told reporters that

Opponents Cripple Bill By Series Of Changes

Sponsors Pin Hopes On Conference; No Real Effort Made to Stop Revolt

By John G. Norris
Post Reporter

Torn by emasculating amendments, the 19-through-25 years draft bill was carried to the point of passage in the House last night.

Filibustering tactics of leftwing opponents blocked final action until this morning, but the riddled measure is assured of a favorable House vote then.

Many Members Absent

Most of the time there was only a quarter to a half of the membership of the House present as the holes were hacked in the bill. Sponsors made no determined attempt to stop the rebellion and failed to ask for a single roll-call vote on any of the amendments.

They rest their hopes on throwing out the most crippling of the changes in conference. Once finally passed today by the House, the bill will be handed to a joint conference committee to adjust differences between the Senate and House versions.

The Senate bill conforms largely to the House text before the latter was torn almost to bits on the floor.

But Congressional supporters of Henry A. Wallace aim to block adoption of the final conference version by filibuster tactics. That was why Vito Marcantonio, American Labor Party Representative from New York, headed off a final House vote last night.

He demanded that an "engrossed copy of the bill" be read before voting—a technicality rarely raised. As it takes hours to reprint the final text, Speaker Joe Martin (R., Mass.) had to put the bill over until today.

Another member of the Wallace bloc announced that unless the conference committee approved delay of the draft until 1949, several of his colleagues would filibuster it to death in the Senate.

The spokesman—Representative Adam Powell (D., N. Y.)—told the House that Acting Majority Leader Kenneth Wherry (R., Nebr.) had said the Senate would adjourn Saturday night, whether or not the draft bill has passed. Wherry is an opponent of selective service.

Senator Glen Taylor (D., Idaho), Wallace's vice presidential running mate, said he was ready to launch the Senate filibuster against the draft.

"The draft should be a campaign issue," he said. "I intend to do everything I can to see that the bill does not pass at this session."

Taft Promises Action

But Senator Robert A. Taft (R., Ohio), GOP policy chief in the upper body, said that Republican leaders were "certainly not" going to let a filibuster kill the draft bill.

"We are not going to let Taylor say what we can pass and what we can't," Taft told reporters. "We will come back if we have to."

Congress hopes to adjourn for the year Saturday if it can complete its business, but can return after the Republican national convention next week if necessary.

It was reported in military circles that Pentagon chiefs view the present House version of the bill as "worse than nothing at all." They probably will ask President Truman to veto the measure unless it is considerably strengthened in conference, and call back

Passage Questioned

Clark Doubts Constitutionality Of Bill Outlawing Communism

Attorney General Tom Clark doubts the constitutionality of the Mundt-Nixon bill to outlaw Communism, and has advised the Senate against its passage.

In a letter made public by Chairman Wiley (R., Wis.) of the Senate Judiciary Committee, Clark said:

"Outlawing of the Communist Party appears to this department to be unwise, even if its (the Justice Department's) doubts as to the constitutionality of such a step were removed."

Clark's opinion was given at the request of the committee.

Clark said he believes passage of the bill would drive Communists underground, and that "outlawing would materially increase the department's problem of law enforcement."

Meanwhile the House committee on Un-American Activities said yesterday United States Communists are engaged in "cold war treason" in a Russian-directed plot to shift the capital from Washington to Moscow.

"If our war with communism should ever change from 'cold' to 'hot,' we can expect the Communists of the United States to fight against the flag of this country openly," the committee said.

The House-passed Mundt-Nixon bill, now before the Judiciary Committee, would require Communists and Communist-front organizations to register. Failure to do so could be punished by $10,000 fine and 10 years' imprisonment.

[The United Press reported that Chairman Wiley said action on the Mundt-Nixon bill before Congress adjourns is impossible.

New Ambassador From Argentina Finds Washington 'A Magnificent City'

"Washington is a magnificent city for work and living, it's so peaceful."

It's only a first impression, but it's the first impression of Geromimo Remorino, newly arrived Ambassador to the United States from Argentina. Or, at least it's what Francisco Fabian, his private secretary and interpreter, said he said.

Ambassador Remorino speaks Spanish fluently, and French and Italian well. He even admits to a smattering of Portuguese. He doesn't speak English. But he's learning. Within a half hour yesterday he had learned how to say "OFF THE RECORD."

The Ambassador should get along well in Washington. He's 46, a bachelor, has a sense of humor that breaks the language barrier, and admits liking night life. He also rides horseback, but, as he said (through Fabian) Argentinians learn that before they learn how to walk.

Other Accomplishments

On the less interesting side, he is a businessman, a banker, and most of all a legal editor. Just what that entails wasn't made too clear, but it had something to do with his being a director of Argentina's authority on legal printed matter. Anyway, the job (position) pays top scale in the government's salary brackets for journalists.

His present position as Ambassador is his first in the diplomatic service, he said. He got it, he said he believes, because he came to know President Peron in connection with banking activities. Apparently, he said, the President felt he could do the work. The question was apparently embarrassing, perhaps because of a sense of modesty.

On second thought, or interchange between the Ambassador and his secretary, another factor cropped out. The Ambassador "has a sympathy, or liking for the United States, and President Peron must have known that."

Geronimo (Jerome) Remorino was born in Buenos Aires, November 15, 1902, son of a family which had already made its fortune in the cattle business. The depressions of 1913 and 1928-30, however, were to wipe out that head start.

'Two Were One Too Many'

"Two (depressions) were one too many for most of us," he said.

He was educated in Cordoba, his country, and at the university there, where he received his law foundation for the legal journalism that followed. He also studied postgraduate law in Paris, for short periods during 1945-46-47.

In between, he legally represented Argentinians trying to collect on Peruvian bonds, once as commercial manager of Argentine government airlines, and from 1946 to his appointment and first visit to United States, he was director of postal savings n Argentina.

Ambassador Remorino looks like a typical businessman. His hair is graying and dsappearing. He dresses well, and conservatively. For physical statistics, he is one meter, 74 centimeters tall and weighs 75 kilos. He smokes cigarettes (American, at $1 a pack in B. A.), and has a 1947 Cadillac, back home in Buenos Aires.

The Ambassador said he had no present plans except to start on the "paper" work of being an Ambassador, and to organize his staff at the embassy, at 1815 Q st. nw. Later maybe he can find time for a canter along Rock Creek Park bridle paths.

prevented would-be rescuers from trying to save the 37 adult passengers, two babies and four crew members aboard.

Shortly before the crash, the DC-6 radioed New York that it was making an "emergency descent." the radio conversation between the stricken plane and La Guardia Field was intercepted by the pilot of another United Airlines' plane in the vicinity, Capt. Earl Bach. At 1:33 p. m. EDT, he heard the DC-6 radio:

"New York, New York, this is an emergency descent."

New York asked for a repeat of the message but there was no reply and Bach heard no more radio messages. Later Bach flew over the site where the plane crashed.

There was no immediate indication what caused the pilot to come down for an emergency landing. The ceiling was 5500 feet and visibility was eight miles with the sun breaking through partly cloudy skies.

A member of the fire company at Wilberton, a little town near which the DC-6 crashed, said that the pilot came in low through the Podono Mountain Valley and seemed to be trying to find a place to land, heading first for a fairly flat garbage dump.

"But then suddenly, it shot up the hill," he said. "It turned suddenly and the next thing there was an explosion."

More than 1200 miners had to walk out of their underground tunnel within an hour after the crash.

Destruction of the power transformer shut off elevators, ventilation and water pumps in the mine.

The DC-6, one of the newest and fastest of airliners, had been restored to service only last March 15 after being grounded since November as a result of two fires in flight, one of which caused a crash at Bryce Canyon, Utah, with the 52 persons aboard killed. During the grounding, modifications had been made to eliminate the fire hazard.

The plane, flight No. 624, had left San Diego at 1:05 a. m. (EDT) today. It stopped at Los Angeles and again at Chicago and was on its way to La Guardia field. At the New York airport, 12 adults and two small children were grief-stricken to learn of the crash. They had been waiting for relatives aboard.

The plane was due in New York at 1 p. m. (EST).

The Civil Aeronautics Board immediately dispatched four accident investigators to the scene.

The pilot, Warner, was 34 years old and had been with United Airlines since 1946.

State Police were handicapped in getting fire engines to the scene. Only one engine could be sent from Mount Carmel because the others were in a firemen's convention parade at Sunbury, 30 miles away.

Carroll, 55, who gained fame on Broadway with his "Vanities" and who currently had been operating a night club in Hollywood, was en route to the Republican National Convention in Philadelphia. Beryl Wallace was leading lady in Carroll's floor show.

The death of Carroll ended a theatrical career during which he had been on the top, along with the late Florenz Ziegfeld, on Broadway only to go bankrupt in 1936 and then make a comeback two years later on the West Coast.

In 1924 he was acquitted of obscenity charges for displaying nude pictures of his chorus girls.

In 1926, Joyce Hawley, a model, disrobed and bathed in champagne before some 400 guests in his New York theater. Carroll denied the charge and was convicted of perjury, serving a year in Federal prison at Attlanta, Ga.

He was known as the "glorifier of the American girl," and, in 1922, he placed a sign above the stage door of his Vanities revue which read:

"Through these portals pass the most beautiful girls in the world."

2 Go Free, Gaming Arrests Held Illegal

Gambling charges against two men were dismissed in Municipal Court yesterday when Judge Walter J. Casey ruled their arrests were illegal.

Vice Squad Detective W. A. Dalrymple testified he saw several men approach Peter T. Pape, 47, of 1711 28th pl. se., in the 1700 block of G st. nw. on May 24. One man handed Pape some money, said Dalrymple, and he arrested Pape after he saw him making some notes on a piece of paper.

In the second case, Richard E. Miller, 38, of 1208 49th pl. ne., was allegedly observed on June 12 "making notations" on a piece of paper in the 4800 block of Deane ave. ne. Pvt. T. J. Thomas of the Eleventh Precinct said Miller tore up the paper when he appeared, but a book of numbers slips was found in Miller's possession.

Judge Casey, in freeing Pape, who was charged with accepting a bet, and Miller, charged with possession of numbers slips, said the police could not have observed the actual commission of a misdemeanor in these cases.

Assistant United States Attorney Warren Wilson unsuccessfully argued that the arrests were legal in that the officers had good reason to believe the two men were in possession of contraband.

With Combination

Thief Loots Safe of $1500 The Easy Way

Safe crackers who take pride in their profession will no doubt wince when they read this. It was too easy.

A thief got into the fourth-floor offices of the American Automobile Association in the Mills Building, 17th st. and Pennsylvania ave. nw., and rifled the safe of $1500 to $2000 in cash.

How? Easy, he jimmied open drawers in three desks and finally found what he sought—the safe combination neatly written on a slip of paper.

He was a tidy thief, he was. He did not disturb the checks or documents in the safe and before leaving the office he returned the slip of paper bearing the combination to its rightful place.

The theft was reported to police by Frederick M. Blum of 6157 30th st. nw., AAA auditor. He said the thief entered the office, which was closed from 5:15 p. m. Wednesday to 8 a. m. yesterday, by forcing a transom.

Too Much Talk Causes Death Of Barber

Too much talk in a barber shop caused the death yesterday of a barber.

Leroy Lovelace, 34, 306 North Fairfax st., Alexandria, died in Alexandria Hospital, where he was taken after a fight over words with another man.

Witnesses told police Lovelace was at work at the shop at 404 Princess st. late Wednesday afternoon when he got in a discussion with Richard E. Delaney over the meaning of the words "respect" and "intelligence." The talk became an argument and finally a fight, they said. It was not clear who struck first.

Friends said Lovelace seemed all right, but later in the evening complained of having trouble breathing. Taken to the hospital at 10:30 p. m., he died on the operating table shortly after midnight.

Delaney, a stocky 21-year-old bootblack, who also lived at 306 N. Fairfax st., told police he merely shoved Lovelace to repel an attack. Police held him without bond on a charge of murder.

No certificate of death has been issued. But hospital doctors said Lovelace died of neck injuries which stopped up his wind pipe. They said they could have been caused by a blow or by choking.

Driving Permit Suspensions Drop 16% in May

Suspensions of driving permits and privileges here dropped 16 per cent during May, the Board of Revocation and Restoration of Operators' Permits announced yesterday.

In May, the board said, a total of 400 District drivers had permits suspended or revoked, 279 out-of-town motorists lost driving privileges here, and 19 drivers were placed on the "blacklist" and permanently banned from driving.

All categories showed a decrease from April when 524 District drivers lost permits, 288 out-of-the-city operators lost privileges, and 21 were consigned to the "blacklist," the board reported.

Leading causes for suspension were speeding (first offens) and involvement in accidents, board officials said.

Judge Held Unlikely to Grant New Trial in Seduction Case

Arlington Circuit Court Judge Walter T. McCarthy yesterday indicated he will not grant a new trial in the Fuller seduction case, despite the admitted "confusion" of a juror who concurred in the guilty verdict.

Defendant Guy H. Fuller, jr., 19, received a two-year term in the State Penitentiary when found guilty of seducing 17-year-old Shirley Jackson, 2829 N. 15th st., Arlington.

Fuller's attorneys yesterday put the juror, Earle R. Hough of 4605 N. 17th st., Arlington, on the stand to explain his confusion as to jury instructions in the case.

Hough admitted he had earlier said: "My verdict was not my honest verdict . . . there was considerable confusion" in the instructions.

Asked by Judge McCarthy why he had concurred in the guilty verdict when he was not certain it was right, Hough said that "since the majority (of the jury) felt that should be the verdict, I consented and agreed."

Judge McCarthy said he would study the defense motion to set aside the guilty verdict and give his decision later, but indicated he would not call for a new trial "because of this juror's testimony."

Evins Held for Jury as Wife Tells of Shooting in Home

The Washington Post

AFTER TESTIFYING IN SHOOTING—Mrs. Elizabeth Evins (left) leaves Arlington Courthouse in an automobile with her mother, Mrs. W. H. Winston. Mrs. Evins said her husband shot her and their year-old son after an argument

Herman D. Evins, 32, was held yesterday for action of the Arlington grand jury in the shooting and wounding of his wife and year-old son on May 12.

His wife, Mrs. Elizabeth Evins, 23, just out of the hospital, unfolded the story of the tragedy in a quiet Arlington County Court room. The defendant, a former Army sergeant, has been employed in Washington by the Army Map Service.

She revealed she had spurned a bracelet sent her by her husband after the shooting, while she was recuperating in the Arlington Hospital.

The shooting occurred in the upstairs bathroom of the home of Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Winston, Mrs. Evins' parents, at 4100 N. 37th st., Arlington, where the young couple was living.

The gift bracelet, Mrs. Evins testified yesterday, had the words "Semper Fidelis"—always faithful—engraved on it. Both she and her husband had had the same words inscribed on their wedding bands, she added. Mrs. Evans did not wear her wedding ring in court yesterday.

The post-shooting gift from her husband, she said yesterday, made her "mad," and was, she added bitterly, "to me . . . a joke."

Before the preliminary hearing began, Mrs. Evins replied "I sure do," when asked whether or not she wished to testify against her husband.

Pale but composed, she described how her husband had returned home about 9 p. m. May 12, how they had argued, and how she then had asked him to leave her.

When he refused, she said, she began to move their son, Robert, and herself from Evins' room to another room for the night.

Evins met her in the hall, saying: "Betty, I want to talk with you." Her baby on her arm, she followed him into the bathroom, she said.

Here, she testified, her husband "didn't say a word, just stuck his hand in his pocket and pulled out a gun. I screamed."

She remembered hearing "several shots," then came to to find herself lying on the bathroom floor, the baby beside her, his head in a pool of blood, she said. Standing over her, she added, was her husband.

Evins told police, after signing a statement, that the shooting was the result of "in-law trouble" in his home.

According to his wife yesterday, in addition to the Evinses, their child, and the Winstons, two other sisters of Mrs. Evins also lived in the house—Mrs. Ephraim Hansell, her husband and baby, and Mrs. Marjory Gaddey and her two children.

Evins entered a plea of innocent and did not testify.

Hyderabad Won't Join Up

New Delhi, India, June 17 (U.P.). Hyderabad declined the latest invitation to join the Indian Dominion today and Premier Jawaharlal Nehru spoke openly of war on the issue.

GOP Congress Backs Better Deal For Elephants

It may be just a coincidence, but the Republican-controlled Congress has come out strongly in favor of better care and treatment for elephants.

The House trumpeted its approval yesterday of a bill which calls for humane treatment to wild animals brought into the country. The Senate had acted previously so the measure now goes to President Truman.

In a report accompanying the bill, the House Commerce Committee referred to a shipment of elephants from India.

The animals, accustomed to warm weather, arrived on the deck of a ship in February—"practically unprotected from the icy, salt waves which broke over them," said the Congressmen. They—the elephants—"were white with salt, shivering and moaning and very near death." Four had died en route.

Capital View Home Owners Protest Liquor Store Transfer

Approximately 20 Capital View home-owners appeared before the Alcoholic Beverage Control Board yesterday to protest the proposed transfer of a package liquor store from 801 4th st. sw. to 5323 E. Capitol st.

The transfer had been requested by Hyman and Tillie Ellman, holders of the Class A license, ABC officials said.

The home-owners said their neighborhood was one of the "outstanding" residential sections of Washington and that the store would bring a "nuisance" to the area, ABC spokesmen revealed.

They also reminded the board that not many police are available to patrol the area. The transfer also was opposed by the Capital View Citizens Association, officials said.

"Five or six" persons appeared to support the Ellmans' petition, they added. ABC took the case under advisement following the hearing.

The Rev. C. H. Hickerson of Beth-Eden Missionary Baptist Church said yesterday he does not condone drinking and did not mean to defend the use of alcoholic beverages at an Alcoholic Beverage Control Board hearing Wednesday.

He said that although he told ABC he was "not opposed" to granting a license to sell packaged beer and wine at 2600 Wade rd. se., he believes "everyone should be a total abstainer."

In clarifying his stand, he said he attended the hearing only as a "spectator" and was called as a witness "without my consent."

Traffic Safety Drive 'Shocks' Given Out

Distribution of 250,000 traffic safety pamphlets—designed to "shock" parents into realizing their responsibilities for teaching children to be careful—began yesterday in 45 Greater Washington theaters.

Issue of the booklets was the third move in the summer safety program sponsored by the Commissioners' Traffic Advisory Board and the Department of Vehicles and Traffic.

Distribution is being handled through the Motion Picture Theater Owners of Metropolitan D. C.

Front page of the booklet shows two pictures of a 5-year-old girl. In the first, she is playing happily in a sandbox at 2 p. m. In the second, at 2:10 p. m., she is sprawled out on the street, a victim of a traffic accident.

At the top of the page in red letters is the word "murdered" and the phrase "by her own Mother . . ."

"That's what it adds up to when a child is killed by her mother's negligence," the brief text points out. "Just a word of caution during any one of these ten minutes would have saved this child's life. Don't murder YOUR little son or daughter through neglect. Your child may be the next to DIE!"

A. Julian Brylawski, chairman of the committee that prepared the booklet, said the committee felt "justified" in using this somewhat "brutal" language. "We want to shock parents enough to do their part," he explained.

Two other campaigns of the summer program were launched earlier this month. One was an essay contest for children, the other a distribution of 15,000 bumper strips urging motorists to "Give the kids the brakes."

Any Greater Washington child 14 years old or under may enter the contest by writing a 100-word essay on what children should do to avoid traffic accidents. Entries should be sent to Room 1008, New Municipal Center, before midnight, July 1.

About 50 prizes will be awarded for the best essays. Approximately 1000 entries have been received, contest officials said.

Alabama Woman Asks to Drop Suits Against Gov. Folsom

Cullman, Ala., June 17.— (U.P.) Mrs. Christine Putman Johnston today abruptly asked dismissal of her suits against Gov. James E. Folsom because, she said, she was being used as a political tool against the big Governor.

Mrs. Johnston

The red-haired divorcee filed her petition personally.

It appeared to have been prepared by an attorney, court attaches said, but not by her regular one, Kingman Shelburne of Birmingham.

Shelburne hurried here and filed objections to dismissal of the suit pertaining to the legitimacy of Mrs. Johnston's son.

Governor Folsom's candidates were trounced in the Alabama primary and he ran last for national Democratic delegate-at-large in the runoff primary.

Mrs. Johnston explained that her idea of common-law marriage apparently was not the same as defined by law.

"Your petitioner has reached the conclusion that she and the defendant (Folsom) never lived together as man and wife openly and notoriously nor held themselves out to friends and acquaintances to be man and wife then," her petition said.

"But there was only an indefinite understanding by your petitioner that defendant would marry her at some future time not certain."

Since the filing of the suits Folsom married Jamelle Moore, 21-year-old former State employe.

Mrs. Johnston had tried to have herself established as Folsom's common-law wife and to have her son, James Douglas Folsom, legitimized.

She asked that both suits be dismissed. Judge James H. Crow, jr., said he would rule on Attorney Shelburne's objections July 1.

Youths Hear 4-H Methods Aid Recovery

Scientific farming methods taught and practiced by 4-H clubs throughout the country are not only a boon to American agriculture but also vital to world economic recovery and peace, 200 4-H youths from 47 States and Puerto Rico were told yesterday.

Here for a week-long encampment, the farm-minded youngsters heard W. Arthur Minor, assistant to the Secretary of Agriculture, point out that American scientific farming methods can help greatly in the recovery of the economies of Western European nations. He addressed the group in the Jefferson Auditorium at the Agriculture Department.

Later in the day the group toured the White House and last night heard Bess Furman Armstrong, of the New York Times Washington bureau, in a talk on "It's Your Washington."

Today's program includes visits to the House and Senate and the Supreme Court. Among eight persons cited yesterday for outstanding service to the 4-H Club movement was Delos L. James, head of the agricultural division of the United States Chamber of Commerce. A State award went to Miss Gertrude L. Warren, club organizational specialist with the extension service of the Agriculture Department.

A cold shower's dandy—but keep your coolness handy! Get into a Bond
TROPICAL WORSTED
—at a freezing LOW 33.75

Yes, your BOND Tropical Worsted comfortably takes over where your morning shower lets off. And it will have you just as band-box fresh and neat at 6 p.m. as you were at 8 in the morning. That's the beauty of our tropical weave worsteds. They're your insurance for a full day of smooth sailing—whether you're beating the hot pavements or braving rush hour crowds. There's no wilt, pucker, bag or sag. And none of that loosely tossed together look of so many "summer suits". These crisp Bond-tailored hairline weaves, jaunty two-tone stripes, cool-looking solid shades give you the soft drape and superb fit of your regular weight worsted. And they're Bond-priced right down at rock-bottom to make it easy for you to have a couple of 'em. Get yours before the big heat gets one day closer!

'Liz' Whitney To Be Bride Of Dr. Person

Mrs. Mary Elizabeth Whitney, noted horsewoman, will celebrate her forty-second birthday today by becoming the bride of Dr. Cooper Person, 38, assistant professor of surgery at Cornell University and an attendant surgeon at the New York Hospital.

The ceremony at 5 p. m. will take place at the bride's estate, Llangollen Farms near Upperville, Va. The Rev. C. J. Ryley, rector of Trinity Episcopal Church, Upperville, will officiate and a combined wedding reception and birthday party will be held following the ceremony.

The bride will be given in marriage by William H. Jackson of New York, president of the New York Hospital and a life long friend.

Mrs. Ogden Phipps of New York will be matron of honor and Dr. Robert Hastings Melchionna of New York, will be Dr. Person's best man.

Attending the ceremony will be Mrs. Richard Norris and Mrs. Thomas Jeffries of Philadelphia, aunts of the bride; Dr. Person's mother, Mrs. E. Cooper Person of New York, and his three sisters, Mrs. Walter Crouch of Greensboro, N. C.; Mrs. Jock Hollister of New Bern, N. C., and Mrs. Frank Kugler of Nashville, Tenn.

The former Liz Altemus of Philadelphia, received Llangollen, a 2000-acre estate in the Blue Ridge foothills, and a reported three million dollars, at the time of her divorce from John Hay (Jock) Whitney in 1940. Whitney subsequently married Mrs. Betsy Cushing Roosevelt, former wife of James Roosevelt, son of the late President Franklin D. Roosevelt and Mrs. Roosevelt.

A recognized beauty, the bride was once mentioned for the part of Scarlet O'Hara in "Gone With the Wind."

She owns one of the finest stock farms in the country and her thoroughbreds have won innumerable ribbons in national horse-shows. Since the war Mrs. Whitney has devoted most of her time raising and breeding horses at Llangollen.

Methodists in 3 Ballots Fail to Elect 2 Bishops

Albany, N. Y., June 17 (AP).—The northeastern jurisdictional conference of the Methodist Church failed in three ballots tonight to select two new bishops after Dr. Ralph W. Sockman, who was closest to election in early morning, withdrew.

The leader in the third ballot was the Rev. Frederick B. Newell of the New York Society of Methodist Church, who, with 140 votes, was 52 short of the 192 required for selection.

Congregationalists Elect First Woman Moderator

Oberlin, Ohio, June 17 (AP).—For the first time in its seventy-seven-year history, the general council of the Congregational Christian Churches today elected a woman as its moderator—Miss Helen Kenyon of New York City.

She succeeds Dr. Albert W. Palmer of Los Angeles for the coming biennium. She is a graduate of Vassar College and was formerly chairman of Vassar's board of trustees. The denomination has a membership of slightly more than one million.

Thousands Return To Flooded Areas

Portland, Oreg., June 17 (AP).—Some of the 60,000 people driven from their homes by the Pacific Northwest's multimillion - dollar flood began returning today.

The death toll stood at 46 persons.

Saudi-Arabia Official Fears Palestine Truce Failure

Sheikh Ahmed Abdul Jabbar, First Secretary, Legation of Saudi-Arabia, last night expressed doubt that the truce between Palestine and the Arab world would last the stipulated four weeks.

"The Arabs will never give up their position on the partition question and the Jews are determined to stick to their demands," he declared in a dinner speech at the Woman's National Democratic Club at 1526 New Hampshire ave. nw.

"We Arabs are not against the Jews as Jews, but as Jewish invaders," explained Sheikh Jabbar." We would oppose any invader. We are determined to fight, and perish if necessary, in order to protect our country."

Sheikh Jabbar declared, "The partition plan which was drawn up by the United Nations and pushed through the General Assembly by applied pressure will never be accepted by the Arab League.

"Unchecked immigration of aliens would mean that in a short time the whole of Palestine would come under the control of the invader," he averred.

"We care very little whether the people in America or anywhere are pro or anti-Arab, he concluded. "But we care very much that the people will grant us a fair hearing of our side. And then we will cooperate for the greatest good of all peoples of the world."

Mrs. Julian Friant, [illegible] vice president of the club, presided and conducted a question - answer period.

Multiplicity of Planks Stalls Republican Platform Makers

ciples" plus a 1200-word elaboration of what GOP stands for in 1948.

The D. C. home rule recommendations were laid before a general "government affairs" unit, headed by Deane C. Davis of Vermont.

Mrs. Charles H. Hagerty of Washington, D. C., spoke for an informal group of nearly 40 organizations, including Home Rule Committee.

Mrs. Hagerty urged the unit to add a "local suffrage" for the District plank to the platform, supporting "as much home rule as is consistent with Federal interest."

Talk for Home Rule

She told the unsuccessful effort to get the Auchincloss bill through Congress at this session, and said Washington is practically the only capital in the world having no form of local suffrage.

Citing national support indicated by the Gallup Poll, she said Republicans should support it "both as a matter of principle and to relieve Congress of a heavy burden."

Mrs. Hagerty said she was batting for Mrs. J. Wesley Adams, chairman of the informal home rule group, which had planned to be present. Philip Watts of the Washington Home Rule Committee is expected to testify today. Representatives of Federal suffrage also may present their case.

The two shafts at the Eightieth Congress were hurled by Van A. Bittner, vice president of the CIO's United Steel Workers of America, and John Thomas Taylor, legislative director of the American Legion.

Van Bittner charged the GOP congressional leadership "breached" the 1944 Republican platform. He asked Taft-Hartley Act repeal, Wage-Hour Act improvements, strengthened social security, Federal aid to education, civil rights legislation and price controls.

Taylor accused Congress of "political expediency" in not passing universal military legislation. Specifically, he blamed the House Rules Committee for "denying Congress the right to vote on the most important question before it."

He said UMT legislation still might have been enacted hadn't Congress concentrated on a 70-group Air Force. "The Nation's young men are entitled to some kind of military training before they are thrown into the holocaust," the Legion representative added.

The Legion, which put its case before Lodge's own foreign relations and national defense subcommittee, also called on Republicans to give the Economic Cooperation Administration "sufficient funds to accomplish the purpose of the plan."

Testimony before Lodge's group ran the scale from right to left, winding up with the opposition to "militarization" and "misuse" of ERP from Dr. Clyde R. Miller for the "conference on pattern for survival."

Chairman Leon Henderson of Americans for Democratic Action asked a "clear, four-year commitment to carry on the European recovery program."

He said the long-term pledge is needed because "the recurrent threat of American withdrawal demoralizes the democratic forces, hampers long-range planning and provides fertile soil for the agents of disruption."

Two Republican Senators sat with Lodge on the ten-man foreign relations unit. They were Raymond E. Baldwin (Conn.) and Irving M. Ives (N. Y.). If there is one thing certain at this convention it is that Lodge and his two colleagues control a majority for a bipartisan plank in the Vandenberg tradition.

Adjournment Held Doubtful

ing and appropriation bills but even this apparently may not save them from reconvening.

Still confronting the Senate are two appropriation measures on which it has never acted.

These are the, Independent Offices Supplemental, and Deficiency bills.

Still pending in conference of the two Houses is the Foreign Aid Appropriation Act and the Navy and Government Corporations Appropriation bills.

No Action on Pay Hike

Neither House has yet acted either on bills to raise tn pay of postal and other Federal and District classified workers. Leaders on both sides say they hope to get these up.

Speaker Martin and Taft held several conferences during the day but failed to find any way to avoid a delay if Taylor, vice presidential candidate on the Wallace third party ticket, launches a filibuster against the draft.

The House has not yet acted upon farm legislation. Neither has it passed any sort of housing bill although there are House plans to bring one up today.

School Fund Cut In Montgomery May Be Restored

Montgomery County commissioners will attempt to restore about $67,000 in school funds not included in the final county budget adopted Wednesday.

Commissioner Charles H. Jamison, who could not attend the board meeting Wednesday at which a record $6,135,246 budget for 1948-49 was adopted, said yesterday he had called a special meeting of the board yesterday to devise some means of restoring the cut.

"I think the board of education should receive all of the $2,885,468 recommended by the county supervisor," Jamison declared, "but I want the tax rate to remain the same."

Alexandria Reports Spotted Fever Case

Alexandria Health Department yesterday reported the city's first case of Rocky Mountain spotted fever this year. The victim, a 58-year-old Chinquapin Village woman, was reported to be almost recovered from a mild attack. She had been hospitalized at Alexandria Hospital.

COOKING HUMANS...

is an old cannibal custom. But, when it's summer heat that makes you feel par-cooked, remember: "It's never too hot to be cool with ROMA Wine Coolers!"

Here's how to make ROMA Claret Punch. Combine 3 cups ROMA California Claret or Burgundy with 2 cups unsweetened pineapple juice in a large water pitcher or punch bowl. Add ice. Add 1 cup sparkling water and ¼ cup lemon juice and stir slightly. Add sugar to taste. Garnish with lemon slices . . . and serve six to eight delighted guests!

Be sure to use better-tasting ROMA Wines selected from the world's greatest reserves of fine wines. For free ROMA Cooler recipes, as seen in Life Magazine, write ROMA Wine Co., 911 Hobart Bldg., San Francisco 4, California.

POTATOES a-plenty!

Taters . . . spuds . . . murphies . . . Irish —call them what you will—potatoes belong on your priority list of foods for year-round eating.

AND HERE'S WHY—Potatoes pack good food values under their brown jackets. When you eat them daily, you can get as much as one-fourth of your vitamin C quota, besides some of the B vitamins, iron and other important minerals, and starch. Potatoes are a cheap food energy. Penny for penny, they have more energy-giving value than any other vegetable.
Potatoes fit into any meal. You may serve them at breakfast, dinner, or supper.
And potatoes need not be fattening. One medium-sized potato has about 100 calories—no more than an apple or banana, and only half the calories of a medium-sized piece of pie or a hamburger and roll. If you're watching weight, watch what you put on the potatoes. It's the gravy, butter, or other fat that "piles up" calories.

Predictions at Odds Fly at Philadelphia

By D. Harold Oliver

The sandy-haired Minnesotan precipitated an immediate controversy over who would receive the Republican presidential nomination and on what ballot.

He told an early morning news conference that he would be third man on the first ballot, but repeated he would win by the ninth.

Camps of other major contenders immediately challenged this.

Taft Backers Make Claim

Backers of Senator Robert A. Taft claimed that, while the Ohioan and Dewey would be about equal on the first ballot, Taft would show greater "reserve strength" and would go on to victory on or before the seventh roll call.

With delegates and party bigwigs arriving in increasing numbers for the national convention beginning Monday, there were other developments. For example:

1. Alf M. Landon, the G.O.P. 1936 presidential candidate, told a reporter the Republicans should pick a 1948 standard bearer who is "thoroughly in agreement" with the record of the G.O.P. Congress. Landon declined to say whom he favored, but friends indicated as of now he leans toward Senator Taft, House Speaker Joseph W. Martin of Massachusetts, and Governor Dewey, in that order.

2. James S. Kemper, party treasurer, reported an $800,000 surplus in the war chest with which to start the post-convention campaign.

With Wife, Children

Stassen arrived early with his wife and two children and drove to his hotel between a police escort and a noisy caravan that disturbed late sleepers. Within an hour he was receiving reporters.

"I am here to lead the liberal and younger forces of the Republican Party in a fight to win," he said. "I expect to be in third place on the first ballot and in first place on the last."

Asked how he looke on the possible candidacy of Senator Arthur H. Vandenberg of Michigan, Stassen replied:

"I consider Senator Vandenberg to be one of the outstanding statesmen of the Republican Party. I make no attempt to anticipate what his moves will be in this convention."

Close associates of Vandenberg, who has said he is not a candidate, reported that unless he changes his mind the Senator will let the convention balloting take its course without any statement from him.

Herbert Brownell, one of Dewey's managers, took exception to Stassen's forecast of victory on the ninth ballot.

Brownell told a news conference it was "not an impossibility" that the nomination would be decided before the convention met.

Sees Position Stronger

He said that since Dewey headquarters were opened here last Monday the New York Governor was "in a stronger position" than he had been previously.

It is his information, Brownell said, that New York gamblers now are betting 5 to 4 on Dewey against the field.

Asked where Dewey will get the reserve strength necessary to pile up th 548 votes needed for a nomination, Brownell said the New York Governor expects support from all the favorite-son States after the first ballot.

He denied any knowledge of reports that Gov. Alfred E. Driscoll of New Jersey would place Dewey's name in nomination. Any such move would indicate the New York Governor was in line for a major share of New Jersey's 35 presidential nominating votes.

Warren Promises Fight If He Is Nominated

Sacramento, June 17 (AP).—Gov. Earl Warren flew into Sacramento from the East tonight with the promise he will be a fighting campaigner if he wins the United States Presidential nomination of the Republican Party.

Once again Warren said:

"I have no interest in the vice presidency."

He said on a Nation-wide radio broadcast (Headline Edition, ABC) last night:

"If I should receive the nomination . . . I would carry the banner of the Republican Party the length and breadth of the land with all the energy of my makeup."

He called anew for the convention to adopt "a progressive, forward-looking platform."

The Governor added:

"This program must convince the Nation that we are a party of the people and not a party of special interests and pressure groups."

Regarding civil rights, the executive asked for "the same law for all men."

And of foreign policy:

I believe in a bi-partisan foreign policy. My party first proposed it during the last war as an instrument of unity and it achieved that purpose. There is room for only one American foreign policy and that should be above partisan politics."

All of California's 53 convention votes are pledged to Warren.

District's 'Rebel' Delegation Rejected by GOP Committee

The District delegation at this time is divided in its sentiment for candidates for the Presidential nominaton. Efforts will be made at a breakfast caucus on Monday to agree on a choice.

The National Committee decided it had no authority to settle a controversy over seating of the Maryland delegation.

It ruled that in the selection of 20 delegates instead of the allotted 16, Maryland must settle the issue itself. Jacob France, Maryland national committeeman, promised this would be done at a meeting of the delegation Monday morning by reducing the delegates at large from eight to four.

President Signs Chesapeake Bay Crossing Bill

Kansas City, Mo., June 17 (AP).—President Truman has given his approval of a highway crossing connecting the two shores of Chesapeake Bay in Maryland.

The bill, sponsored by Senators Tydings and O'Conor of Maryland, was signed by the President when he arrived at his home at nearby Independence yesterday. It gives Maryland authority to span the bay with a bridge, a tunnel, or a combination of the two.

Chairman Robert M. Reindollar of the Maryland Roads Commission has said that construction might begin this fall.

Capital Democratic Primary War Ends

Differences between the District Democratic Committee and representatives of the local chapter of the Americans for Democratic Action were ironed out yesterday, according to a statement by both groups, and the postponed Democratic primaries will be held on June 28.

The Democratic ballot on that day will include the names of six ADA members as candidates for the Democratic Central Committee, as well as four from the ADA group who will be candidates for delegates to the Democratic National Convention of July 12.

The statement, issued following a telegraphic poll of Democratic Central Committee members, announced that court actions, brought by ADA, will be withdrawn.

The ADA had obtained temporary injunctions that would have stopped the local political group from holding the election unless ADA representatives were allowed to run, and would have restrained selection of a convention delegation unless six ADA candidates were included. A hearing had been scheduled by Justice T. Alan Goldsborough for today.

To be listed on the election ballot among the candidates for committee membership are Benjamin Sigal, chairman of the ADA Washington Chapter; Gerhard Van Arkel, former NLRB general counsel; J. C. Turner, Joseph L. Rauh, jr., Tilford Dudley of CIO-PAC, and Mrs. Ernest K. Lindley, wife of the columnist.

Among those withdrawing to make a place for the ADA representatives are James Francis Reilly, vice president of the present committee; Brig. Gen. Albert L. Cox, head of the D. C. National Guard, and David Hildreth, son of Melvin D. Hildreth, committee chairman.

President Truman's name will be the only one on the ballot as the only announced candidate for the Presidential nomination, but space will be left for write-in votes.

The Gallup Poll

33 Pct. of Republican Voters Make Dewey Top Candidate

By George Gallup
Director, American Institute of Public Opinion

Princeton, N. J., June 17.—As the Republican delegates prepare to assemble in Philadelphia, here is the score in detail on the popularity of various Republican contenders:

1. Throughout the rank and file of the party Gov. Thomas E. Dewey of New York was found to be the most popular candidate, in the Institute survey reported last week. Governor Dewey received 33 per cent in the poll, with Harold E. Stassen next with 26 per cent and Senator Arthur Vandenberg next with 13 per cent, followed by Gen. Douglas MacArthur, Senator Robert A. Taft, Gov. Earl Warren and Speaker Joseph W. Martin.

Among younger voters in the party Dewey and Stassen continue to run a close race. The New York Governor runs only a few points ahead of Stassen among GOP voters under 35 years of age. However, he enjoys a substantial margin among party members 36 years old and over. Both Taft and Vandenberg have relatively greater strength among the older voters than among the younger groups.

3. Analysis of the vote by sex shows that Governor Dewey's popularity standing with men is the same as with women Republican voters, but that Stassen is slightly more popular with women than with men. Senator Vandenberg, on the other hand, was found to be more popular with men than with women.

4. In case of a deadlock between the forces of Dewey, Stassen and Taft at the convention, the followers of those three contenders express a perference for Senator Vandenberg, as reported this week.

5. These indications of relative popularity of the leading contenders undoubtedly will prove interesting to the 1094 Republican delegates, but as past history shows conventions do not always go on the basis of popularity in making their choice.

The following table shows the candidate choices of Republican voters divided into two age groups:

REPUBLICANS ONLY

	Age 21-36	Age 36 and over
Dewey	33%	32%
Stassen	32	24
Vandenberg	10	15
MacArthur	11	11
Taft	7	11
Warren	2	2
Others, no choice	1	4

Comparison of the individual candidates' standings as between men and women Republican voters follows:

REPUBLICANS ONLY

	Men	Women
Dewey	33%	33%
Stassen	25	27
Vandenberg	15	11
MacArthur	11	12
Taft	10	10
Warren	2	3
Others, no choice	3	3

In recent Republican Party history the 1920 convention provides the best example of the fact that delegates do not always nominate the most popular man. Gen. Leonard Wood and Senator Hiram Johnson made impressive showings in the primaries that year and, together with Frank O. Lowden of Illinois, were generally conceded by political writers to be the most popular contenders. But the convention nominated Senator Warren G. Harding.

However, in the last three conventions, the most popular man has been nominated by the GOP. Alfred Landon in 1936, Wendell Willkie in 1940 and Governor Dewey in 1944 were each leading in polls of Republican voters at the time of the nomination.

Truman Prepares To Continue Fight

'Van's the Man'

Vandenberg Backed by Group of 100

By a Post Reporter

One hundred prominent Republicans, from coast to coast, expected to be in Philadelphia today carrying "Van's the Man" and "Vote-for-Van" placards.

Three months ago, they signed up for a voluntary committee to support Arthur Vandenberg for President. They have been awaiting the magic word of their candidate to bring them into action. The word has never come. They have expected it from day to day. They have waited for it from hour to hour. When they got tired of waiting they wired the Senator pleading for his permission to announce formally their organization and for his authority to set up headquarters in Washington and in Philadelphia. They never got "the word."

They were as downcast last night as Paul Revere would have been if he had waited in vain for three months for a lantern in the old North Church.

Holbrook Smith, New York City Republican, has been a leading organizer of the group. He is an Air Corps veteran, a lifelong Republican, a junior vice president of National Republican Club in 1935 and 1936, a friend and confidant of the late Theodore Roosevelt, jr., a frequent guest at social functions in Washington.

He has never given up hoping for "the word"—at least not quite given up. Smith will be in Philadelphia—but not at the headquarters he had envisioned. Sticking to his word not to act without authorization, he has even shunned the hotels and will watch the candidate parade from a private club.

Senator Vandenberg could have put this volunteer corps, and thousands of other workers, into a full tilt campaign for his nomination at any moment in the past several weeks. They could have drummed up a first-ballot vote within range of the leading contenders for the nomination. "Why didn't he do it?" The 100 minutemen and lots of others are still wondering.

The possible reasons why Vandenberg did not want the support of any formal organizations are quite plain. Here are some of them:

1. He doesn't want the nomination unless it comes as the spontaneous action of a convention in the form of a genuine draft.

2. His greatest strength as a candidate derives from his support by other candidates and not from his support among delegates, and this candidate support would be impaired and diminished by a single move to round up his own first-ballot delegates.

3. An organized campaign for the nomination would either win the prize on terms at which Vandenberg would prefer not to settle, or leave him a loser with his great prestige in the field of foreign policy diminished. The only way he could get the nomination without any risk is the way that it now might come to him—unsolicited.

Members of the committee of a hundred are aware of these considerations. They are turning them over in their minds as many of them set out for Philadelphia to fight for lodgings and gallery seats instead of for a candidate. They are not reconciled. They think the nomination is not to be had without a campaign. They would have liked to tramp through the corridors and lobbies yelling "Van's the Man." They hope it can still happen.

Vandenberg May Issue Statement, Son Says

Philadelphia, June 17 (U.P.).—Senator Arthur H. Vandenberg may issue a statement in a few days clarifying his position as the No. 1 dark horse prospect for the Republican presidential nomination, it was learned today.

Vandenberg's son, Arthur, jr., said it is "possible" that the Michigan Senator will have a statement to make when he arrives here Sunday for next week's Republican national convention.

The Senator's son gave no indication of what the statement might contain.

Greece, Bulgaria Study Resuming Relations

Greece and Bulgaria have opened negotiations here on a Bulgarian proposal that they establish formal diplomatic relations, it was revealed yesterday.

Greek sources confirmed that Bulgarian Minister Nissim Mevorah conferred with the Greek ambassador, Vassily C. Dendramis, at the Greek Embassy here Wednesday on the Bulgarian suggestion.

Aboard Truman Train enroute to Washington, June 17 (AP).—President Truman, overridden repeatedly by Congress in a battle of vetoes, promised today to renew the fight upon his return to Washington.

He told a large crowd at the East St. Louis, Ill., railroad station he was returning to the White House "to veto some more bills."

Hits Override of Veto

He said Congress had just overridden his veto of one measure aimed in that direction. He apparently referred to an appropriation bill carrying a rider transferring the United States Employment Service to the Federal Security Agency.

"The Republican platform of 1944 made the statement that they expected to make a strong Labor Department," the President said. "They have absolutely controverted that platform. They have done everything they possibly could to tear up the Labor Department."

Congress also overrode his vetoes of the Bulwinkle bill which lets railroads make rate agreements without fear of the antitrust laws if approved by the Interstate Commerce Commission.

He was overridden Monday on a measure increasing social security pensions which he said would bar 750,000 persons from social security coverage.

Wage Boost Blocked

The President said Congress so far has prevented him from raising the minimum wage from 40 to 75 cents. He said he was afraid the congressional program was leading toward "a boom and bust."

He did not say what other bills he intends to veto.

Mr. Truman told the crowd at East St. Louis that Congress cut an appropriation affecting the Bureau of Labor Statistics of the Department of Labor to cover up the "rapid rise" in living costs.

Earlier he told Missouri crowd they got what they "deserved" in the present "special interests Congress" by staying away from the polls. He suggested they make a change in November.

He said there are "many fine gentlemen in that Congress, but they are not in the majority."

"Special Interests" Cited

The issue of the coming campaign is one between the people, whom he said he represented, and the "special interests" Congress, Mr. Truman asserted, and that the people will decide what they want.

If they think he is right, he said, they can "push and support" the President.

"And if you want a different President, you can kick him out when the time comes around," he told a train-side audience at Sedalia, Mo.

Mr. Truman said the Republicans in Congress will boast at their Philadelphia party convention of "what a grand job they have done, to the people—not for them."

"You have a special interests Congress," he continued, "because only one third of you voted in the election of 1946, and you are getting just what you deserve. I have no sympathy with you. If you do that again, you will also get what you deserve."

That was at Jefferson City, within sight of the dome of the State Capitol. In platform appearances there, at Warrensburg and Sedalia, the President talked with crowds at railroad stations, hundreds of whom he knew by first name.

Mr. Truman started out from his home town of Independence this morning after goodby kisses for Mrs. Truman and his daughter, Margaret, and his sister, Miss Mary Jane Truman of Grandview.

Margaret, a favorite with the crowds on his swing through the West, remained behind with her mother for a vacation at the Truman home as the President resumed his journey to Washington where he is due at 12:55 p. m. (EDT) tomorrow.

There has been no official word on Truman's program at the White House tomorrow.

Alexandria Chest Head Is Chosen

Appointment of E. Austin Thompson of Wellington Villa, R.F.D. 1, Alexandria, as executive director of the Alexandria Community Chest and Welfare Council was announced yesterday.

Thompson

William F. Raugust, president of the Alexandria Chest, said Thompson will take over the post July 1st.

Thompson is a graduate of Columbia University and has taken post graduate work there. He entered social work in 1934 as a case supervisor for the town of Babylon, N. Y., and later was case supervisor for the Department of Public Welfare, Rockland County, N. Y.

During the war he served as assistant director of personnel for the National Headquarters, American Red Cross, heading recruitment of personnel for overseas work, and later as assistant administrator for the Red Cross' eastern area of the Services for the Armed Forces division.

Following the war he served with the United Nations Relief and Rehabilitation Administration as chief, personnel and field services, and as chief of the returned field personnel branch.

Truman Hits House GOP

House yesterday suspended its rules to take up the measure.

This means the bill must get a two-thirds vote to be passed.

Representative A. S. Mike Monroney (D., Okla.), who terms the Wolcott bill "an aid to barefooted millionaires" said he thought there was at least a 50-50 chance of killing the measure in the House.

Leadership Hopes Dashed

Chairman Charles W. Tobey (R., N. H.), of the Senate Banking Committee, yesterday dashed House leadership hopes that the Senate might be forced to take the Wolcott bill in order to preserve Title VI FHA home mortgages.

Unless the House is given an opportunity to vote on the full TEW bill, Tobey said, House hopes for Title VI "can go to the four winds of hell."

Senate Policy Chieftain Robert A. Taft (R., Ohio) yesterday conferred with both House Speaker Joseph W. Martin, jr., and House GOP leader Charles A. Halleck (R., Ind.) but would not predict the future of his bill except to say there will be a Senate-House conference on the two versions.

Toby said it would take him "less than five minutes to tell such a conference that the United States Senate is not going to accept the dictation of six men in the House Rules Committee."

Method Is Assailed

"The method used to kill the bill was not democracy but despotism. It was czarism."

Senator Allen J. Ellender (D., La.), co-author with Taft of the bill, yesterday promised a filibuster if any other housing bill comes before the Senate without a House vote on the TEW bill. "I will talk till doomsday with plenty of help on both sides," he said.

"The Wolcott bill," said Ellender," helps only those well able to help themselves. The sleek fat cats of the real estate lobby are running the House. The poor man doesn't have a chance."

Tobey and Ellender were agreed that it wouldn't make a particle of difference if Title VI of the FHA mortgages is allowed to die.

Rules Group Tabled Bill

"Home mortgages will continue under Title II, anyway," said Tobey, "and Title VI is just inflationary."

Senator Ralph W. Flanders (R., Vt.), whose amendments are incorporated in the TEW bill commented that if the House did manage to pass any kind of housing bill a conference would be necessary.

"I do not see why we should accept the will of six men on the Rules Committee as representative of the House," said Flanders.

(The Rules Committee Wednesday tabled the TEW bill by a 6 to 2 vote. Voting to report out the TEW measure were Representatives Howard Smith (D., Va.) and Adolph Sabbath (D., Ill.)

Court Turns Down Baxter Griffin New Trial Plea

Baxter Griffin, 42, yesterday lost his last minute plea to the United States Court of Appeals here for a new chance to escape death in the electric chair.

The justices who previously heard a full appeal presented by Griffin's counsel, declined to hear a new appeal from a ruling overruling his motion for a new trial on the grounds of newly discovered evidence.

Griffin was scheduled to be electrocuted today, but was given an indefinite stay until his last minute appeal was settled. A new date for his death probably will be set next week. Griffin was convicted of the fatal shooting of Lee Hunter, 23, in February, 1947.

Farm Bill Passed By Senate, 79 to 3

By The Associated Press

A long-range program for Federal price supports on farm products passed the Senate late last night, but its fate was uncertain.

The vote on final passage was 79 to 3 with only Senators Ecton (R., Mont.), O'Daniel (D., Tex.) and Williams (R., Del.) voting no.

The bill now must go to conference with the House, for adjustment with an entirely different version. The House has passed an 18-month stop-gap extension of present Government price supports, which expire December 31.

A stop-gap extension failed in the Senate tonight, 55 to 27, after bitter debate.

Under the present program the Government supports prices of major farm products, in most cases at 90 per cent of "parity." It does this by buying up the crops, or by granting loans enabling farmers to hold them off the market.

Under the proposed long-range program the parity price formula would be revised, and prices supported at varying percentages of parity, depending on the supply of the product.

Senator Russell (D., Ga.) offered the House bill, with some amendments, as a substitute for the complicated long-range program being pushed by the Senate Agriculture Committee.

Senator Aiken (R., Vt.), floor manager for the long-range bill, opposed the Russell substitute as liabel to kill off chances for any permanent farm program. The amendment failed.

During the day harsh words flew as the Senate amended the long-range bill to give tobacco a special price-support position.

Aiken fought the amendment and accused Democratic Senators of trying to kill the whole bill.

Democratic Leader Barkley of Kentucky, who supported the tobacco clause, countercharged that Aiken was trying to "inject politics" into the situation. And Senator Holland (D., Fla.), whose pro-tobacco vote was criticized by Aiken, took the floor to say: "I resent with all my being his remarks."

The amendment was adopted by the leaf-thin margin of 41 to 40. Eight Republicans and 33 Democrats voted for it; 34 Republicans and six Democrats against.

Sponsored by Senator Cooper (R., Ky.), the amendment would guarantee tobacco growers 90 per cent of parity for their crops. Aiken's bill would have authorized Government support of tobacco prices on a sliding scale, ranging from 60 to 90 per cent of parity.

(Parity is a price level calculated to be equally fair to producers and consumers. It changes from month to month, with the fluctuating prices of the things the farmers buy.)

The bill under consideration would revise the crop price relationship to include the prices of the most recent 10 years, and provide a sliding scale of Government price supports averaging about 75 per cent of parity for six basic crops—wheat, corn, cotton, rice, peanuts and tobacco. All except cotton now are supported at 90 per cent of parity. Cotton rates 92½ per cent.

In criticizing his colleagues for adopting the tobacco amendment, Aiken bore down on the fact that President Truman asked Congress for long-range farm legislation very much like that proposed in the pending bill.

Noting the heavy Democratic majority for the amendment, the gray-haired Vermonter said it is "a sorry spectacle to see a great party disintegrating and to see how little respect it has for its leader."

Barkley shouted back that Democratic Senators are "not playing politics" and asserted that the amendment does not destroy the bill. The Kentuckian contended that tobacco is entitled to special treatment because of the great amount of hand work required in growing it and the heavy taxes which are imposed upon the crop.

The dispute became so general that at one point Barkley and Senator Lucas of Illinois, the assistant Democratic leader, engaged in a sharp verbal exchange.

Lucas, who voted against the tobacco amendment, said that Barkley apparently "does not realize what he has done" in voting for it. Lucas predicted that Senators from other crop regions would demand special treatment for corn, wheat, cotton and so on.

Barkley said he knew what he was doing, objected to being held up to ridicule, and declared it was Aiken and Lucas who were confused.

Refugee Bill Gets Approval

put the number of these immigrants at 50 per cent. Objectors said this would bar many Jews since few Jewish DPs have farm experience.

The compromise bill further gives priority to household, construction and clothing workers; blood relatives of United States citizens or lawfully admitted aliens, including nephews and nieces, and DPs who bore arms in World War II against the enemies of the United States.

It also makes provision for some displaced persons living outside DP camps to enter at the discretion of U. S. authorities.

Must Have Job Available

Another stipulation is that DP's entering this country must have a job available, without displacing a U. S. worker, and safe and sanitary housing without displacing a present occupant.

The law is to be administered by a three-member commission, appointed by the President with the consent of the Senate.

President Truman asked Congress meanwhile for 4 million dollars for use in connection with the immigration of the DP's.

The money is to be used by the Immigration Service for housing needs, health and other examinations.

Bernadotte Given Israel Terms for Peace With Arabs

Tel Aviv, Israel, June 17 (NYHT).—Israel presented today to Count Folke Bernadotte, United Nations mediator, the terms on which it would be willing to negotiate with the Arab states for an armistice in Palestine.

Moshe Shertok, Israel foreign minister, it was learned, gave the terms as follows:

1. The state of Israel must be treated as a sovereign nation. Israeli officials will not meet with Arab officials unless recognized as representing a state and not a minority group.

2. There must be no restriction on immigration.

3. Israel will not negotiate on any reduction of the territory allotted to it by the United Nations partition decision of last year.

4. Jerusalem must retain its U. N. status as an international city.

5. The Arabs must abide by the U. N. decision for creation of an independent Arab state in Palestine.

Bernadotte invited Jewish officials to send consultants to Rhodes and Shertok agreed.

[The United Press said Bernadotte may seek extension of the four-week truce to attempt a permanent settlement.]

Zionists Blamed for Anti-Semitism

By the United Press

The Committee for Peace and Justice in the Holy Land said yesterday that "extreme" Zionist pressure in the United States is encouraging antisemitism and endangering the Nation's unity.

In a policy statement adopted by its executive board, the committee urged American Zionists, both Christians and Jews, to "gravely consider the great growth of feeling in this country against the extreme Zionist pressure here."

The committee is headed by a group of distinguished Americans, including Dean Virginia C. Gildersleeve of Barnard College as chairman, Dr. Henry Sloane Coffin and Rabbi Morris Lazaron as vice chairman, and Prof. James T. Shotwell of Columbia University, on the executive board.

British Assail Blockade

London, June 17 (U.P.).—A Foreign Office spokesman said today that Britain had notified Egypt and Syria that it considers their blockade of Palestine waters illegal.

Group to Aid Caldwell's Family

Formation of a permanent committee to aid the family of Charles Caldwell, Prince Georges County policeman slain in the line of duty, was announced yesterday as contributions to the Caldwell relief fund passed the $3500 mark.

T. Howard Duckett, attorney, who headed the temporary committee, was named permanent chairman. Other officers are L. Harold Sotheron, vice chairman; George S. Burroughs, secretary, and Sergt. Boyd Hamilton of the county police force, treasurer.

Maj. Ralph W. Brown, superintendent of police; Police Lieut. Charles H. Thomsen and Louis Lebowitz, attorney, were appointed to a subcommittee to coordinate all benefits for the relief fund. A second subcommittee, to administer funds obtained through public subscription, will be composed of Sotheron, Burroughs and Irving L. Main.

The first benefit for the relief fund will be a dance at the Prince Georges Country Club next Wednesday night, for which $1500 worth of tickets already have been sold.

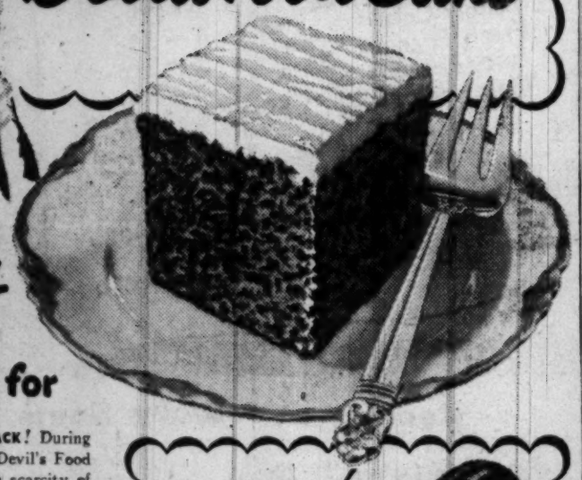
Just wait till you taste this Devil's Food Cake



You'll say Duff's was worth waiting for

AN OLD DUFF FAVORITE IS BACK! During the past few years no Duff's Devil's Food Mix was made because of the scarcity of sugar, cocoa and other ingredients. We refused to ruin the reputation of this famous and popular mix by using substitutes. Now, once again, we can make it the quality way . . . so Duff's Devil's Food Mix is back . . . and it's better than ever!

. . . so much richer and more delicious

THERE'S A REASON why Duff's Devil's Food Mix is so much better. It's richer . . . contains more fine cocoa, more shortening, more eggs. You get a full, deep cake that's perfect—in flavor, texture and color.

TRY DUFF'S . . . compare it with any other mix, or even your favorite home recipe. We're sure you'll agree it makes the finest devil's food cake you ever tasted. Buy a box today!

Wide Differences In Draft Versions

Wide variances exist between the draft bill made ready for House passage today and the measure voted by the Senate a week ago.

These differences must be adjusted by a joint conference committee, after which both bodies must approve the expected compromise.

The Senate and House versions are in agreement on the draft ages and are generally in accord on exemptions and deferments. All men aged 19 through 25 are subject to call, but most veterans, married men and reservists would not be called.

Both measures: (1) Boost the authorized strength of the Regular Army, Navy, Marine Corps and Air Force; (2) Reestablish selective service to bring those forces up to their new totals; and (3) Provide for enlarging the reserve components.

Here are the major differences:

EFFECTIVE DATE

1. Drafting would start, under the Senate bill, as soon as the machinery could be set up, probably within 60 to 90 days. The House bill would permit registration and other preliminaries to go forward, but no one could be called before January 31, 1949, and then only if an intensive recruiting drive failed to fill the ranks.

TERM OF DRAFT SERVICE

2. Under the Senate bill, the period of service for draftees is fixed at two years. The House cut this to one year.

REGISTRATION

3. All male citizens and aliens aged 18 through 30 must register under the House version. The Senate is similar except the top age limit is 25. Under the latter, aliens can be inducted unless they object. If they do, they are barred from becoming citizens later. The House would call only aliens who have declared intention to become citizens.

VETERANS EXEMPTIONS

4. Under the House bill, former GIs with over 12 months service are exempt in peacetime. Veterans with more than 90 days but less than a year in the ranks are exempt if they enroll in an organized reserve unit before being called for induction. Anyone who applies but finds no vacancy for him also would be exempt. In addition, veterans who saw continuous combat service, or won the Purple Heart or an award for combat valor would not be called, regardless of service.

The Senate bill gives peacetime exemption to all veterans who saw 90 days' service before VJ-Day. If not, they must have at least 18 months' service, or be enrolled or have applied for service in an organized reserve unit when called to escape service. West Point, Annapolis, ASTP or Navy V-12 service does not count under either bill.

SPECIAL DOCTORS DRAFT

5. The Senate bill requires that "members of the medical and dental profession and allied specialist categories," aged 18 through 44, register and be subject to special calls. Those educated at Government expense during the war, who saw no service, or who were deferred during the war, would be called first. A similar proviso was stricken from the House bill on the floor.

EXPANSION OF THE RESERVES

6. Both bills permit enlistments in the National Guard and Organized Reserves—up until the enactment date of the law—which would provide exemption from the draft. The House permits youths to enroll later in any active or inactive reserve component, with draft exemption.

Both bills also require drafted men to enroll in the reserve for a period of years after completing their two-year "hitch" in the regulars.

AUTHORIZED STRENGTHS

7. The House authorizes active armed forces totaling 2,005,882—837,000 for the Army, 666,882 for the Navy and Marine Corps, and 502,000 for the Air Force.

The Senate fixes the ceiling at 1,909,882—790,000 in the Army, 666,882 in the Navy and Marines and 453,000 in the Air Force—plus the 161,000 18-year trainees, or a total authorized strength of 2,070,882.

Appropriations, however, will set the total in the armed forces next year at 1,788,000—Army, 790,000, Navy-Marines, 552,000, Air Force, 446,000. If approved, the 101,000 trainees would be in addition.

VOLUNTEERING OF MEN LIABLE FOR INDUCTION

8. Men subject to draft can enlist for three years in any of the services. They cannot volunteer for induction (for two years) under the Senate bill. The House version permits them to volunteer, ahead of actual call, for two years in the Army alone. Most draftees probably would be inducted into the Army, as volunteers are expected to fill up the other services.

Spurred by the draft, many of the 900,000 men required by the regular forces next year are expected to come from volunteers—or men reenlisting. Therefore, it is estimated that from 200,000 to 225,000 men would be inducted in fiscal 1949.

Defense officials estimate, however, that most men of draft age, not exempted or deferred, will be in either the regular or reserve forces next year if the draft is approved.

SURVIVING SON

9. The House bill provides that the sole surviving son in families in which the deceased son or sons were killed or died in line of duty in armed forces during World War II is exempt. The Senate bill contains no such proviso.

"FOREIGN LEGION"

10. The Senate bill authorizes the enlistment of 25,000 aliens in the United States Army for five-year periods, after which they become eligible for citizenship. The House bill does not.

CONSCIENTIOUS OBJECTORS

11. Bona fide objectors may be assigned to noncombatant duties. Those conscientiously objecting even to this, may be deferred under the House bill or assigned to work in civilian camps under the Senate version.

SIMILAR PROVISIONS

The Senate and House bills generally agree on the following points:

National Guardsmen, members of organized reserve units, reserve officers, senior ROTC and Holloway-plan students and aviation cadet candidates are exempt.

Elected Federal and State-wide officials, ministers and divinity students are deferred.

"Necessary" men in industry, agriculture, Government, research work and study may be deferred under regulations to be written by the President. Deferment of medical, dental and scientific students is contemplated under this proviso.

High school students are deferred until graduation, failure or until they are 20 years old.

College students are deferred until the end of the school year, if called while actually pursuing full-time courses.

The 1940 Soldiers and Sailors Relief Act—providing relief from civilian suits, garnishment, etc.—is reenacted.

The President is empowered to seize plants refusing to accept or give priority to defense orders at a fair price.

A lengthy bill reforming Army court-martial procedure — passed by the House as a separate measure months ago—was added as a rider in the Senate and, it was announced, will be accepted in conference by the House.

Both bills permit 18-year-olders to volunteer for one year's training and service in regular units in continental United States. When released they would go into the Reserve and be required to take summer training but would be exempt from the draft.

A maximum of 161,000 18-year-old youths could be accepted for this special year's training, divided 110,000 in the Army, 36,000 in the Navy and Marine Corps and 15,000 in the Air Force.

Both bills provide for absentee soldier voting where State laws permit, without payment of a poll tax as a requirement for voting.

Pacific Hero Spruance to Quit July 1

Admiral Raymond A. Spruance, one of the last of the famous Pacific Fleet commanders on active duty, will retire July 1, the Navy said yesterday.

Spruance

Spruance, who will reach the retirement age of 62 July 3, is now president of the Naval War College at Newport, R. I. He commanded the Fifth Fleet in its brilliant trip-hammer strikes against the Japanese, after beating the enemy carriers at the key battle of Midway.

The roll of his campaigns is like a list of Navy victories in the Pacific: the Gilberts, Marshalls, Saipan, Guam, Philippines, Tinian, Iwo Jima, Okinawa.

Admiral Louis E. Denfeld, Chief of Naval Operations, said:

"The American people may add the name of Spruance to the list of those who have been entrusted with a large and irretrievable share of the Nation's strength in an hour of peril and who have secured for them brilliant and decisive victories."

Spruance has served 45 years in the Navy entering the Academy in 1903. Born in Baltimore, he later moved to Indianapolis.

Former Jap Envoy Pays Visit to State Department

For the first time since Pearl Harbor, a one-time high Japanese official has called at the State Department.

Kensuke Horinouchi, former ambassador to the United States, made a courtesy visit yesterday to John Allison, chief of the U. S. Division of Northeast Asia Affairs.

Horinouchi was here as ambassador from 1938 to 1940. He was relieved by Adm. Kichisaburo Nomura. Nomura and Saburo Kurusu were calling on former Secretary of State Hull when the sneak Japanese attack on Pearl Harbor hurled the United States into World War II.

Horinouchi now is president of a Japanese agency training future diplomats. He came to the United States last month, with permission of Gen. Douglas MacArthur's headquarters, as a member of a delegation to a world assembly for moral rearmament at Riverside, Calif.

Arlington GOP Club Holds Dance Tonight

A preconvention dance will be sponsored by the Arlington County Republican Club at 9 o'clock tonight in the Cherrydale Fire Hall, with Edgar Pumphrey, delegate to the Republican National Convention, and Mrs. Pumphrey as guests of honor.

Also to be honored are Oren Lewis, alternate delgate; Mrs. Wilma Macpherson, Eighth District elector; Charles O. Pratt, candidate for the Republican nomination for Congressman, county officers and State committeemen.

The public is invited, and no admission will be charged.

MADE FRESH DAILY IN WASHINGTON

Draft Postponement Voted by House

Congress to pass a "workable" bill.

Here are the major changes made by the "runaway" House during floor consideration:

1. Voted 135 to 90 to postpone any drafting of men until at least January 31, 1949. Then, whoever was President could start inductions if an intensive voluntary recruiting drive in the meantime failed to fill up the ranks.

Two-year original enlistments and one-year reenlistments would be permitted with all reenlistment bonuses and privileges. Meanwhile, registration and other preliminary draft steps could be taken.

Would Lower Standards

2. Anyone of draft age could enlist in either the organized or inactive reserve components at any time before called for induction and be exempt from draft.

3. Intelligence standards for either volunteers or draftees would be lowered to an Army general classification test score of 70. A score of 80 to 90 now is necessary.

4. The special draft of doctors, aimed at assuring that enough medical and dental men will be in uniform to care for the expanded armed forces, was wiped out entirely.

Civil Rights Moves

Three other changes voted yesterday, however, bring the Senate and House versions closer together. An amendment offered by Representative George Bender (R., Ohio) and adopted 106 to 35 bars any State from requiring a poll tax from any man in the ranks as a requirement for voting for Federal officeholders.

A similar proviso was written into the Senate bill during floor debate.

This, however, was the only one of a host of civil rights amendments which was approved. Ruled out or beaten were proposals to apply FEPC to defense plants, to abolish segregation in the armed forces and prohibit restaurants, trains, theaters, etc., from applying "jim crow" rules to soldiers.

Another Senate proviso approved permits 18-year-old youths to volunteer for a year's training and service in continental United States. They would go into the reserve after serving and be exempt from call under the draft: It was approved, 86 to 57.

Representative Ploeser (R., Mo.) obtained acceptance of an amendment to require that "small business" firms be given a fair share of defense orders.

An amendment by Representative Rees (R., Kans.) banning bawdy houses near Army and Navy posts was adopted, 98 to 3. Another Rees proposal, to bar sale of beer, wine or liquors in post exchanges, officers clubs, etc., was nearly written into the bill. Approved, 57 to 55, it was beaten by a 72 to 54 tally a few minutes later.

Other Amendments Approved

Other amendments approved:

Require that adequate housing, sanitation and medical facilities be provided.

Exempt a "sole surviving son" of Gold Star mothers or fathers from the draft.

Require ROTC graduates to serve only the length of the draft term after graduation instead of three years, as provided in the bill.

Beaten down during the long session were amendments to:

Establish an American "foreign legion" by enlisting 100,000 aliens in the United States Army.

Require segregated units for enlisted men who do not want to serve in "mixed units."

Several Factors Involved

The votes taken on various amendments yesterday cannot be reversed by separate votes this morning. Before quitting last night the House agreed to all of them. Only a motion to recommit—to kill the bill—and a rollcall on final passage remains.

It was largely a combination of left wingers and extreme right wingers which ganged up on the draft bill yesterday. Several things contributed. Opponents were on hand for most votes, while many lukewarm supporters stayed away. The easing of the world situation, the forthcoming election and a general conviction that the Army has "dragged its feet" in recruiting and building up the reserve to promote the draft also contributed.

She Would Be 'Miss Washington'

MARJORIE PETERSON, 28, of 1935 Third st. ne., is one of the first to enter WWDC's "Miss Washington" beauty contest. Winner will vie for the national title at Atlantic City. Local contestants must have entries in by July 17, although the final judging will not take place until late August.

Two Yank Invaders Meet At Pentagon

It was reunion at the Pentagon yesterday for a couple of Yanks who participated in the invasion of southern France.

The reunion also was occasion for a first meeting between Secretary of Defense James B. Forrestal, then Secretary of Navy—and Brig. Gen. Ray Hufft—then a colonel and battalion commander.

Hufft's troops moved in on the island of Levant, in Toulon Harbor, as part of the southern France invasion. Forrestal landed on the island on D-Day.

Hufft, the most decorated of Louisiana's war heroes, was named State adjutant general last week, at the annual salary of $8500. The post includes a brigadier generalship, command of the State National Guard, and directorship of the proposed new selective service. At 33, he is believed to be the youngest State adjutant-general in the Nation's history.

70 Millions Reported In Need of Libraries

Atlantic City, N. J., June 17 (AP).—Some 6000 delegates to the American Library Association's sixty-seventh annual conference heard today 70 million Americans are in need of good library service.

Lucille Nix of Atlanta, Ga., said "practically all of the 70 million are located in country towns and on farms."

Forrest B. Spaulding of Des Moines, Iowa, said "about 150 million dollars annually would be a minimum" to support adequate library service in the Nation.

Truman Leading Gromyko on Vetoes

Lake Success, June 17 (AP).—Andrei A. Gromyko, Soviet Deputy Foreign Minister, admits President Truman is ahead of him on the issue of vetoes.

Gromyko has cast 24 vetoes in the United Nations Security Council since June 18, 1946. Mr. Truman has vetoed 137 bills since he became President.

Asked if he had any observation as to the veto business, Gromyko smiled and said: "It seems he is well ahead of me."

Then, speaking seriously, Gromyko told a reporter that Russia still stands firmly behind the principle of unanimity of the five great powers in the Security Council—which is familiarly known as the veto in the U. N.

1600 Wacs Due to Get Training at Camp Lee

The Army estimated yesterday that 1600 WAC's will be [illegible] Lee in Virginia a few weeks after training starts October 1.

Current plans call for an initial group of 150 trainees. A like number will follow every two weeks for the 10-week basic training. Recruiting begins September 15.

Veterans Lobby for Housing

Some 500 participants in a self-termed one-day veterans lobby for housing and against the Mundt-Nixon bill yesterday called on individual Congressmen and then watched Congress operate from the tourist galleries.

They asked the Congressmen to kill the Mundt-Nixon bill against communism and to pass "without delay" the Taft-Ellender-Wagner housing bill.

Capitol police, who estimated the number participating, said there was no disorder as the veterans in small groups called on Senators and Representatives and stood in line, along with sightseers, to enter the Senate and House galleries.

The District Riot Squad, held in readiness, was dismissed at 4:30 p. m. when police reported all quiet. The one-day lobby was sponsored by the Veterans Committee Against the Mundt-Nixon Bill, one of the groups which staged a lively 5000-member protest here three weeks ago against the Mundt-Nixon measure.

Before going to the Capitol, the group assembled at Mount Carmel Baptist Church, 3d and I sts. nw., where Sid Ordower, Chicago, acting as chairman, suggested members strip themselves of Henry Wallace-for-President buttons so as not to stir "undue animosity" among Congressmen. A number of the "lobbyists" removed them.

New Peruvian Cabinet Chosen, Lima Reports

Lima, Peru, June 17 (AP).—A spokesman for the President said a new cabinet, headed by Foreign Minister Gen. Armando Revoredo, will be sworn in today.

The military cabinet of Rear Admiral Roque Saldias resigned yesterday over political differences with President Jose Luis Bustamente Rivero.

At Dead End In Coal Fight

By the United Press

Government's first attempt to mediate the soft coal contract dispute failed yesterday when John L. Lewis and the mine owners refused to compromise.

Federal Mediator Director Cyrus S. Ching held a two-hour exploratary meeting with both parties. Then he conferred separately with the management group to determine what can be done to head off a strike after the existing contract expires June 30.

He found out quickly that both sides were standing pat on their original and mutually unacceptable proposals.

Ching said he made no progress in efforts to revive collective bargaining but would try again today. He planned separate conferences in the morning and intends to bring both sides together at 11 a. m., (EDT).

Lewis announced gruffly that he still will not negotiate until the operators grant his two conditions: Immediate payment of pension and distress benefits from the 1947 welfare fund, and a guarantee that any pay raise finally agreed on will be retroactive to July 1, 1948.

Charles O'Neill, chief spokesman for the mine owners, retorted that the management group rejected those demands during the joint bargaining conference and still rejects them.

The operators based their opposition on the fact that the fund is now tied up by an industry lawsuit, which comes up for a hearing in Federal District Court here Saturday.

"We are here to negotiate a 1948 agreement and we are not here to intervene in the trustees (of the 1947 fund) lawsuits or to settle their disputes," O'Neill stated.

Government officials doubted that he could wait longer than today before notifying President Truman, under provisions of the Taft-Hartley Act, that a national emergency threatens.

Mr. Truman could set the act's strike-averting machinery in motion by appointing a board of inquiry. That would be the first step toward obtaining an injunction to prevent a mine strike for 80 days.

Ching told reporters after the morning meeting that he intended to study both sides' proposals "to see if we can find any basis for settlement."

China Asks Bar On Dutch War

Lake Success, N. Y., June 17 (U.P.).—China asked the Netherlands today to "assure" the United Nations that it would not revive the war in Indonesia.

The appeal, prompted by the Dutch decision to suspend political negotiations with the Indonesians, brought a reply from the the Netherlands that there was no need for the U. N. to "get panicky."

The U. N. Security Council resumed debate on the Indonesian problem amid fears the 5-month-old truce would break down.

Jacob Malik, newly appointd Soviet delegate to the U. N., in his maiden speech, charged the Dutch sought to strangle the Indonesian Republic.

Britain Has Accepted 'Dutch Sovereignty'

London, June 17 (AP).—A Foreign Office spokesman said today Britain has "accepted Dutch sovereignty" over Indonesia.

The Foreign Office has instructed all British diplomatic missions no longer to honor Indonesian Republican passports, he said.

'GLASS WAX' SHINES UP HOMES ACROSS NATION

CHEMICAL MAGIC:

New Product Cleans Brass, Chrome, Tile

Copper urns, brass andirons, handrails and plaques — ashtrays, ornaments, candlesticks, lamp stands—all the tarnish collecting brass and copper surfaces in the modern household—come dazzling clean in a jiffy with "GLASS WAX".

Chrome or nickel toasters, waffle irons, all decorative metal trim; brightwork on automobiles, boats, bicycles and other sports equipment —cleaned with "GLASS WAX" get a sparkling brightness that's unbelievable.

This pink wonder liquid lifts ugly blotches right out of the tiny pores of all vitreous finishes, dissolves them before your eyes. Tile, porcelain, enameled metalware are kept radiant this easy way.

Whether a glass, metal or vitreous surface is being cleaned, this new Gold Seal discovery performs its brightening miracles the same simple chemical way. "GLASS WAX" is wiped on with one clean, dry cloth and allowed to dry a few seconds. All dirt, tarnish, stains and film then wipe off on another dry, clean cloth. No messy water, rubbing or scrubbing.

This new product, "GLASS WAX", becomes truly a miracle cleaner with one simple wipe-on, wipe-off application.

Gold Seal Company Sales Office

The sales office of the Gold Seal Company, makers of "GLASS WAX" is now located at 1266 Commercial Trust Building, Philadelphia 2, Tel: Locust 4-3840-1.

Wedding-Bright Silver The Gold Seal Way

"NO RUBBING, NO BUFFING", writes Mrs. A. B. G., "and silver shining results with 'GLASS WAX' are astounding". Easy wipe-on, wipe-off dissolves and removes tarnish, restores satiny sheen.

"Beats Any Silver Polish I Ever Tried," Declares Mrs. A.C.

"GLASS WAX" does a sensational job on silverware—no matter how dingy and tarnished — without scratching or thinning the precious metal. No scrubbing or buffing. No slow, messy paste to fuss with.

To clean silver to sparkling brilliance with "GLASS WAX", simply wipe on with one cloth—wipe off with another. Off comes the staining tarnish—dissolved, loosened and removed like magic.

Just 20 minutes is required to clean silver service for eight when you use "GLASS WAX". That's the average time to do what was formerly one of the homemaker's most tedious jobs. No silverware is too fine to entrust to "GLASS WAX".

"I look for the identifying pink can to get 'GLASS WAX'."

Nothing Can Compare with 'GLASS WAX'

Day after day the Gold Seal Company receives dozens of letters from users of "GLASS WAX" who are so enthusiastic they feel they must write about their experiences.

The enthusiasm of these people is so overwhelming that it constitutes one of the biggest reasons why so many more hundreds of thousands are using "GLASS WAX" in their own homes.

Just read these unsolicited letters — then you'll know why "GLASS WAX", Gold Seal's wonderful product, has been an instantaneous hit everywhere.

"Calling It Miracle Cleaner an Understatement"—Mrs. B. A. S.
"Calling 'GLASS WAX' the miracle cleaner is the understatement of the year. Bought my first can last week and started on my windows and mirrors. Well, you know the usual result. But when I started using it on my sterling flatware that is eighteen years old, and on 'uncleanable' pewterware and saw the sparkling newness return, it was simply amazing."

"The Answer To All That Hard Work"—Mrs. I. H.
"When your advertisement on 'GLASS WAX' first appeared I said, 'That's for me'—for I have twenty-two windows, many mirrors, plenty of chromium, enameled surfaces and silverware to polish. Well, right in the can of 'GLASS WAX' I bought is the answer to all that hard work. Believe me, it's marvelous! My windows shine like diamonds and I can wash them (all of them) in less than one-half the time it took me before."

"New Zest Found In Hateful Chores"—Mrs. G. F.
"To me, cleaning silver, washing windows and mirrors, have always been most hateful chores. But after I applied 'GLASS WAX' to them and saw their lovely sparkling look, I suddenly developed a new zest for cleaning them. P.S. My husband loves 'GLASS WAX' for the chrome on our car."

"First Gold Seal Use the Thrill of My Life"—Mrs. W. R. C.
"I got the thrill of my life the first time I used your product, 'GLASS WAX', and have told countless people about it. It works like magic, and since I have quite a bit of glass and chromium in my home, I am constantly polishing it just for the fun of seeing it sparkle."

"Fun to clean windows now."—Mr. J. W. F.
"This business of cleaning windows twice a year has always been a pain in the neck — until I started using 'GLASS WAX'. Now it's really fun to do the job. 'GLASS WAX' gets my vote as husband-pleaser number one."

Housewives Save Time, Effort As New Gold Seal Formula Makes Glass and Silver Bright

'Cuts My Cleaning Time in Half'

ONCE OVER WITH 'GLASS WAX' IS ENOUGH! For cleaning, brightening silverware, copper, brass, chromium, porcelain, windows, mirrors—pieces all over the house—"GLASS WAX" needs no second application—does the whole job the first time.

Wipe On, Wipe Off, It's Easy!

Homes of this community—and millions more in other towns and cities across the nation—today gleam with a spic and span beauty created by the Gold Seal Company's wartime discovery—"GLASS WAX".

Homemakers everywhere are singing the praises of this amazing new chemical cleaner—this cleaner that puts a dazzling lustre on all glass or metal surfaces.

Housecleaning "Miracle"

"GLASS WAX" is the new housecleaning miracle that is lopping precious minutes and hours from daily tasks—bringing a gleaming finish to windows, mirrors, porcelain stoves, stainless steel sinks, silverware, fireplace equipment and a hundred other glass or metal objects.

"GLASS WAX", the exclusive chemical that "cleans 30 kinds of dirt in 30 seconds" is available in this community at grocery, drug, hardware, variety and department stores. Prices are 59c a pint; 98c a quart; $2.95 a gallon.

Millions of users of "GLASS WAX" have already found that this product of Gold Seal is amazingly easy to use—amazingly fast in its cleaning action. No water is required. All one needs is two soft cloths. Then just wipe on "GLASS WAX" with one cloth—let it dry for a few seconds—then wipe it off with the second cloth. Yes—just wipe it on—then wipe it off.

Dissolves Dirt Swiftly

"GLASS WAX" contains secret ingredients that swiftly dissolve all the 30 kinds of dirt found on windows, other glass surfaces and metal surfaces. The surface is left with a fine lustre.

The power of "GLASS WAX" to leave a crystal clear protective film on cleaned surfaces means glass and metalware stay gleaming longer. Silver pieces, for example, that formerly had to be cleaned of tarnish every few days now retain their brilliant finish for weeks.

CHEMISTS REPORT:

30 Kinds of Dirt on Windows! 'GLASS WAX' Removes All 30

"GLASS WAX" chemists collected and studied sample window panes from homes in every state of the union. The scrapings, analyzed, revealed 30 kinds of clinging dirt and discoloration.

The chemists reported, "more than just 'ordinary dirt' fouls the window panes of America. Almost every one of the 48 states seems to stir up its own special combination of air-borne smudges and stains.

"Eastern mill town windows are dirtied by greasy soot streaks and salt water minerals. Midwestern window glass is dulled by sticky pollens, lime dust and tars. Gleam is robbed from southern and western panes by stubborn silica deposits. Certain rare minerals are found killing the sparkle of glass in some areas."

To make a most exacting test of the cleaning powers of "GLASS WAX", a special laboratory mixture was made of all 30 kinds of dirt found, and smeared on glass. It was found that "GLASS WAX" removed every one of the stubborn discolorations with one easy, wipe-on, wipe-off application.

Crystal Clear Film Protects

After safely dissolving blemishing grime, "GLASS WAX" leaves a transparent protective film that resists new fingerprints, spatters and stains.

A secret chemical in "GLASS WAX" leaves this dirt and moisture resisting film. It cannot be seen, but it is there, automatically making any cleaned surface less attractive to lustre-killing grime.

That means once you start cleaning with "GLASS WAX" you'll find surfaces less soiled, easier to restore to sparkling radiance. The clear, clear film left by "GLASS WAX" helps keep your windows and metal surfaces gleaming bright longer.

Stores, Offices Quickly Get Lasting Sparkle

SHOW CASES GLEAM—Show cases made sparkling clear with "GLASS WAX" give better display to merchandise, make store more attractive to customers.

INSIDE AND OUT—Glass doors, smudge-catchers from both indoors and out, made clear with "GLASS WAX".

Chemical Way Is Modern Way To Clean Glass

Hard rubbing and tiring polishing are no longer necessary when windows and mirrors are cleaned the modern way with "GLASS WAX". The secret is the chemical ingredient, discovered during the war, which actually dissolves 30 kinds of dirt in 30 seconds.

When "GLASS WAX" is wiped over the soiled surface, it immediately goes to work—dissolving and dislodging the grimy dirt. When it is wiped off with a clean cloth, all dirt comes with it and the brilliant sparkling lustre of the glass is revealed.

Congress Deadlocks On Foreign Aid Bill

A Senate-House conference recessed last night until today after four hours of futile effort to reconcile the two houses' appropriations for foreign aid funds.

The conference was deadlocked on every point. Members emerged saying in various ways, and with varying emphasis, that no agreement had been reached on anything.

The fundamental issue was whether to put European recovery spending on a 12-month basis, as the Senate wanted, or to make the funds last 15 months, as the House wanted.

"Did the 12-month basis hold?" a reporter asked Chairman Styles Bridges (R., N. H.) of the Senate Appropriations Committee.

"Nothing much seemed to hold today, said Bridges with a wry smile.

Chairman John Taber (R., N. Y.) of the House Appropriations Committee had announced in advance that he would fight hard to keep the House cuts, which Senator Arthur H. Vandenberg (R., Mich.) branded as the use of the "meat-ax technique."

From all accounts Taber kept his word. Taber himself said that "we went over a lot of little details, but didn't agree on anything." Another member said Taber had been unusually "hard to handle," and another said he had seldom seen such complete deadlock in any conference on an appropriation bill.

However, the expectation persisted that the 12-month basis would be restored in the end, perhaps with further cuts in the appropriation and without most of the legislative restrictions originally written into the House bill.

The conferees will meet again at 2 o'clock this afternoon, with the Senate adjournment deadline of Saturday night staring them in the face.

Without Painful Backache
Many sufferers relieve nagging backache quickly, once they discover that the real cause of their trouble may be tired kidneys.
The kidneys are Nature's chief way of taking the excess acids and waste out of the blood. They help most people pass about 3 pints a day.
When disorder of kidney function permits poisonous matter to remain in your blood, it may cause nagging backache, rheumatic pains, leg pains, loss of pep and energy, getting up nights, swelling, puffiness under the eyes, headaches and dizziness. Frequent or scanty passages with smarting and burning sometimes shows there is something wrong with your kidneys or bladder.
Don't wait! Ask your druggist for Doan's Pills, a stimulant diuretic, used successfully by millions for over 50 years. Doan's give happy relief and will help the 15 miles of kidney tubes flush out poisonous waste from your blood. Get Doan's Pills.

Fritz Kuhn, Bund Leader, Recaptured in French Zone

Munich, June 17 (AP).—Fritz Kuhn, deported German-American Bund chief, was recaptured because he tried to get a license to operate a chemist's laboratory, it was revealed today.

Kuhn

"If you hadn't worked for a guy like Hitler you wouldn't be here today," he was told by Munich Police President Franz Pitzer.

"Who would have known that it would end like this," Kuhn replied.

Kuhn was seized two days ago in the French zone town of Bernkastel near Trier 4½ months after he escaped from Dachau interment camp where he was awaiting trial before a German denazification court.

He faces 10 years at hard labor, the sentence the court handed down in his absence on April 20.

Kuhn said, "The door was open and so I went through."

He said his romance with blonde waitress Frau Hedwig Munz, former employe of a U. S. Army snack bar, was "all finished."

Police Prevent Stevedore Fight Over Ship Loading

New York, June 17 (AP).—Police today prevented a possible battle as rival groups of longshoremen gathered at the Brooklyn pier where stevedores refused to load the Yugoslav ship Radnik.

The regular longshoremen who stopped loading the ship Tuesday after finding pictures of Stalin and Tito aboard, were opposed today by a smaller group of dock workers of Yugoslav descent.

The groups gathered at the shore end of the pier and hurled insults at each other.

China Reds Free Twelve American And British Nuns

Peiping, Thursday, June 17 (AP). Twelve American, British and Canadian nuns and 13 Chinese sisters who had been prisoners of the Reds for seven months in Hsienshien, were returned to Tientsin today following protracted negotiations.

Five foreign priests under Communist death sentence have been reprieved. An open vote by the pople of Hsienshien overruled the court decision and the Reds decided to cancel the sentence.

The American sisters are Julienne Janelle (Mother Superior), and Clara Samson, both of Manchester, N. H.; Noela Bissonetta, Three Rivers, Conn.; Mary Imperial, Boston, and Stephanie L'Heureaux, Taftville, Conn.

Clark Assails Anti-Red Measure

"we can write a good bill that would meet all constitutional objections," but he added:

"There isn't enough time for any action in the Senate. Perhaps next year, or even this year if we have a session later, we could act. But not now—it's a question of time."—Editor's Note.]

Booklet Issued

The Un-American Activities group, headed by Representative J. Parnell Thomas (R., N. J.), issued a booklet entitled "100 Things You Should Know About Communism in the USA." It said:

"Communism is concentrating now on immediate capture of Afghanistan, China, France, Greece, Latin America, Iran and Palestine.

"It has plans to seize every other country including the United States."

The report cited the American Constitution definition that "treason against the United States shall consist only in levying war against them, or in adhering to their enemies, giving them aid and comfort." It added:

"The Soviet Union has launched what has been called a 'cold war' on the United States. Therefore, Communists are engaged in what might be called 'cold war treason.'

"If communism should come to power in this company, our capital would move from Washington to Moscow. Every man, woman and child would come under Communist discipline."

The booklet, scheduled for wide distribution, is the first of five being prepared by the committee. Thomas said the booklets are designed to expose the infiltration of communism in American religion, education, labor and government.

To Spot a Communist

"These booklets are intended to help you know a Communist when you hear him speak and when you see him work," it continued.

Question No. 62 in the booklet is "How can a Communist be Identified?" The answer as given by the booklet is: "It is easy. Ask him to name 10 things wrong with the United States. Then ask him to name two things wrong with Russia. His answers will show him up even to a child. Communists will denounce the President of the United States. They will never denounce Stalin."

The report said the "real center of power in communism" is within the professional classes. It added:

"A few poor people respond to the Communist claim that it is a 'working class movement.'

"But taken as a whole, the party depends for its strength on the support it gets from teachers, preachers, actors, writers, union officials, doctors, lawyers, editors, businessmen, and even from millionaires."

Marshall Says Firmness Vital

Marshall did not describe the trend of world events as either better or worse.

"You and I know it isn't any better," Eaton said.

Mrs. Bolton Airs Views

Representative Frances P. Bolton (R., Ohio) said Marshall had given her the impression that "he felt there was no pressing emergency."

Immediately after the committee meeting Eaton hurried to consult Speaker Joseph W. Martin about the prospects of House action on the bill providing a 65-million-dollar loan for United Nations headquarters in New York. The Senate Foreign Relations Committee warned this week that the United Nations might move to a European headquarters if Congress failed to act on the bill.

Later Eaton seemed encouraged, and a committee spokesman indicated there was a 10 to 1 chance that the bill would be debated before tonight.

Fete for Chamberlain

Samuel Chamberlain, author of books of scenic pictures, will meet his friends tonight at 8:30 at the Chequire House, 202 King st., Alexandria. Among his books are "Springtime in Virginia" and "Behold Williamsburg."

Who will you meet in this week's LIFE?

The cast of characters of the history-making Republican Convention which LIFE and NBC will televise next week . . .

As always, LIFE's unique picture and text reporting makes people, and the things they do, vividly real to 26,000,000 weekly readers.

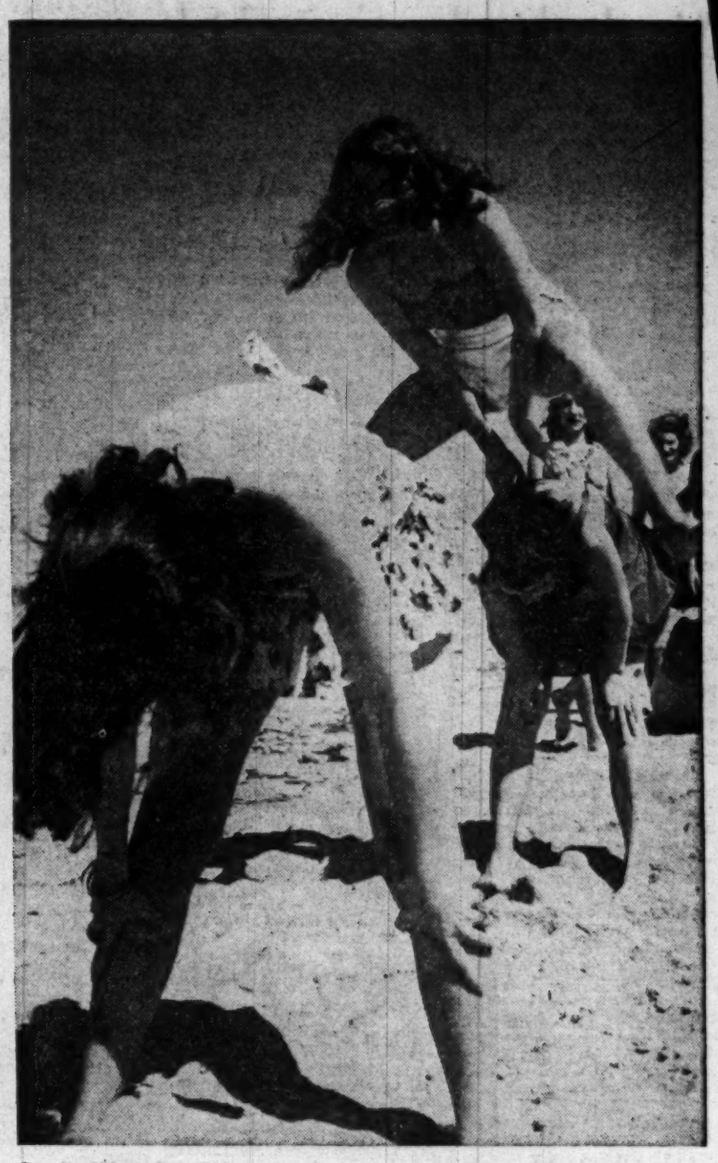
Patrolman Murphy on Duty—LIFE features a blow-by-blow description of an actual night on the beat in New York's tough and rugged 23rd Precinct. Duties range from chiding kids to hunting knife-murderer.



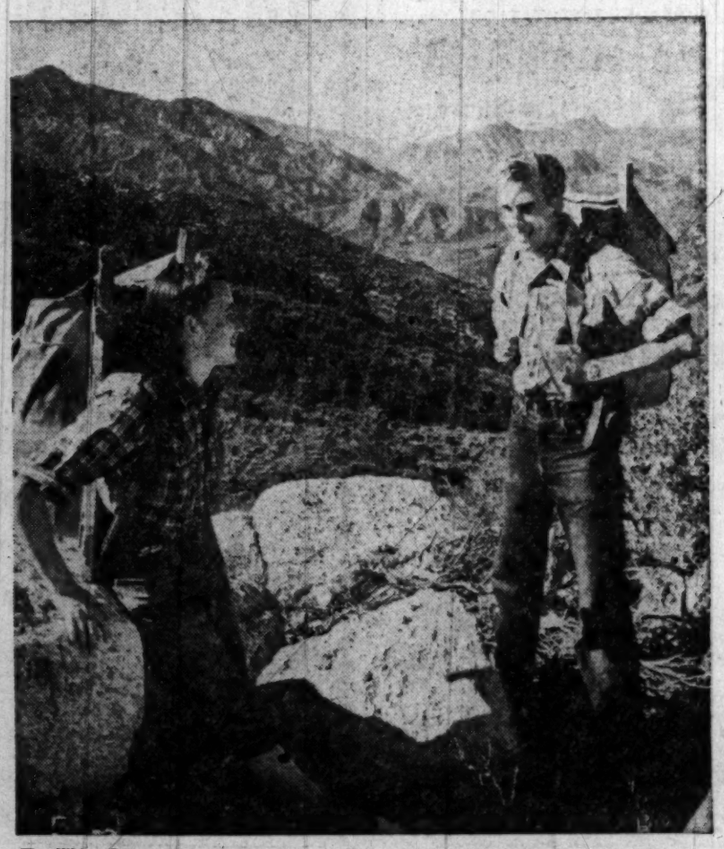
Sorority Girls at Cape Cod—LIFE goes on a Sorority party that Wellesley, Mass. high school juniors gave seniors. Girls went sailing, clamming, had themselves a fine time indulging in horseplay and horseback riding.

World Federalist and Friend—Albert Einstein tells World Federalists President, Cord Meyer Jr., that Russia would first oppose world government, then collaborate. 7-page LIFE feature shows the people who are trying to unite nations.

Cowboy on Nursery Bronco—New steel hobby horse, called Mobo Bronco, races across floor at 4 mph., to young rider's obvious delight. LIFE shows you this, and other British-made toys that are, or soon will be, bidding for U.S. dollars.

Hong Kong Refugee—Marshall Li Chi-sen, who opposes Chiang-Kai-shek, is one of the legendary refugees living in Hong Kong. LIFE's fascinating photo-essay brings you to Hong Kong, the teeming "middleman of the East."

Girl with Keyhole Neckline—New summer fashions, with the cool, bare look, include this keyhole neckline, wired to stay in place. LIFE shows you the dresses that will for the first time permit as much exposure in town as in the country.



The Hiking Rosenes—Nita and Russ Rosene start the trek that took six months, covered 11,000 miles. In black and white, and full-color photographs, LIFE brings you their adventures in U.S. and Canada against backgrounds of scenic beauty.

British Troop Haul Made by U. S. in '41

By The Associated Press

The help we gave Britain "short of war" before Pearl Harbor included transporting 20,000 British troops from Nova Scotia to the Middle East.

Churchill

Robert E. Sherwood, Hopkins' biographer, says this is what happened:

Prime Minister Churchill asked American help to get 40,000 British troops to the Middle East. President Roosevelt turned thumbs down on sending American ships into British ports in order to do it.

Finally British ships took 20,000 men to Nova Scotia. And then American ships, manned by American crews, took them through neutral waters to the Middle East.

This was two months before the Japanese attack on Pearl Harbor.

Hopkins, who was Roosevelt's personal representative to Josef Stalin in July, 1941, suspected Stalin's power in Russia "was not so absolute as he had first imagined," Sherwood says.

"But he never gained any clear idea as to hwo the Pilitburo really operated, and neither did Roosevelt," the account continues.

As time went on . . . they became more and more aware of it (the Politburo) as an unseen, incomprehensible but potent influence on Stalin and thus on all Allied long-term policy."

Hopkins said Stalin was willing to turn over all important Russian military plans to the United States, including designs of heavy military equipment. He was willing, the notes say, for an American Army under American command to fight on Russian soil.

Stalin wouldn't put his offers in writing. Hopkins had to take them back in his head—and almost died on the way. He didn't mention in his notes what he almost died of.

He said Stalin told him he thought it would be "difficult" for the British-Russian combination to defeat the German army, but that Russia would continue to fight. But Hopkins said Stalin wanted Roosevelt to declare immediate war on Germany for the psychological effect, that Stalin thought Roosevelt "had more influence with the common people of the world than any other force."

Hopkins said the "Atlantic Charter" with its promise of four freedoms, apparently turned out to be a "more powerful instrument than the British intended it to be."

He thought the British regarded it only as a "publicity handout," but that Roosevelt took it seriously.

Crippled Boy Is Made New By Surgery

Boston, June 17 (U.P.).—A 17-year-old Creek Indian, so crippled when he came here for treatment 18 months ago that he was known as the "Spider Boy," left Children's Hospital today walking normally for the first time in his life.

Surgeons virtually had reconstructed the body of Kenneth Thames of Okmulgee, Okla.

The surgery also changed him from a sullen recluse into a normal, cheerful boy, they said.

In three delicate and lengthy operations, doctors moved his "floating pelvis" to its proper position and fused it to his spine. That enabled him to stand erect, sit properly and lie on his back for the first time since birth.

Doctors said the boy was born with a crippling bone disease known as archmodactyly, a spider-like elongation of the extremities that had dislocated his pelvis from his spine and pushed it forward against his ribs.

Misplaced Veto Power

The District Commissioners are showing a good deal of respect these days for proper municipal organization. Some weeks ago they acknowledged that they were impressed by the section of the Auchincloss report on the District government which calls for a systematic grouping of agencies under 12 executive departments. Acting in accord with the Auchincloss pattern, they rejected the advice of a special board that the new Alcoholic Clinic be set up outside of the Health Department. Now Commissioner Mason has reversed his previous indorsement of the plea of Drs. Brian Blades and Robert J. Coffey for a separate hospitals department. The two doctors' criticism, which accompanied their advocacy of this unsound scheme, he says, had a "bad effect" on morale of Gallinger Hospital. Certainly that bad effect must have been magnified by the Commissioner's own support of the idea. With Mr. Mason now recanting, however, some of the damage to morale may be repaired, and one may hope that the incident will prompt the Commissioner to do his thinking before he airs his views next time.

Considering this laudable interest in sound organization, there is ground for hope that another serious error will be corrected. In setting up the Alcoholic Clinic in the Health Department, the Commissioners ordered that no director could be appointed without the approval of an advisory board whose primary function is consultation with the health officer on questions of policy. Here is an atrocious division of authority that cannot be justified by sound administrative practice. It gives the board a chance to hamstring the Health Department in this phase of its work. Indeed, the Commissioners are inflicting on the health officer and this advisory board the same handicap that now bedevils the relations between the Commissioners themselves and the Board of Public Welfare. The Commissioners have often urged Congress to eliminate this latter division of authority. Yet they are creating a similar illogical schism within an area wholly under their control. The idea of an advisory board to the Alcoholic Clinic has much to commend it, but an advisory board ought to be advisory only. To give it a veto power over appointments is to confuse lines of authority and invite trouble unnecessarily.

No Time For Fishing

When the 70-group Air Force was voted with such emotional ardor, this newspaper called the sudden enthusiasm for it an effort to evade responsibility for the draft. The situation in the House confirms the accuracy of this observation. The restriction-bound draft bill with which the House is toying is hardly even a makeshift for the real thing. To make matters worse the House still has not acted on the omnibus United Nations bill which includes the Vandenberg resolution in support of western Europe as well as the vital 65-million-dollar loan to enable the U. N. to build its new headquarters in New York. Both the draft and the U. N. measures are directly related and have an intimate bearing on the national defense and America's stature in world affairs.

It is unlikely that most members of the House would vote cold for a draft bill that was nothing but a token. Yet, through the hodge-podge of amendments and filibusters, that is almost what the House bill has become. It is ridiculous to think, for example, that a one-year draft will suffice in place of the two-year version passed by the Senate. There simply is not enough manpower in the 19-25 age group to permit this rapid a turnover. The purpose of the draft is to bring the armed services to their statutory strength, and any bill which does not do this becomes just a gesture—and empty gestures of military strength are dangerous. The same considerations govern efforts to make the draft a forum for civil rights or to force the services to lower induction requirements. And the House vote to delay induction till January 1 and put the decision up to the President is mere political trickery. If the draft is necessary at all, it is necessary now.

The most practical kind of support this country can give the United Nations is the loan for the U. N. headquarters—a loan which, incidentally, involves no financial risk. That would provide the physical strengthening which is the counterpart of the moral strengthening embodied in the Vandenberg resolution. The Senate has passed all the important U. N. measures except the headquarters loan, and there appears to be no major obstacle to approval of the Ives bill providing for the loan itself. In the House, however, the omnibus U. N. bill is bottled up, as usual, in the Rules Committee. If it would do any good, a move might be countenanced to separate the headquarters loan and pass it apart from the bulk of the U. N. support bill. The loan is a small matter in itself, but one of tremendous significance. Failure to pass it would almost certainly result in an effort to remove the site of the United Nations outside America.

The hot-and-cold attitudes of Congress toward the national defense is disheartening. First this country, in an unprecedented act of statesmanship, authorized the European Recovery Program; then the appropriations were gutted. It was instrumental in the formation of the United Nations; yet Congress has balked on the measure necessary to give the U. N. a headquarters of its own. There was much talk in Congress about the necessity of affording western Europe a military guaranty against aggression; but the legislation to give the armed forces meaningful strength is in danger of being talked to death. The sum of these inconsistencies is to show the frightening aptness of one commentator's quip that when Congressmen are activated by hysteria they go crazy and when the hysteria is absent they go fishing. Will they elect to take a holiday from reality now when the leadership of the world is at stake?

Two Germanys

The debate in the French Assembly which preceded the reluctant and narrow acceptance of the six-power agreement on Germany provided an exhibition of air-flailing as much as soul-searching. "Who can be surprised," asked Edouard Bonnefous, chairman of the Assembly's Foreign Affairs Committee, "that our people want the German problem settled not in an isolated manner but in the framework of Europe." This theme is expressed in the sixth "injunction" accompanying the Assembly's assent to the six-power agreement: That it [the government] increase action for the economic and political organization of Europe. If that were French policy, most Americans would applaud; but in the present French position, as expressed both in the Assembly and in the negotiations of the French government, there is far more rhetoric than policy. The fact is that the French have flatly refused to admit Germans on equal terms to the Organization for European Economic Cooperation—that is to say, to start settling the German problem "in the framework of Europe." This divergence between word and action is symptomatic of a neurosis which France does not seem able to shake off. Europe needs decision in France, and the absence of it will lead the rest of the world to think that a dog-in-the-manger attitude is all that can be expected from the present France.

By no means are we forgetful that France has a legitimate grievance against the six-power agreement. Indeed, we would re-emphasize it. The Ruhr part of the pact would put the distribution of Ruhr output in international hands. Since the Ruhr is the workshop of continental Europe, and since the Organization of European Economic Cooperation is now in being, this is entirely logical. The trouble is that the agreement is incomplete. Production should be vested in international authority, no less than distribution; and there is reason to think that this is what the French wanted, but what the Americans and the British rejected. A real internationalization of Ruhr industry—with sovereignty kept German—would be the nucleus for the progressive internationalization that is required in Europe as the price of European survival as well as European recovery.

It is clear, moreover, that the east-west struggle for Germany will be intensified by the six-power decision to set up a German government in Frankfurt. Many who do not think with us that it is unnecessary agree that it is at least untimely. Moscow will not take it lying down. Already the Russians are stepping up a pressure in Berlin aimed at persuading the western powers to quit a city zone which is separated from the western zone and which is territorially located in the Soviet sphere. Either the Russians will seek to incorporate Berlin in the Soviet zone or they will try to make it the capital of a rival government to Frankfurt for puppet Germans to administer. Their warrant is that Berlin has lost its raison d'etre as the capital of a commonly run Germany. The Kommandatura, the powers' municipal council, is now in a state of suspense, along with the Allied Control Council, or the powers' governing body for Germany. Our staying in Berlin after the Constituent Assembly has been convened in Frankfurt would thus be more face-saving than logical.

The prospect of rival governments in Germany run in the shadows by rival powers is highly disturbing. It would be inevitable that in these circumstances the supporting powers would compete for the favor of the German people. In this competition the Russians would hold the trumps, including the return to Germany of the lost lands of the east and a ready-made army under Marshal von Paulus. Who would profit? Of course, the Germans; and already the stirrings of a new nationalism are reported from Germany on the heels of the six-power agreement. Surely the attempt could have been made to transform this German nationalism instead of giving it a focus in the shape of a government—to Europeanize Germany rather than to Germanize it. But here French fears were a barrier. In part these fears are understandable in terms of France's experience of furor teutonicus and the overhanging threat of Soviet aggression, and we believe that, in our own security let alone France's, France should get real assurances from America before Congress adjourns. But, when all is said and done, France must pull her own weight in seeking to bring the Germans within a genuine European community. No new order can be built on fear. Faith—the nexus between the present and the future—is the basic ingredient of a European order.

Dehoused

The parliamentary shenanigans which have left the Taft-Ellender-Wagner housing bill high and dry in the House have had the corollary effect of plunging a good many Congressmen into the political soup. For the promise of housing legislation has been one of the most often-repeated pledges of the Eightieth Congress. Virtually every member is committed to support some kind of housing bill. Yet the Taft-Ellender-Wagner bill has been tabled by the Rules Committee, and the Senate apparently will not accept the substitute Wolcott bill which omits the salient public housing, Government research and slum-clearance provisions. The defection is likely to cause members embarrassment when they face their constituents out of all proportion to what the housing legislation would have accomplished.

Although ostensibly Representative Leo Allen and the House Rules Committee bear the onus of having killed the housing bill, the real responsibility belongs to Speaker Joseph W. Martin, for whom Mr. Allen has been stooging. Had the Speaker lifted a finger, the T-E-W bill would have emerged. Mr. Martin's plans were almost disrupted earlier this week by the surprise vote of the House Banking and Currency Committee to report out the T-E-W bill over the objections of Chairman Wolcott. The new snag manufactured by the Rules Committee, and the alternative bill offered by Mr. Wolcott, were, obviously, desperate moves to prevent the public housing features from being considered on the floor. These moves had to have the connivance of Speaker Martin.

The failure of the House, however, is more than merely the result of Mr. Martin's personal politicking or the animus that exists between Representative Wolcott and the bill's Senate sponsor, Senator Taft. It reflects the lack of any basic agreement between the Senate and House leadership. Had such an agreement been in existence, Mr. Martin would not have dared to thwart the pledge. As it is, the Senate is perfectly right in not accepting the gutted substitute that Mr. Wolcott proposes. As Senator Flanders noted, "The Senate has passed the T-E-W bill and has made its record. The House has a record of obstruction."

The only remaining chance of getting action depends on whether enough legislators become sufficiently incensed over the unsavory plight into which they have been cast to force Speaker Martin and the Rules Committee to reverse themselves. Certainly the present betrayal is exactly what Senator Tobey called it, "poor sportsmanship" and "misuse and misappropriation of legislative intent and power." That is always the case when Congress, for whatever purpose, puts a small group of willful men in positions where they are able to frustrate the democratic process.

Louder and Louder

Is is not enough, it seems, that, with the blessing of the Supreme Court, our ears are to be bombarded by raucous admonitions and appeals, political and otherwise, coming from sound trucks in parks and on street corners. A new advertising industry called store broadcasting is reported making great headway. Several grocery chains are trying it out. Housewives as they struggle with baskets or carts through grocery shopping crowds, trying to decide whether they can afford bananas after what they paid for lamb chops, now find themselves being urged through a loudspeaker to take home Zilch's canned beans or Blink's macaroni to surprise and delight their husbands. The voice is usually a compelling masculine one, frequently that of a familiar radio announcer. As yet, advertisers aren't fully decided whether this method will cause shoppers to harken to suggestion or to clap their hands over their ears and flee the store. If sales go up—as they already have on some products so advertised—loud speaker advertising will be extended.

After that, no doubt we shall find ourselves being pursued by resonant hucksters into department stores, restaurants, beauty shops, drug stores, barber shops, pool halls, even Turkish baths. Already broadcasting on streetcars has become a public issue. Taxis will probably join the movement and lease out their ether. Add all the honking from power-mad motorists, and the screeching of their brakes, clatter of trucks, clangor of streetcars, whir of low flying airplanes, shriek of telephones, blare of neighbors' trumpet-voiced radios, and we shall be virtually assured of continuous din. Nor need we expect anything to be done about it. For decades little groups of crusaders have organized societies and passed resolutions for noise abatement, yet bedlam around us increases. Perhaps we should be realistic and face the fact that most people like noise—especially if they can make it themselves—also that as life gets more and more mechanized, more people will be equipped with noisemakers, and that we might as well take Pope's advice and learn "the wondrous power of Noise."

RAIN AT DUSK

Through the quiet fall of rain
Birds flash homeward down the air.
Subtly through the world of green
Night comes on. No thorn of fear

Pierces any songful threat
Darkness rushes from the east.
Stillness deepens in the great Hall of shadow. At the last

There is only rain to make Any sound against the dark.

"Overtime On Overtime"

Referring to your editorial of June 14, "Overtime on Overtime," I would like to point out what appears to me to be a serious omission from your analysis of the problem. After recounting the effects of the Supreme Court's decision in the so-called portal-to-portal case, you indicate that the Supreme Court's decision in the recent overtime cases may have similar consequences—that is, set off an avalanche of back pay suits involving very large sums.

You fail to mention, however, that the Portal-to-Portal Act of 1947 is on the books now and that this law contains defenses to cut down or eliminate altogether back pay liability of employers under just the kind of circumstances produced by the recent Supreme Court decision.

Section 9 of the Portal Act specifically provides that an employer shall not incur any back-pay liability as a result of a court decision where it can be shown that the employer's conduct was based on good faith compliance with an administrative ruling.

It is a fact that the decision of the Supreme Court, in effect, invalidates a long-standing ruling of the wage and hour administrator. As a result, employers faced with back-pay liabilities may plead this ruling as a complete defense. The cases decided by the Supreme Court were actually returned to the District Court for consideration of these defenses. It is highly probable that the longshoremen involved will recover not a penny.

Incidentally, it will be the U. S. Treasury rather than the individual employers, who have advertised their plight so eloquently, which will have to foot any back pay bill, because of wartime contract relationships between the employers and the Government.

By glossing over these defenses and by spotlighting the allegedly fantastic back overtime liabilities involved, employers are trying to get Congress to rush through an overtime bill which will nullify many of the present good features of the wage-hour law and cut down employes' pay envelopes, already thinning out as a result of inflationary pressures.

"Police Trial Board"

With reference to the June 14 editorial "Police Trial Board," I wish to express satisfaction and agreement with the position taken by The Washington Post in all but one instance.

The Washington Post agrees that the civilian lawyer or lawyers, if its recommendations are accepted, should be drawn from a panel of names provided by the District Bar Association. The District Bar Association admits to membership only lawyers who are members of the white race. This being true, a panel of names set up by the District Bar Association would most likely be a panel of all white lawyers and this would be in effect denying Negro lawyers the opportunity to serve on the trial boards. To this I am strongly opposed.

As a counterproposal then, I suggest that the panel of 10 or 20 civilian lawyers be selected from the roll of the District Court of the United States for the District of Columbia and that this selection be made without respect to race, religion or creed.

Baseball Sportsmanship

As a Washington native and baseball fan for 25 years, I can't let Francis E. Dodd's unfair slur on the sportsmanship of Washington fans in his letter of June 10 go unanswered. I, too, had the pleasure of listening to the sensational scoreless game to which he refers and heard the booing of Feller which Mr. Dodd decries as bad sportsmanship. I'm afraid he just completely missed the point of the situation involved.

I agree that good sportsmanship far outweighs winning or losing the game, but in my own mind the booing was precipitated solely by the bad sportsmanship of Feller, who violated the clear rules of the game by arrogating to himself the privilege of numerous warm-up pitches to his infielders after he himself had delayed the game at a crucial point for his own benefit, thus robbing Washington of a possible victory in that inning.

For Mr. Dodd's information, the rules allow a specified number of warm-up pitches, five only, for relief pitchers when entering the game. DANIEL W. CARNEY.

Truth About "Trud"

With reference to the editorial "Whodunit" of June 15: Trud means "labor" in Russian not "truth." Although trud may sound like "truth," spoken in a Russian accent, one should not jump to superficial conclusions about words in distantly related languages which merely sound alike. A. B. HOBBES.

Overseas Administration

Mr. Lockhart of the American Foreign Service Association wrote at length, on June 12, regarding the "Overseas Administration Corps" previously discussed in the New York Times and The Washington Post. Mr. Lockhart makes an enthusiastic defense for the existing Foreign Service.

The reason why the Board of Economic Warfare, the Foreign Economic Administration, the Office of War Information and the Office of Strategic Service were created was due to the lack of numbers and skills within the career Foreign Service. The same holds true regarding the Economic Recovery Administration.

Why is there such narrowness and paucity of personnel within the Foreign Service? Because the board of examiners of the Foreign Service, in regulations issued May 26, 1948, limit the number of entrants from the Department of State (which has several thousand employes). The director general of the Foreign Service himself predetermines the number of entrants into the top four classes of the service, on the basis of "not to exceed 5 per cent of the annual vacancies in each class, or one, whichever is greater."

Thus the expansion possibilities are limited to about four or six men per year. It is no wonder that the Congress, the public, and the press conclude that another organization is needed to do the job. RAYMOND C. RANDALL.

No Peace Conference With Russia

Soviet Russia and Henry A. Wallace cannot be expected to discontinue urging that peace negotiations be held between Washington and Moscow. If President Truman continues to stand upon the position he took at Berkeley, Calif., on June 12, in declining negotiation, as he doubtless will, the opportunity persists for world-wide propaganda misrepresenting this country as unwilling to use civilized means for peace and as conspicuously seeking war and world dominion.

It is important to consider the most fundamental reason why this country should decline peace negotiations with Russia.

The conference idea is strongly supported by world-wide longing for peace. Not only Mr. Wallace but many able and patriotic men and organizations, including bodies of churchmen, have urged a conference with the Soviets. As to such a conference it will be recalled that a recent Gallup poll showed 63 per cent in favor, 9 per cent in doubt and only 28 per cent in opposition.

As Stalin and Wallace doubtless realize, the American Government cannot officially declare to its citizens, the Kremlin and the world the chief reason why it cannot participate in a conference with the Soviets and stipulate terms of agreement. A full official explanation would be too great an affront. It would seem to many Americans and to some foreign capitals to be an undiplomatic, indeed a warlike declaration.

Hence statements of the most basic reason why such a conference would be extremely unwise must be left to unofficial Americans.

There is no real analogy between the steps appropriate in the present deadlock with Russia and steps appropriate when businessmen disagree in a free country. Businessmen have two grounds of reliance when they settle disputes by agreement: they, in general, believe that those with whom they contract are honest and expect to, and will, do as they agree; and, if any party violates his agreement, fair courts and officers are available for redress.

Neither of these grounds of reliance exists in our relations with Russia.

We cannot rely upon Soviet good faith. The State Department reported 37 Russian violations to the Senate Foreign Relations Committee in a report released May 29. The underlying causes are shown in David Shub's recent biography of Lenin. The Soviets have, it is clear, a code of honor which is strictly upheld, that of loyalty to the Communist idea and state. No crime of violence or treachery committed in service of communism is to be condemned; rather it is glorified. The Kremlin walks in the paths of Machiavelli, Hitler and Lenin.

The second ground for entering into agreements, that of means for peaceful enforcement, is equally nonexistent as respects agreement with Russia. It will remain so until the United Nations establishes an international court for the redress of grievances backed by military forces capable of carrying its decrees into effect.

From such a conference, Mr. Truman might emerge, like Mr. Chamberlain back from Munich, with the supposed prize, "peace in our time."

But clearly Stalin's promises are no better than Hitler's were, and a peace settlement would be used by Russia and her American sympathizers as propaganda toward killing off our defense preparedness. The argument would be: Why make a peace deal with the Russians and still get ready to fight them?

We would probably relax, as is usual with democratic states, and be all unprepared for the next Russian aggression, to be staged when the Soviets had digested recent expansions.

The only safe course was that outlined by the President at Berkeley, that of not becoming entangled in a peace conference, while continuing preparedness, military and economic, at home and among friendly powers. It is the road more likely to bring peace and it may be that the Soviet attempt to keep truth and honor "forever on the scaffold" may not work out in the long run if the western world will clean house.

Washington Calling

By Marquis Childs

Reluctant Vandenberg

THE MASSIVE achievement of Senator Arthur H. Vandenberg in the Eightieth Congress is likely to loom even larger with the passage of time. With his able staff on the Foreign Relations Committee, he has led his party, sometimes balky and surly, from one historic milestone to another.

On the record he deserves the highest honor the GOP can offer. But as Vandenberg has often pointed out, that honor has never gone to the man who waits to be drafted.

While he has consistently been the first choice of millions of voters in the event of a deadlock at Philadelphia, he has just as consistently refused to help in any way to gain the nomination. Ardent admirers and friends have pleaded with him, in vain, to be allowed to take the steps necessary to crystallize the vast latent support in the party and in the country.

Unless such steps are taken, with floor managers ready to seize the strategic opportunity Vandenberg's admirers fear the convention may pass him by. Enthusiastic friends are working, but without coordination.

TWO FACTORS are back of Vandenberg's reluctance. One is a kind of pride that restrains him from seeking the office and being repaid with a rebuff.

The other, and far more important, reason is his genuine hesitation before the crushing burden of the Presidency. This has little to do with his health, which he and his doctors believe to be good.

Nevertheless he is 64 years old. Moving into the White House, he would break the rhythm of his Senate life, and he cherishes that rhythm.

As President, he would be faced with complicated administrative decisions. He would be taking on duties alien and strange because of his long concentration on foreign affairs.

This is why some who want Vandenberg have suggested the possibility of Gov. Thomas E. Dewey accepting the vice presidential nomination. As Vice President, Dewey would take broad administrative responsibility. There seems little likelihood of this outcome at Philadelphia, however.

STILL another element is involved in Vandenberg's hesitation. It is his fear of how far the narrow obstructionists in his own party would go in thwarting him if he were in the White House.

They will be back in January—the Tabers, the Martins, the Hallecks—with the expected Republican sweep, and their power will be greater than ever.

They are jealous of Vandenberg, deeply resentful of his prestige and influence. Certain of his fellow Republicans in the Senate already have gone beyond common decency in spreading vicious slanders about the man who towers so far above them.

This is a grim forecast of what these same petty, jealous minds might do. A Republican President might be almost as much a prisoner of Congress as the Democrat who has been skirmishing with Capitol Hill for two years.

Even though he has done nothing to gain the nomination, the convention may turn to Vandenberg. He has the support of such forward-looking Republicans as Governor Duff of Pennsylvania and Governor Driscoll of New Jersey, who know the fatal consequences of a retreat to Hardingism.

Ever since the end of war, both at home and abroad, Vandenberg has spoken for stability and peace through the United Nations. Again and again, his has been the voice of leadership.

Skeptics point to the newness of his conversion from old-fashioned isolationism. But millions underwent the same conversion in the ordeal of a global war. That may be why today they have such a fellow feeling for a leader with the courage and the ability to strike out in a new direction.

Polk Investigation

Our organization is deeply interested in a successful investigation of the tragic death of George Polk, and we are gathering what evidence we can here in New York and from Greek sources with a view to making our material available to investigation committees and the public.

It seems to us that a fruitful inquiry can be made only if the following points are included in the procedure and orientation of the investigation:

1. That the investigation take testimony from all sources, which would include unprejudiced inquiry into the claims of the Markos government that it knows the identity of those responsible for George Polk's death.

2. That the investigation take every step possible to guarantee the safety of witnesses who might otherwise be exposed to reprisals.

3. That the investigation team make public statements from time to time so that the world will know from what premises and by what procedure the investigation is guided.

Careful Drivers

If "Cynical Motorist," whose letter appeared June 15 has not seen the 15-mile sign which has been at the Arlington boundary channel bridge ever since it was built he better turn in his driving license, as he must have bad vision. It is so easy to drive in and around Washington, if you just observe the simple rules, control your speed, remain in your lane and make your turns as required by law. Traffic laws cannot be provided to suit the whims of all individual drivers.

Matter Of Fact

The Vandenberg Setback

WASHINGTON.—A setback certainly had to be expected by the group seeking to draft Senator Arthur H. Vandenberg as Republican candidate for the Presidency. The plans of the Vandenberg underground have been developing almost unnaturally smoothly, considering the sharpness of the competition, and the difficulty of nominating a man who will not connive. At any rate, a setback may now have occurred, because of Senator Vandenberg's refusal to promote his own candidacy.

Political leaders supporting a presidential candidate like their support to be acknowledged by the candidate himself in the fullest, frankest and most solid form. Partly, this is because they want to be sure they can depend on the man they are backing. Even more, it is because they want to be certain that the candidate's obligations to his backers are fully understood and will be fully recognized.

From the first, the other candidates and their managers have warned important, uncommitted leaders like Governors Duff of Pennsylvania and Driscoll of New Jersey that Vandenberg might reject a draft at the last moment. And they have added, in a lower voice, that even if Vandenberg accepted a draft he would not recognize his debts to those who helped to draft him.

BECAUSE the specter of Vandenberg has grown increasingly more alarming, this form of propaganda was given a special play at the Governors' Conference in New Hampshire, which must have been the most remarkable panorama of ambition and intrigue in recent history. The propaganda apparently convinced Governor Driscoll. On Tuesday, he transmitted a message to Washington asking for definite assurance, by a stated hour, that his support for Senator Vandenberg would not be wasted.

The answer was precisely the answer that Senator Vandenberg has given scores of other people in recent months—that he was not a candidate and did not wish to be a candidate.

This was relayed to Governor Driscoll. Almost simultaneously, a newspaper account of Vandenberg's position, as explained by him to his friends, reached the conferring Governors and was shown to Governor Duff of Pennsylvania.

A little later, the group planning to draft Senator Vandenberg who had previously received assurances of Duff's and Driscoll's support got word in Washington that these assurances might be withdrawn. As these lines are written, the situation is in flux. The vital fact is, however, that if Duff and Driscoll leave Vandenberg, they will go in opposite directions.

Driscoll is expected to join the camp of Gov. Thomas E. Dewey. Duff, on the other hand, cherishes a strong personal distaste for Dewey. One reason why the Pennsylvania Governor may have changed his mind, after being very stanch for Vandenberg, is that Vandenberg was quoted as speaking highly of Governor Dewey's qualifications. Therefore it is reported that Duff will lead his men in the Pennsylvania delegation—between 35 and 45 votes—into the camp of Senator Robert A. Taft.

IF DUFF and Driscoll thus divide between Taft and Dewey, a convention deadlock is just as likely as it ever was. No one has ever argued that Vandenberg could be drafted, except after a deadlock. Thus, even if the draft-Vandenberg planners can no longer dispose of the Pennsylvania and New Jersey delegates, the underlying situation will not have changed radically. In some respects, it has improved.

Senator Vandenberg himself is still emphatically subject to a genuine draft at Philadelphia. His position on this point has never wavered. He will not seek to be nominated. But if he is nominated, he will accept. Equally emphatically, those planning to draft him have refused to suspend operations because of the flurry at the Governors' Conference.

Furthermore, Vandenberg's sincerity has once more been decisively proved. His admirers' enthusiasm was coming dangerously close to transforming the draft-Vandenberg movement into a stop-Dewey movement. Now, however, Vandenberg has not only again refused to connive for the nomination. He has also again refused to stand in the way of any active candidate and has let his good opinion of Governor Dewey become known. This can strongly influence Governor Dewey's decision, if and when he has to recognize that he cannot be nominated himself.

Dewey still has a good chance to go over on an early ballot. But if Dewey does not go over, the forces favoring the more modern-minded Republican candidates — Dewey, Vandenberg, Harold Stassen and Gov. Earl Warren of California—will still remain the Republican majority. And this majority will still be more likely to unite on Vandenberg than on anyone else.

Two Italian Battleships Seen Useless

By Barrett McGurn

Rome, June 16 (NYHT).—Italy will not be guilty of a treaty violation for failure to scrap her two 35,000-ton battleships if she rendered them militarily useless, informed American Embassy sources said today.

These sources disclosed that the Rome ambassadors of the United States, Soviet Russia, Britain and France had reached an unpublished agreement in February that Italy would be required to deprive the two battleships of their war potential by the treaty deadline, yesterday.

This was interpreted to mean the splitting in half of the 15-inch cannon, the destruction of the fire-control instruments, the cutting of the rudder posts and the destruction of at least a third of the armor belting.

The four powers have demanded that Italy report whether this destruction has been done. So far the Italians have not replied. But it is understood the cannon have been cracked open and removed and that the gears have been wrecked. As the gears would take 15 months to replace and Italy's wrecked munitions plants could not duplicate the guns, American observers think Russia, Britain and France will be satisfied.

Western naval observers indicated today they have little sympathy for Russia because of the failure of Italians to turn ships over to the Soviet Union. They said the Russians are demanding that Italy restore them virtually to the same condition in which they were at the time they were launched.

Americans to Seek Showdown On Kommandatura Meetings

Berlin, June 17 (NYHT).—The Soviet departure last night from the Allied Kommandatura—the supreme governing body of Berlin—was followed today by a swift series of East-West moves intensifying the battle for Berlin and for Germany.

The Americans announced today that next Wednesday, at the meeting of the deputy commandants, they will press the Russians to accept a date for another meeting of the Kommandatura.

The Russian answer will clarify whether the Kommandatura will continue functioning or will be shelved like the Allied Control Council, governing all Germany, which has been dead since the Soviet walkout March 20.

Other Developments

Today's other high points were:

1. The Soviets requested bipartite discussions with the British on the question of new regulations for air travel down the Berlin corridor and were refused. The British stated air regulations could be discussed only on a four-power basis.

2. The British, with American support, formally offered the Russians help in repairing the Elbe bridge. Closing of the bridge had tied up the Berlin auto route.

3. The British and American military governors and the French deputy military governor conferred in Berlin on currency reform for western Germany, to begin possibly Saturday.

The Russians, through their press and politicians, continued frantically today to propagandize for a postponement of a separate west-zone currency.

[The United Press said the Soviet licensed German press quoted Marshall V. D. Sokolovsky, Soviet military governor, as declaring four-power currency reform would be agreed upon.]

4. The Soviets gave official sanction to the "National Democratic Party" designed to attract small Nazis" and nationalists. The Russians have also recognized a Peasants' Party.

Strikes Make 347,000 Idle In Europe

Paris, June 17 (U.P.).—Strikes made 347,000 persons idle in three European countries today.

Workers stayed away from their jobs in Britain, Belgium, and in France, where a token general strike was scheduled for Saturday by the Communist-run General Confederation of Labor.

Some 265,000 strikers were out in London and Brussels, but the situation was most serious in France, where officials feared the scheduled general strike might be the beginning of a long-heralded Communist "summer offensive" against the coalition government of Premier Robert Schuman.

In Belgium, the Communists called on all workers to join 250,000 strikers, and a government spokesman said the walkout was "slowly but surely paralyzing the nation's industrial potential."

Negotiations broke down today between the French government and 32,000 restive strikers at Clermont-Ferrand, where violence flared yesterday when police tried to oust sit-down strikers from the big Bergougnan rubber plant.

The situation today:

FRANCE—Some 82,000 workers on strike for higher wages, with the walkouts spreading. Sympathy strikes and local disputes, involving an estimated 50,000 workers, said to be spreading toward Paris. One hour "token" general strike set for Saturday. Negotiations at a standstill.

BELGIUM—An estimated 250,000 workers idle in the iron and steel industry, factories and shipyards. No immediate hope of settlement.

BRITAIN—15,000 port workers on strike in London because of disciplinary suspensions of 11 men. One hundred ships tied up with an estimated 40 million dollars of exports and imports, including 32,000 tons of meat for Britain. Walkout joined today by 1000 dockers and 1000 stevedores.

Other walkouts and sympathy strikes were in progress at Marseille, Saint Etienne, Lille, Tarbes, Issoire, Tulle, Saint Limoges, and many mining villages in the Puy de Dome Department, including Thiers, Riom, and Saint Eloy les Mines. An estimated 50,000 persons were involved in these work stoppages, with no indication that a settlement is in sight.

Senate Group Restores Part Of Atom Cut

By the United Press

A Senate Appropriations Subcommittee yesterday approved a $5,854,783,851 supplemental independent offices appropriations bill carrying $521,851,000 for the Atomic Energy Commission.

It also would give the War Assets Administration $40,000,000 more than was voted in the House, enough to keep it in business until next spring. The House bill allowed the agency only $50,000,000 on the assumption that it would die on August 31.

Appropriations for all independent offices during fiscal 1949 were $59,734,920 more than voted by the House, but still $444,835,149 less than requested by President Truman.

The Senate group alloted the Maritime Commission an additional $1,000,000 for expenses, but cut $1,265,080 from appropriations for maritime training.

The House slashed 48 million dollars from Administration requests for the Atomic Energy Commission and recommended economies in basic atomic research as well as in administrative expenses and housing for personnel.

The Senate group restored 20 million dollars and left it up to the commission to work out any necessary economies. Ignored a House suggestion that the $10,000 ceiling on salaries for officials be lifted.

War Assets Agency

Chairman Clyde M. Reed (R., Kans.) said the subcommittee decided the War Assets Administration should continue its present surplus disposal program until spring when most of the $4,225,000,000 it still has in surplus war goods should have been sold.

The subcommittee also recommended that all priorities on surplus goods, with the exception of those given veterans, States and small business, be ended. It estimated this would save five million dollars.

The group made no change in House-approved appropriations of $340,000 for the Office of Defense Transportation, $15,172,100 for the Housng Expediter, and $5,125,309,000 for the Veterans Administration.

Austin See U.N. 'Slowly' Creating World Order

By the United Press

Warren R. Austin, chief American delegate to the United Nations, said yesterday that U. N. is "slowly but surely" creating the basis for a new world order.

In a statement released by the State Department, Austin acknowledged that the three years following signing of the U. N. charter at San Francisco "have been chaotic." Devastation and dislocation caused by World War II have continually hampered the start of U. N. operations, he said.

"Nevertheless, the nations of the world have made remarkable progress in collaboration toward a new world order."

Czech Premier Declares War On Capitalism

Prague, Czechoslovakia, June 17 (U.P.).—Premier Antonin Zapotocky said today Czechoslovakia's entire industrial and agricultural setup would be reconstructed "to eliminate every vestige of the capitalistic system."

Outlining his program as he faced Parliament for the first time with his new leftist cabinet, Zapotocky said he would also:

1. Completely overhaul the legal and judicial system to wipe out the last traces of 'capitalistic" law.
2. Complete a purge of the officers' corps of the army, and build up the Communist-dominated police.
3. Completely transform the educational system.

Czechoslovakia's foreign policy, Zapotocky said, will be based on its alliances with Russia and the "people's democratic states" of eastern Europe.

Internee Pay Bill Passes Senate Group

The Senate Judiciary Committee has approved a bill to compensate American civilians interned by the enemy in World War II.

In addition, it provides $1 a day for military prisoners of war who were not fed according to standards of the Geneva Convention.

Civilian internees would be paid at the same rate as an interned soldier. Heads of families would get $60 a month. The bill provides an additional $28 for an interned wife, $20 for the first child and $10 for the second child.

Civilians who had been working under contract before their internment would be paid enough to give them the full amount of their contract wages.

A flat $7500 payment to the next of kin of persons who died in internment also is authorized.

Committee aides estimated the proposed payments would amount to 50 million dollars and said virtually all persons involved were among those interned by the Japanese.

Navy Full-Dress Frills Are Given Heave Overboard

The Navy yesterday threw overboard the cocked hat, frock coat, epaulets, boat cloak and other fancy full-dress articles of prewar days.

Secretary John L. Sullivan said he didn't yet know what the post-war full-dress uniform would be, but he knew what it would not be.

Greeks Plan More Men For Police

Athens, Greece, June 17 (AP).—Minister of Public Order Constantine Rentis asked the cabinet today for an additional 8000 men to aid his 22,000-man state police force control areas just liberated from the guerillas.

The move must be approved by the British and Americans.

Unconfirmed press dispatches continued to report the opening of a government summer offensive against the rebels. They said headquarters of the second corps had been transferred northward from Larissa to Kozani.

Indian Woman May Be United States Envoy

New Delhi, June 17 (AP).—A government source said today Mrs. Vijayalakshmi Pandit, sister of Prime Minister Jawaharlal Nehru, may become Ambassador to the United States early next year. She is now Indian Ambassador in Moscow.

The informant said Sir B. Rama Rao, Minister Plenipotentiary in Tokyo, will become acting Ambassador in Washington in the meantime.

Soviet Held Still Moving Reich Shops

Berlin, June 17 (AP).—Official German language newspapers of both the American and British military governments say the Soviet is continuing to dismantle German factories in the Russian zone despite highly publicized official statements that the program had ended.

Workers thus left without jobs are being sent as forced labor to the uranium mines of Saxony or to Russia, the newspapers Neue Zeitung and Die Welt said. The number of workers affected is given variously as 40,000 to 200,000.

Both newspapers listed 10 Soviet-owned factories and three plants already socialized as newly scheduled for dismantling. They include machine, typewriter, synthetic fuel, film, cable and motor works.

Russian Commander in Chief Marshal Vassily Sokolowsky had assured the head of the Soviet zone's German central administration that dismantlings would end May 1, 1946. The following October, however, factories still were being torn down for shipment to the Soviet Union.

On January 16, 1947, the Taegliche Rundschau, official organ of the Soviet military administration, again announced "the final end of dismantling".

However, a new series of "partial" dismantlings started on six factories this spring.

6-Power Pact Vote of France Forces Parleys

London, June 17 (U.P.).—A new series of conferences among the western allies, will be necessary as the result of France's hesitant agreement to the six-power agreement on Germany, it was disclosed today.

Foreign Secretary Ernest Bevin will start the talks tomorrow with United States Ambassador Lewis W. Douglas and then will see Rene Massigli, French Ambassador.

The French National Assembly approved the six-power agreement 300 to 286, early today with provisions that France seek revisions in it.

It was understood that a scheduled meeting of the United States, British and French military governors in Germany would be postponed until diplomatic talks have been completed here.

American and British spokesmen have said they will not agree to renegotiate the six-power agreement to satisfy France. But in their new talks here they probably will discuss how far they can go to satisfy the French within the framework of the agreement.

The French called for a more satisfactory regime in the German Ruhr, a long Allied occupation of Germany, safeguards against the reconstitution of an overstrong German government and for continued efforts for agreement with Russia on the whole German problem.

Attlee Considers Assembly Call

London, June 17 (AP).—The British government promised tonight to examine the question of calling a European assembly.

Prime Minister Attlee and Foreign Secretary Bevin issued a statement agreeing to study the step after a nonpartisan group of 20 members of the House of Commons, led by Winston Churchill, marched up Downing st. to No. 10 and presented the recommendations of the recent Hague conference. The conference proposed the calling of the assembly to draft a constitution upon which to build a United States of Europe.

The promise of Attlee and Bevin to examine "in particular" the proposal for convening the assembly appeared to be a major concession as the Labor government cold-shouldered the Hague conference at which Churchill presided.

Naval Academy Wins 1947 Safety Award

Annapolis, Md., June 17 (AP).—The Naval Academy today received the Secretary of the Navy's award for achievement in safety and accident prevention in 1947.

Rear Admiral Paul B. Nibecker, chief of industrial relations, presented it to Rear Admiral James L. Holloway, jr., academy superintendent.

Votes Defense Six Billions

The Senate Appropriations Committee rolled out a $6,839,676,052 spending program last night, largely for the Army.

This sum covers $5,924,365,052 for the Army, and $904,811,000 for the Air Force.

This appropriation is yet to be voted on by the Senate. The recommended total is $329,737,052 more than the House approved when it passed the bill.

Earlier in the day the Senate and House completed congressional action on a $3,749,059,259 bill for the Navy Department. Both branches of Congress accepted a compromise at this sum, as compared with $3,927,738,700 asked by the Navy.

The approved Navy funds includes money to build a 65,000-ton aircraft carrier—the largest ever—that will cost 127 million dollars.

Gen. Omar Bradley, Army Chief of Staff, and Secretary of the Army Kenneth Royall asked the Senate committee to restore 492 million dollars of the 600-million-dollar cut by the House from the Army-Air Force bill.

They argued the restoration is necessary if the Army is to carry out its planned defense program. Royall said the heavy House cut would mean that "two divisions would not be ready to fight if D-Day should arrive."

Other appropriations in the committee bill and the increases over the House figure: Secretary of Defense office, $6,800,000—no change; National Security Resources Board, $3,500,000—$500,000 increase; National Security Council, $200,000—no change.

Included in the Army total are: U. S. Military Academy, $7,700,000—$321,000 increase; National Guard, $298,113,759 —$58,113,759 increase; Organized Reserves, $125,000,000—$25,000,000 increase; Reserve Officers Training Corps, $21,175,000—$175,000 increase.

New Car Sales Up 16% Here In 5 Months

By S. Oliver Goodman

Washington sales of new cars increased 16 per cent in the first five months this year over the same 1947 period.

Figures supplied yesterday by the Washington Automotive Trade Association show 12,613 new cars registered this year through May, against 10,850 in the corresponding period of 1947.

May sales were reported as 2373 against 2770 in the previous month and 2308 in the like month last year.

From Detroit comes the report that the backlog of unfilled orders for new cars is now about 5,500,000. For the more popular models few deliveries are being promised within a year; in most instances would-be buyers are told the wait maybe as long as 18 months.

David J. Wilkie, Associated Press auto editor, writes that the next 1949 model car to be introduced probably will come out in September. Until recently it has been assumed Nash would be first out after Ford. Now the suggestion is being heard that Chevrolet may be next. Chevrolet's probable design and styling is of more than ordinary interest right now because of the radical Ford changes. Whatever Chevrolet may be planning, Wilkie says, is being more carefully guarded than ever before in industry history.

Meat Consumption In Year Reaches All-Time Peak

Chicago, June 17 (AP).—United States consumption of meat in 1947 was the highest in history, totaling 22,242,000,000 pounds, an executive of the National Livestock and Meat Board said today.

Per capita annual consumption of meat has increased 35 per cent in the last 25 years, compared with a 28 per cent population rise, R. C. Pollock, general manager of the board, told directors at the organization's twenty-fifth annual convention.

One hundred fifty livestock and meat industry representatives attending the two-day meeting, which opened today, heard reports from research experts that:

Use of lard in the treatment of resistant cases of eczema has shown good to excellent results in 60 per cent of cases studied;

Addition of strained meat to the diet of infants improves the hemoglobin and red cell values of the blood above that of babies not receiving meat.

Pollock also said that if hotels, restaurants and homemakers would cook meats at low temperatures, they would make a vital contribution to the national conservation program.

"Countless tests have shown that there is from 10 to 30 per cent less shrinkage in meat cooked at low temperature," he said.

Chicago Grain

Chicago, June 17 (AP).—Rains sent feed grains lower while Government activity in flour and cash wheat supported buying of wheat on the Board of Trade today.

Some good moisture was received overnight in Nebraska and Iowa, and grain analysts said it should be of particular benefit to oats. More rain, mostly in the form of showers, was predicted for several of the Midwestern States.

The Production and Marketing Administration reentered the flour market on the Pacific Coast. Wheat buying price of the Commodity Credit Corporation was raised 2¾ cents, making a jump of 5¼ cents a bushel in the past two days.

At the close wheat was unchanged to 1¼ higher, July 2.32⅜@2.32½; corn was ⅛-1⅜ lower, July 2.19⅜@2.19½; oats were ⅛ to 1 cent lower, July 93⅛@93¾, and soybeans were 3 cents lower to 4 cents higher, July 4.13.

Maryland Tobacco

Upper Marlboro, Md., June 17 (AP).—Tobacco auctioned on southern Maryland markets brought higher prices today than Wednesday, the United States Department of Agriculture and the Maryland State Department of Markets reported.

Most grades advanced 75 cents to 3.00 a hundred pounds, with heavy crop and seconds showing the greatest improvement.

Quality improved over the preceding day, with more good and fine grades appearing, and less low, fair and nondescript.

Sales volume also increased considerably over Wednesday, when the amount of tobacco sold was the smallest since May 21. The net auction sales Wednesday totaled only 270,666 pounds at an average of $44.11 per hundred pounds. Season's net auction sales reached 13,414,811 pounds at an average of $43.28.

Grade prices were:

New York Cotton

New York, June 17 (AP).—Cotton futures closed 30 to 95 cents a bale higher today.

Trading was slow until late in the session when a flurry of mill buying and short covering rallied the market into new high ground for the day. Prior to the upturn evening up operations dominated the market as traders continued to transfer holdings in July to other deliveries.

The market was hesitant pending congressional action on the foreign aid funds, farm legislation, and the 150-million-dollar revolving fund bill for commodity purchases.

A,B&W Terms Contract Offer 'Best Possible'

Alexandria, Barcroft & Washington Transit Co. yesterday urged union employes to accept the contract they turned down last Saturday, calling it the company's "best possible offer."

General Manager Beverly C. May, taking upon himself "partial blame" for not making it perfectly clear that the contract featuring a 10-cents-an-hour wage increase was the company's final offer, met with union members at Gadsby's Tavern to explain the company's position.

In an earlier statement, he pointed out A. B. & W. had upset negotiation tradition by making its best offer at the start.

Union President Fred Dominy had no comment on May's statement, but said the membership would probably meet soon to discuss it.

The union, Local 1131, Amalgamated Association of Street, Electric Railway and Motor Coach Employes of America (AFL), has served notice on Governor Tuck it would strike July 21, expiration date of the present contract, unless agreement was reached.

4 Md. Counties Field of 2-Year Cancer Study

Baltimore, June 17 (AP).—A two-year study of the relationship of heredity and environment to cancer will be made in four Maryland counties beginning July 1, according to Dr. Robert H. Riley, director of the State Health Department.

The National Cancer Institute has made $42,665 available for an intensive field research study by the Maryand State Department of Health in Washington, Frederick, Harford and Montgomery Counties.

Dr. Riley will be in charge of the study. Serving with him as principal investigators will be Dr. Ross Cameron, the State Health Department's cancer research director, and Dr. Howard W. Jones, medical director of the Maryland division of the American Cancer Society.

Families in which cancer has occurred will be the principal subjects of the inquiry, according to Dr. Cameron.

Dr. Cameron said the four Maryland counties were selected for the study because of the availability there of excellent family records covering several generations.

The study will be conducted in conjunction with National Cancer Institute authorities in Bethesda, Md., county health authorities and county medical societies. According to Dr. Cameron, the program has been approved by the Washington and Frederick County medical societies and now is under discussion by the Harford and Montgomery County societies.

D. C. Bicycle Bandits Held By Maryland

Three Washington boys were being held in the Maryland Training School, Lock Raven, Md., yesterday as the result of a bit of alleged youthful banditry here and in Rockville, Md.

The trio—aged 12, 13 and 14—robbed two newspaper carriers of their bicycles Monday at Connecticut ave. and Albemarle st. nw. The victims were Douglas Solman, 12, of 3000 Albemarle st. nw., and Sergei A. Lee, 10, of 3007 Albemarle st. nw.

Then, in the 300 block of Porter st. nw., police said, they robbed a third carrier, Robert O. Beltran, 13, of 3311 Porter st. nw., of his wrist watch.

Somewhere in the neighborhood the three boys stole a third bicycle, according to police, and set out for Rockville, a trip of about 10 miles.

In Rockville they broke into the Reed Brothers filling station and stole $5, police said, and then after attending a movie were caught by a Rockville policeman while attempting to force their way into a grocery store.

The three carriers were taken to the Maryland Training School yesterday, where they identified the young bandit trio. Police have recovered the watch and the bicycles.

Judge Seeks Aid for GI War Orphans

The Washington Post
JUDGE ALMEDA LOPEZ
Seeks Aid For Orphans

Judge Almeda Lopez, who has successfully combined family life with an outstanding career as lawyer and jurist, is visiting Washington officialdom to get financial aid for thousands of babies whose GI fathers served in the Philippines.

"No one is to blame for the tragedy of these war orphans. Yet we cannot let them grow into juvenile delinquents. Their mothers must have help. Your country has a moral responsibility to them," she said yesterday in explanation of her trip here.

As vice president of the American Guardian Association, she is seeking long-term support for the organization from American charities and foundations as well as from the Government.

All week she has been busy conferring with officials. Their promises to help have been most encouraging, she declared.

Judge Lopez was the first woman lawyer to practice in Manila. She is the only woman judge there.

From Washington, she plans to go to Philadelphia to attend the Republican Convention. From there she will visit New York City, leaving for home by way of Europe in mid-July, she said.

Lutherans Vote Raise for Missionaries

The Southeastern District of the Lutheran Church, Missouri Synod, yesterday voted to increase base pay of missionaries by $25 a month.

The action was taken on the final day of the sixth annual district meeting, held at Christ Lutheran Church, 16th and Gallatin sts. nw.

Under the revised scale, missionaries receive $175 a month, plus an allowance of $5 for each dependent. The district convention also voted to give the missionaries a 10 per cent cost-of-living boost.

A resolution to set up a superintendent of schools to aid churches in establishing day schools was rejected by the 150 delegates.

Also adopted at the convention was a report of the Board of Young People's Work calling for better integration of youth work with the program of the church.

The report called for leadership training in youth work for future pastors and suggested that marriage counseling should be a "must" with every pastor.

The Rev. Edgar C. Rakow, pastor of Bethlehem Lutheran Church, 1927 21st pl. se., was elected secretary of the district at the meeting yesterday. Arthur H. Herrmann of Richmond was named treasurer.

Dr. J. F. Wenchel, pastor emeritus of Christ Church, was re-elected to the District Board of Appeals and the Rev. William F. Bruening, pastor of Christ Church, was named circuit visitor for this area.

Other Washingtonians elected to office in the district were the Rev. Edwin E. Pieplow, pastor of Trinity Lutheran Church, and E. P. Knollman of Christ Church, who will both serve on the board of home missions.

Action Due Today On Pay Increases For U. S. Workers

This is D-Day for the Federal pay raise bills.

House Republican leaders yesterday promised to take up the $450 flat postal employe bill after the draft is disposed of. Senate leaders are prepared to act, too.

Also, there's hope now that the $360 pay raise bill for Federal and District classified employes will be brought up in the House.

House Speaker Martin emphatically denied that he and other House GOP leaders were opposed to the classified bill. He charged that stories published to that effect simply weren't true. Furthermore, that the stories had misrepresented the leadership's position on the legislation.

The Speaker said he wished to make clear that the House leaders had taken no definite stand on the classified bill. But speaking for himself, he said he believed there is a god possibility that the House will approve both the postal and classified pay bills.

On the Senate side, Senator Taft, the GOP leader, said he couldn't say when the pay bills would be brought up. The Senate has been waiting for the House to act first on the pay bills.

Several conferences were held yesterday between House and Senate Republicans on pay bill strategy. At one of these meeting, it was learned, an attempt was made to persuade Senate leaders to drop all features of their bill except the proposed $450 and $360 flat raises.

If this is done, the much-needed revision of the Classification Act and pay raises for cabinet members and other Federal officials would be lost. Sponsors of these features are reluctant to abandon them.

At another session, a prominent Republican Senator urged that the bill to raise salaries of classified employes be pigeon-holed in order to insure a $450 pay raise for postal employes. If my information is correct, the Senator was quickly shouted down.

Another report had the pay bills tied to the appropriation for the Economic Cooperation Administration. This was it: that if the ECA money bill could be cut at least 500 million dollars that this money would then be used to give both postal and classified workers a pay raise. The two pay bills would cost about 530 million dollars a year.

It's no secret that Speaker Martin and Majority Leader Halleck have been under terrific pressure to call up both pay bills—measures which are certain of approval if the House is given a chance to vote on them. Several score GOP House members are said to have personally urged the two leaders to bring up the bills in the last day or so.

Halleck yesterday described both bills as of "considerable importance."

Meantime, Chairman Rees of the House Civil Service Committee, is doing all he can to win action on the pay legislation.

TRAVEL ALLOWANCE: The bill to raise the travel allowance of Federal workers from $6 to $8 a day will be called up in the House before it adjourns tomorrow night. After months of stalling, the Senate-approved bill was reported out of the House Executive Expenditures Committee yesterday. It must have unanimous approval to pass the House.

NAVY: Its appropriation bill will continue to carry that 36-year-old provision which prohibits Navy officials from using stopwatches to clock the work of their mechanics.

The House knocked out the rider. The Senate restored it by a close vote and House conferees agreed to go along with it for another year.

LAYOFFS: Navy will not be required to fire many of its civilians at headquarters here. However, a few bureaus will be ordered to make minor reductions, but they will be more than offset by expansions in other offices. The net effect will be no significant change.

The House originally gave it $30,111,100 for salaries here, a budget that would have forced the firing of about 1000 employes. The Senate raised the figure to $35,111,100. A compromise figure of $32,611,100 was reached yesterday.

LABOR: Paul Herzog, chairman of the National Labor Relations Board, is reported to be under consideration for appointment as Secretary of Labor. He's said to be the choice of Senator Wagner (D., N. Y.) and the New York Democratic organization. A very good man.

BILLS: The Senate has passed and sent to the White House the bill to transfer control of the Federal credit unions from Federal Deposit Insurance to the Federal Security Agency . . . The House has passed and sent to the White House the bill to allow the Defense Secretary to pay six scientific and professional employes up to $15,000 a year each . . . The House passed a bill to permit the State Department to set up two more Assistant Secretary jobs . . . The National Advisory Committee for Aeronautics would have 10 professional and scientific jobs that would pay up to $15,000 each under a bill approved by the House.

Civic Units, P-TA Groups Seek More D. C. Schools

38 Organizations Point Out to Board Inadequacies of Present System

Representatives of 38 civic and parent-teacher associations last night went before the Board of Education to point out inadequacies of the District school system.

Stressed were the need for additional elementary schools to house the city's large crop of war babies and for the replacement of antiquated buildings.

The hearing of representative citizens of the District on school needs is the first step taken by the board in formulating budget requests for the fiscal year beginning July, 1949, Mrs. Henry Grattan Doyle, president of the board, told the meeting held at the Thomson Elementary School.

James Parker of the Terrell Junior High School Parent-Teacher Association told board members that for 10 years the organization had asked for a replacement.

Mrs. Doyle said that a request for a replacement for Terrell made by the school board was cut from the budget by the Commissioners.

"We will continue to work for a new school," she said.

Additions to overcrowded elementary schools were asked by Mrs. Alice M. Haven, president of the Hearst P-TA; Homer E. McCann, former president of the Bunker Hill P-TA, and H. S. Garber of Beers P-TA.

Mrs. Haven declared that by 1950 the Hearst School with a capacity of 360 children will have 440 students and by 1952 it will have 665 students.

McCann presented a series of charts showing results of a house-to-house count of preschool children conducted by 10 fathers which showed that by 1950 the Hearst School, designed for 420 children, will have 441 and by 1953 enrollment will reach 674.

The Rev. Tansel Butler of the Garfield-Douglsas Civic Association declared that juvenile delinquency, "at an all-time high" in the Southeast area, was partly the result of "inadequate schools."

More than 700 elementary students and 350 junior high students are housed in two buildings, he said.

Replacements for the Shaw Junior High and the Cardozo High Schools also were requested.

Postmaster Asks All Out Cooperation

Postmaster General Jesse M. Donaldson last night called on Postal Service employes for "wholehearted assistance and cooperation" to meet trying conditions caused by lack of space and facilities.

Addressing the annual convention of Virginia Postmasters, held at Alexandria's George Mason Hotel, Donaldson observed that postal revenues have increased two and a half times since 1933 and increase in volume of mail has been even greater.

Referring to the mounting department deficit which led him recently to ask Congress for hikes in postal rates, Donaldson said "The time has come when the people of this nation and the Congress should make a determination with respect to whether the postal service should be operated as a service institution without respect to the profit motive, or whether the postal servic should be made to pay its own way.

In other comment, Donaldson called on the Nation to unite, regardless of "political, sectional or recial considerations, behind the President's foreign policy program.

"There is no person in the world today," he declared, "who is striving any more diligently for a peaceful solution of the world's unprecedented ills than is President Truman."

The convention, attended by more than 100, will conclude today with the election of new officers.

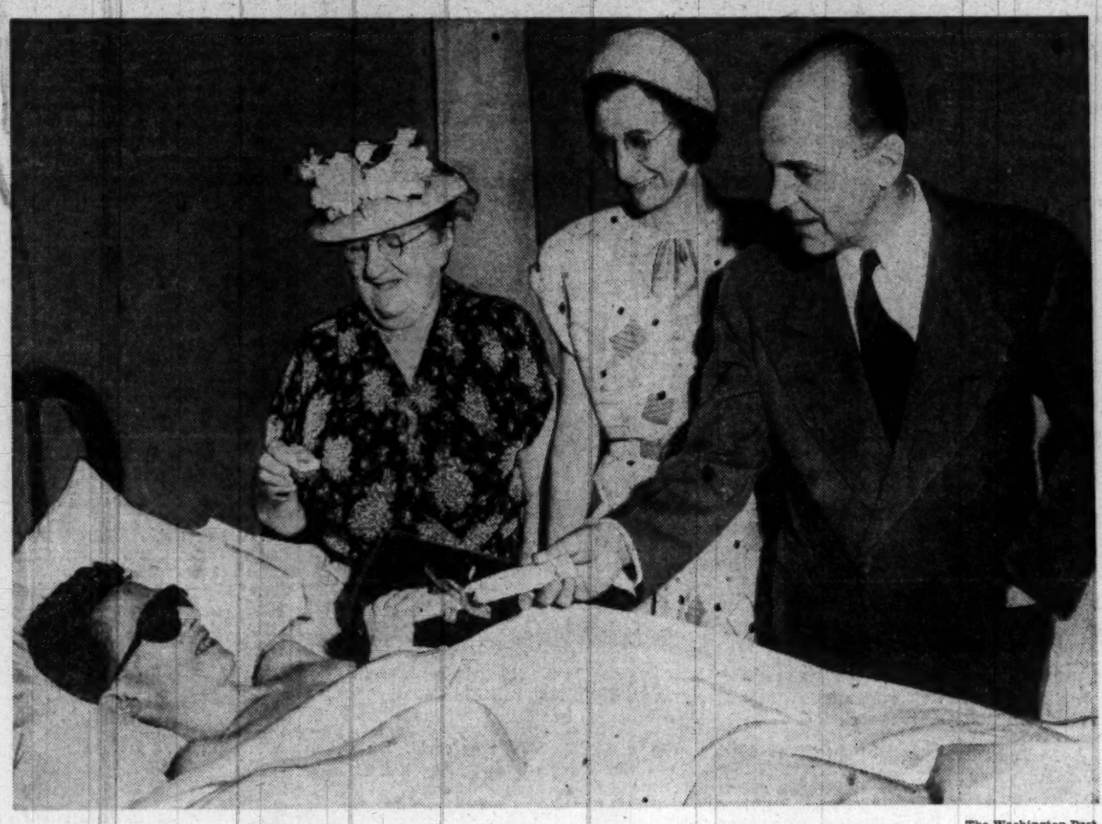
James Kenneth Gilbertson Takes Another Hurdle



The Washington Post

HIS GRADUATION DAY—Although flat on his back and sightless, James Kenneth Gilbertson, 18, of 803 Allison st. nw., formerly a carrier boy for The Washington Post, won himself a senior high school diploma yesterday. The youth, stricken with arthritis, had graduation exercises at his bedside. Dr. Carl F. Hansen (right), assistant superintendent of schools, presents the diploma. On hand to congratulate Gilbertson are (from left) Mrs. Florence E. Welch, president of the Association for the Education of Physically Handicapped Children, and Mrs. Gladys Miller, Gilbertson's teacher. Gilbertson completed one year at Roosevelt High School, where he was assistant manager of the basket ball team, before he was confined to his home. He received the diploma after two years of study under the Public School Visiting Instructors Corps. He now wants to study law

Tax Evasion Proves Costly To D. C. Man

Numbers Operator Fined $10,000, Given 4-Month Jail Term

By Frank Wilder
Post Reporter

Baltimore, Md., June 17.—Elbe Bettis, who got rich as a Washington numbers operator, was ordered by a Federal Judge here today to pay a $10,000 fine and serve four months in jail for evading income taxes.

Bettis

What is more, Federal agents announced they are going to insist that the 37-year-old one-time hotel worker pay about $70,000, it says he still owes in taxes.

Ending a two-day trial, Judge W. Calvin Chesnut found Bettis guilty of willfully understating his net income for 1942 by $22,000. Bettis reported early $2000, while the Government showed that he actually made $24,000 in his numbers business and from District apartments he owns.

Judge Chesnut declared Bettis innocent on the two other counts in the indictment, involving the years 1941 and 1943. For 1941, the Bureau of Internal Revenue contends Bettis earned $40,000, but reported only $26,000. For 1943, he listed his net income at $20,000, but the Government says he earned $33,000. Judge Chesnut said there was reasonable doubt of intent to defraud in these two years.

The maximum penalty for each count of tax evasion is five years in jail and a $10,000 fine.

Judge Chesnut said he was giving Bettis less than the maximum jail term and less than the customary six month sentence given in these cases because Bettis had no previous record. He was arrested by District police in 1942 on gaming charges, but the case was later dropped by the Government. This was Bettis' only brush with the law preceding the income tax indictment, returned in Baltimore last February.

As Bettis—apparently only slightly disturbed by the sentence—was led away to jail today, Internal Revenue agents said they would press for payment in full of the taxes Bettis allegedly still owes. The estimate of $70,000 in delinquent taxes, it was explained by an Internal Revenue agent, includes $23,000 involved in the criminal indictment and taxes for other years, plus penalties of 50 per cent.

Defense Attorney G. C. A. Anderson said nothing about appealing the conviction, but Bettis' Washington attorney, Charles E. Ford, indicated any civil action by the Government to recover penalties on years other than 1942 would be fought.

Bettis admittedly did a business of $1,600,000 in 1941-42-43, and was a numbers operator, he said in court, for nine years until he quit in 1944.

Known as a quiet type among gamblers, with no interest in night life or flashy possessions, he has acquired, according to his own testimony, $23,000 in bonds, five houses, a Cadillac he bought new in 1941 and an undisclosed amount of cash.

(The disclosure of Bettis' numbers backing activity yesterday brought speculation that he may be called before the special grand jury investigating Washington's gambling. This may be done in the belief that if Bettis is no longer concerned with gambling, he might agree to provide the probers with information on other persons.—Editor's Note.)

Six Shut-in Pupils Receive Diplomas After Home Study

Five District public school students who have been receiving their schooling at home from teachers of the Visiting Instruction Corps yesterday were graduated in exercises broadcast over radio station WMAL.

A sixth graduate, James Kenneth Gilbertson, son of Mr. and Mrs. Roy Gilbertson, bedfast in his home at 803 Allison st. nw., heard the broadcast and then received his high school diploma from commencement speaker Dr. Carl F. Hansen, associate superintendent of schools, who paid him a visit.

The more than 100 shut-in pupils who were taught this year by the traveling teachers had their radios tuned in for the exercises to hear Mrs. Elizabeth M. Goodman, supervisor of the program, read the honor roll.

"The basic principle of the American way of life is the importance of the individual, rich or poor, strong or weak," Dr. Hansen told the graduates. "The whole program of the Visiting Instruction Corps is dedicated to the welfare of the individual.

"Your diplomas," Dr. Hansen said, "represent the triumph of courage, faith and hope over despair and pessimism."

Mrs. Florence E. Welch, president of the Association for Shut-in and Handicapped Children, presented class pins, and Mrs. Wilfred J. Clearman, former State Regent of the DAR, presented citizenship medals to Marilyn Clark, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. David Clark, 1222 Meigs pl. ne., senior high school graduate, and Tom Ryhs, nephew of Miss Gwen Rhys of the Westchester Apartments, junior high school graduate.

Charles Arthur Hipsley, son of Mr. and Mrs. Alvin Hipsley, 6113 32d pl. ne., delivered the class prophecy. The youth, who received a high school diploma, was injured in a motorcycle accident and has spent the past year in a traction.

Keith Daniel Bell, son of Keith Bell, 321 13th st. nw., and Albert Allen Fowler, son of Mr. and Mrs. Leo Fowler, 1205 F st. ne., received junior high school diplomas.

The Visiting Instruction Corps of the Negro school divisions will hold exercises at 11:30 a. m. today over station WWDC. Mrs. Henry Grattan Doyle, president of the Board of Education, will be the speaker.

Compromise Ends Strike Of Engineers

A combination strike and lockout of some 150 operating engineers in the Greater Washington area was settled in a compromise agreement reached during a three-hour meeting yesterday conducted by Federal Conciliator James A. Holden.

The dispute stopped or delayed several large construction projects, including the K st. overpass work. Excavating engineers are expected Excavating engineers will be back to work on these today.

The agreement, which was ratified last night by Local 77, Operating Engineers Union (AFL), called for a 12½-cent-an-hour increase in pay from now until September 1 and a further raise of 12½ cents from September 1 to April 30, 1949.

Chief employer representatives negotiating yesterday's agreement were Fred J. Rice, attorney for the Excavators Association of Washington, Inc., which represents 14 local firms, and R. C. Wyant, secretary of the Master Builders' Association, which includes 36 large contractors here.

The union had asked a 25-cent increase over the previous wage scales ranging from $1.25 an hour for oilers to $2.25 for team shovel operators. The employer groups had offered a 10-cent increase to October 1 and 15 cents an hour more thereafter.

Work on several large construction projects in the area had been either totally or partially stopped.

Among the projects affected were the new Dalecarlia Reservoir settling basin, University of Maryland aviation research laboratory, the Pan American Union Building addition on Constitution ave. nw. and the new Sousa Junior High School at 34th st. and Ely pl. se., Kelly-Miller Junior High School at 49th st. and Washington pl. se. and the Tyler Elementary School at 10th and G sts. se. Three school addition projects were also stopped.

The union membership last night also reelected J. P. Shields for a fourth four-year term as president and business manager. Others officers elected were: J. C. Turner, business agent and vice president; William E. Tooke, business agent; Louis S. Dolphin, recording secretary; Harry Groves, treasurer, and George E. Williams, financial secretary.

Union Men Angry

9 Arrested In Blocking Of Sidewalk

Nine men preparing to attend a meeting of Local 5, International Association of Bridge, Structural and Ornamental Iron Workers, AFL, were charged by police last night with "incommoding the sidewalk."

Five minutes before the 8 p. m. meeting was to start, the men were scooped up in two patrol wagons from in front of the union's meeting place, 405 9th st. nw., and taken to First Precinct Station.

Police said they had had complaints of pedestrians having difficulty in passing the hall.

The men were released upon posting $5 collateral each. One elected to forfeit the $5, saying "he wasn't going to fool with it." The other eight are scheduled to appear in Municipal Court at 10 a. m. today.

One man, Elmer E. Carpenter, 44, of 323 19th st. ne., said angrily that though it would cost him nearly $25 to take the time from work, he was "going to get that $5 back."

Carpenter said it was the local's regular Thursday night meeting and in seven years he had never known any such thing to happen.

Another man, David Mentzer, 59, of 1235 Randolph st. nw., said he had just arrived in front of the hall when police nabbed him.

Owners, Tenants Agree Tentatively On 7% Rent Hike

Owners and tenants agreed tentatively on a compromise 7 per cent rent boost for 101 apartments at South Cathedral Mansions, 2900 Connecticut ave. nw., at a rent control hearing yesterday.

Rent Control Examiner James G. Tyson, who took the case under advisement after the hearing, said the tenants agreed to the compromise on condition that the owners did everything possible to modernize electricity service and bath and kitchen installations.

The owners had sought an 11.5 per cent boost, he said. Present rents range from $30 a month for one-room-and-bath units to $105 a month for five-room-two-bath apartments, he revealed.

New Court System Here Speeds Cases

Judicial Conference Told Capital District Outstanding in Nation

Justice David A. Pine, senior criminal judge of the District Court, reported to the Judicial Circuit Conference yesterday that the court's new, streamlined system has made it possible to dispose of 1649 cases in the last 11 months.

Only 192 criminal cases are now awaiting trial in the District Court, and 51 of these do not count in the record, because they are being delayed pending the action of higher courts and for like reasons.

As the conference opened at the United States Court of Appeals here, both Chief Justice Vinson and Attorney General Tom C. Clark spoke in praise of the efficiency of the Washington court.

Washington District Leads

The Attorney General said he believed this district led the Federal courts of the whole Nation in the disposition of criminal cases.

Chief Justice Vinson said that on March 31, the record showed the Washington district led all others in the speedy decision of motions under advisement, the prompt settlement of which is essential to expeditious handling of cases, both civil and criminal.

Justice Pine acts for the District Court in its supervision of criminal cases. He reported on the success of suggestions, adopted by last year's Judicial Circuit Conference, for handling criminal cases, and on improvements devised by the justices and their staff as the streamlined system was tried out in actual operation.

Time-Saving Effected

Formerly both attorneys and witnesses spent many weary hours waiting for their cases to be reached by the courts to which they were assigned. Under the new system, nearly all cases are cleared through the office of Assignment Commissioner Jack Sullivan. Witnesses remain in a waiting room, and attorneys are free to work in their offices or elsewhere, until their cases are assigned, which is not until a justice is ready to proceed with them. The result has been a great saving of time for both lawyers and the public.

Justice Pine said much of the credit for the success of the central assignment system was due to the efforts of Assistant District Attorney John C. Conliff and Deputy Clerk Marion Lewis and their colleagues.

Other speakers at the conference were:

Other Speakers

Jacob N. Halper and Harry J. Kene, jr., who discussed the wisdom of declaring Municipal Court judgments to be liens on real estate without being docketed in the District Court.

Richard R. Atkinson and Corporation Counsel Vernon E. West, who spoke of the need of a law governing claims against the District.

James E. Palmer, jr., and Austin Canfield, former president of the District Bar Association, who discussed the wisdom of a rule providing for special verdicts and answers to particular questions by juries in civil cases.

Day Care Center Future Appears Certain for Year

Eastern High Senior, 18, Drowns in Md.

The youth, Igilio Mattera, 4010 Minnesota ave. ne., sank beneath the surface under the eyes of a classmate, Francis M. Moses, 17, 1334 Maryland ave.

The two youths, according to Moses, were swimming from one raft to another when the accident occurred.

Moses swam to aid his friend, he said, but saw him sink under the surface just before he reached him.

"I dove for him three or four times and then went back to the raft for help," Moses said. "They sent boats from the shore and located Igilio with nets, but the lifeguards couldn't save him."

Mattera was a native of Italy and transferred to Eastern from Chamberlain Vocational School. He was described in the "Punch and Judy," Eastern yearbook, as "a 'shutter-bug'—camera fiend, that is."

John Paul Collins, Eastern principal, when informed of the tragedy last night said that young Mattera was a popular student, well liked by students and faculty alike.

Deficiency Fund Bill Appropriates $150,000 for 1948 Financing

Prospects for continuation of six child day-care centers here for another year appeared bright yesterday.

The sum of $150,000 to operate the centers was sought in the second—and last—deficiency appropriation bill under consideration by a Senate Appropriations Subcommittee.

A second deficiency funds bill already has cleared the House, but many additions are expected to be made in the Senate version of the measure, a catch-all for last-minute appropriations.

Both houses have authorized continuation of the much-debated child day-care centers, but without an appropriation of specific funds, there'd be no way to maintain the centers.

The legislation also includes funds and contract authorization for both the new Federal Courthouse and General Accounting Office buildings. These two items also are expected to clear the committee and the Senate without much ado.

Senator Millard Tydings (D., Md.) appeared before the subcommittee to plead for an advance of $500,000 in Federal grant funds to speed up construction of the new Baltimore-Friendship Airport in Anne Arundel County, about 6 miles outside of the city. The new airfield, Tydings said, would relieve congestion at the National Airport here and ease up the stacking up of planes waiting to come down in bad weather.

Officials at Civil Aeronautics Authority and the National Airport, contacted later, said it is questionable whether the new Baltimore airport would relieve crowding conditions here.

Comptroller General Lindsay C. Warren went before the subcommittee to ask that the Senate restor to $680,000 the item requested by the Government Accounting Office to finance a reaudit of wartime transportation vouchers paid by the Government from 1943 through 1946.

The House had slashed the request by $230,000 to $450,000,arguing the GAO could draw upon its traditional annual surplus to make up any deficit cost in the reaudit.

Warren told the Senate group that it wasn't fair to penalize the GAO because of its economic operations and pointed out that if there was a surplus again this year it would be returned to the Treasury.

He estimated the reaudit will bring about the return to the Government of more than 100 million dollars in overpayments made to railroads, shipping lines, airlines, etc., during the war years.

Senator Joseph H. Ball (R., Minn.), chairman of the subcommittee, told Warren he had made "a very clear and admirable case."

David Lynn, architect of the Capitol, asked the committee to authorize $600,000 additional for repair and remodeling of the Senate chambers. The money would augment $200,000 left over from a 1940 appropriation for less extensive remodeling.

Federal Security Administrator Oscar Ewing asked $6,730,000 in new money to care for new obligations arising with the President's signature yesterday of the National Heart Act. The present appropriation bill only provides $2,644,088 for heart ailment research.

Added in his request was $1,750,000 for teaching grants to medical schools; $750,000 for cardio-vascular traineeships; $650,000 for heart research fellowships, instead of the presently provided $150,000; and $750,000 for institutional grants.

It would also provide for two million dollars for grants to the States, for furtherance of the study of heart ailments.

Meanwhile, another Appropriations Subcommittee gave clearance for Veterans' Administration to build a hospital on the Nevius tract across the Memorial Bridge in Arlington. The House has already okayed this project, which it blocked last year.

Dalstrom's Conviction Set Aside

The Commissioners yesterday set aside a trial board's conviction of Ivan J. Dalstrom, Fire Department superintendent of machinery, because of a technicality, and ordered a new trial.

They ruled the trial board was illegally constituted because Assistant Corporation Counsel Henry E. Wixon, who served as chairman, took the wrong oath when he became a member last September.

Paul E. Jamieson, attorney for Dalstrom, challenged Wixon's right to sit on the board in appealing the decision to the Commissioners.

New Trial Necessary

The board on May 19 found Dalstrom guilty of improper driving and recommended he pay a fine of $125 and lose $150 back pay as a result of his suspension for alleged intoxication April 11 to 20. It dismissed two intoxication charges against Dalstrom.

In setting aside the trial, the Commissioners made it necessary for Dalstrom to be tried again on all three charges, Assistant Corporation Counsel Chester H. Gray said.

Jamieson expressed "surprise" at the decesion and said he may file suit in District Court to enjoin the Commissioners from rehearing the intoxication charges against Dalstrom.

Vote Was 2 to 1

He said he had challenged only Wixon's right to sit on the board and had waived objection to a decision by the remaining two members. Dalstrom was found guilty by a 2-to-1 vote, with Deputy Fire Chief Joseph A. Mayhew dissenting.

Wixon's ineligibility would leave a 1-to-1 tie decision, Jamieson pointed out. A man is "never" found "guilty on a tie vote," he declared.

Wixon admitted he was administered the wrong oath by former Police Inspector Clement P. Cox, now retired.

The correct oath, as specified in Fire Department regulations, reads: "I, ———, having been appointed by the Commissioners of the District of Columbia a (an alternate) member of the Trial Board of the Fire Department, District of Columbia, do hereby swear that I will faithfully and impartially perform the duties of that office, and that I will refrain from discussing the merits of any case with any person prior to the trial thereof."

Arrested April 11

The oath which Wixon actually took reads: "Having been designated an Alternate Member of the District of Columbia Fire Department Trial Board by the Commissioners of the District of Columbia, I solemnly swear that I will faithfully and truly without partiality or favor, hear evidence and render judgment and finding upon such evidence as may be submitted to me sitting as a member of the board. So help me God."

Trail board action against Dalstrom resulted from his arrest April 11 on drunken driving charges after the Fire Department sedan he was driving hit the rear of another auto at 38th st. and Bladensburg rd., Colmar Manor.

Dalstrom was acquitted of the drunken driving charge but fined $50 for reckless driving in Hyattsville Police Court April 19.

Woman Sentenced For False Report

Municipal Judge George Neilson yesterday gave Lillian Brook, 26, of 1411 22d st. nw, 30 days in jail and fined her $50 for falsely reporting to the police that she was robbed of her life savings.

The judge added a sharp scolding for the waste of time she has caused Second Precinct detectives.

Detective George D. Loughrin said Miss Brook told him she took $739 out of the bank last Saturday and it was stolen from her by a youth at an N street rooming house. Loughrin found that the bank was closed Saturday and that there was no such rooming house. Miss Brook pleaded guilty to the charge of making a false report.

2 Area Men on Yale Paper

Two Washington area men have been elected to the editorial board of the Yale Law Journal for the fall term of 1948.

They are Frank M. Wozencraft, 2029 Connecticut ave. nw., and Hugo L. Black, jr., son of the Supreme Court Justice of 619 S. Lee st., Alexandria.

Indecent Exposure Case

Bethesda, Md., police reported yesterday the arrest of Kenneth A. Gregory, 26, of 1512 Jefferson st., Hyattsville, on a charge of indecent exposure. Police said a 16-year-old Bethesda girl was involved. Gregory, police said, was released on $500 bond pending hearing June 28 in Bethesda police court.

Navy Unit 50 Years Old

The Navy Hospital Corps yesterday celebrated its fiftieth anniversary, commemorating its start by Act of Congress, June 17, 1898.

At Bethesda Naval Center, Md., the day was a holiday for the more than 600 corpsmen serving the center. The number is in sharp contrast to the starting strength of the Navy Hospital Corps, which was less than 200 for the entire service arm. Today's full strength is 14,748 hospital corpsmen on active duty. The World War II peak was 137,000.

At special luncheon services yesterday at Bethesda, Surgeon General Clifford A. Swanson introduced the Corps longest active member, Chief Hospital Corpsman Owen L. Pittman of Oceanside, Calif., who enlisted September 15, 1915, and one of the latest recruits, William E. Hobbs of Springfield, Ohio, who joined in February, this year.

Mrs. Terrell Honored

Mrs. Mary Church Terrell, 1615 S st. nw., prominent Negro educator, has become the first woman of her race to be awarded the degree of Doctor of Humane Letters by Oberlin College, Oberlin, Ohio.

Mrs. Terrell, a graduate of the college in the class of 1884, was presented with the degree at the 115th commencement of the school on June 14. One of the first women members of the D. C. Board of Education, Mrs. Terrell also served as first president of the National Association of Colored Women and for a number of years was secretary of the Race Relations Committee of the Washington Federation of Churches.

Sea of Mud Cleaned Up

The sea of mud which engulfed the sidewalk at Minnesota ave. and C st. se. after Wednesday's rain yesterday was cleaned up by the city highway department.

Police at the Eleventh Precinct said that the highway department was planning to "do something" about the situation, which becomes worse after each rain washes soil down a nearby embankment.

When the kids from Kimball School yesterday tramped home without having to plod through the mud, one of them remarked, "Gee, whadda ya know! There was a sidewalk under all that mud!"

50 Years at White House

Clarence E. Ingling, who joined the White House staff "for a few weeks" at the beginning of the Spanish-American War, yesterday completed 50 years of service.

President McKinley borrowed Ingling from Western Union June 18, 1898, when there was just one telephone wire into the White House, to receive the messages which led up to the Battle of Santiago.

Ingling came to the White House as a telegraph operator, and took over his present position as chief of the File room in 1906. He is a fisherman and yachtsman, and frequently accompanied Presidents Theodore Roosevelt and Coolidge on vacation trips.

Mrs. Carolyn Moore

Funeral services for Mrs. Carolyn Watson Moore, who died Wednesday in Norfolk, Va., will be held today at 3 p. m. at St. Mary's Episcopal Church, Glebe rd. and Old Dominion dr., Arlington. Burial will be in Oakwood Cemetery, Falls Church, Va.

Mrs. Moore was the widow of Dr. Alexander Berkeley Moore, formerly associated with an X-ray firm here. She moved to Virginia Beach, Va., from her home in Arlington about eight months ago.

Miss Susie Koch

Funeral services for Miss Susie Koch, 82, life-long resident of Washington, who died Tuesday at her residence, 5316 Nevada ave. nw., will be held at 3 p. m. today at the Hines funeral home. Burial will be in Prospect Hill Cemetery.

Miss Koch, the daughter of the late Werner and Adolphine Koch of Washington, was employed in the Treasury and the Commerce Departments before her retirement years ago.

Surviving are a brother, Edward W. Koch of 8300 16th st., Silver Spring, and a sister, Miss Emma Koch of the Nevada ave. address.

Buckley Stars as Conductor at Watergate

The Washington Post

"RESERVED SEATS"—After pulling their canoe along side the Watergate, this foursome leans back and listens. It is comprised of (from left) Eva Huddle of 2719 Ontario rd. nw.; Roy Myers and Bill Dilday, both of 1426 21st st. nw., and Juanita Bennett of Arlington Farms

By Paul Hume

Thousands gathered last night at the Watergate to hear two favorite operas: Cavalleria Rusticana and Pagliacci.

Towering star of the entire evening was Emerson Buckley, the conductor. He took an orchestra which had never played together before and by the brilliance of his musicianship and the magnetism of his beat, persuaded them and the singers to provide an acceptable evening.

Pagliacci benefited tremendously from the presence of Mary Henderson and Hugh Thompson as Nedda and Tonio. Henderson handles her voice with every nuance of a great star, covering her top tones, and singing with stylish beauty at all times. Her acting is convincing and natural.

Thompson is one of the finest singing musicians today. He lets his top tones ride open, and they are not as resonant as another system of production would make them, but his work is excellent.

Vasso Argyris, borrowed from the New York City Center Co., was a plausible Canio, though he exerts a good deal of effort in dramatic passages.

Richard Vincent was a useful member of both casts, adding luster to his duet with Miss Henderson.

Only Andrew McKinley can be commended for meritorious singing in Cavalleria. He and Buckley did what they could. The chorus and soprano singing Santuzza were impossible.

The new barge lends itself well to opera, the stage pictures being adequate, and the sound system well adjusted to the voices. Fewer microphones overhead would in our opinion benefit the total sound. (It was interesting to watch the solo singers keep an eye on the mikes. The really good ones did not bother with them, and did not need to.

Tonight: Madame Butterfly, with a good cast; tomorrow night, Carmen postponed from Wednesday. Tickets for Wednesday good on Saturday. Very fine cast for Carmen. Curtain time: 8:45 o'clock.

Nine Marines From D. C. Area Reinterred

Mrs. Benoist Succumbs at Warm Springs

Mrs. Lee Benoist, 69, wife of the former president of the New Orleans, La., Public Utilities Commission and descendant of the first Secretary of the Navy, died Wednesday at Warm Springs, Va.

Funeral services and burial will be held in Warm Springs Saturday at 11 a. m.

Mrs. Benoist was a native of St. Louis, Mo. She was the daughter of Capt. Thomas T. Turner, a Civil War officer, and Mrs. Harriot Stoddert Brown Turner. A descendant of the first Secretary of the Navy, Benjamin Stoddert, Mrs. Benoist lived in Washington from about 1926 to about 1934.

Mrs. Benoist and her husband also lived in St. Louis, Mo., and since about 1934, spent half the year in Florida and the other half in Warm Springs, Va.

Besides her husband, Mrs. Benoist is survived by a son, Louis A. Benoist, of San Francisco, Calif.; two daughters, Mother Benoist, of Sacred Heart Convent's new quarters, Stoney Ridge, in Maryland, and Mrs. Henry Ravenel, of 8 Grafton st., Chevy Chase, Md.; two sisters, St. Mary Edith, of the Notre Dame Congregation in Montreal, Canada, and Mrs. Horton Pope, of Denver, Colo.; a brother, Campbell Turner, of Alexandria, Va., and six grandchildren.

Clarence O. Webb

Funeral services for Clarence O. Webb, 61, Government attorney, were held yesterday at St. Stephen's Episcopal Church, 16th and Newton sts. nw., and burial in Glenwood Cemetery followed.

Mr. Webb died Monday at Charlottesville, Va., of a heart attack. He had gone there to attend the graduation of his son, William A. Webb, from the University of Virginia School of Engineering.

He had been principal assistant to the chief counsel of the Internal Revenue Bureau for more than 20 years and was a member of the American and Federal Bar Associations. He lived at 3625 16th st. nw.

Surviving besides his wife and son are a daughter, Mrs. Rolla H. Taylor of Arlington; a sister, Mrs. Myra W. Altman of Birmingham, Ala.; a stepsister, Mrs. Grady Jones of Montgomery, Ala., and three grandchildren.

E. W. Sims, 78, Noted Lawyer, Dies

Edwin W. Sims, 78, who prosecuted the famous 29-million-dollar antitrust case against the Standard Oil Co. under President Theodore Roosevelt, died Wednesday in Saginaw, Mich., where he had suffered a heart attack following an operation.

Mr. Sims, who was the solicitor for the old Department of Labor and Commerce here in 1905-06, made his summer home at an extensive ranch in northeastern Michigan, according to the Associated Press. He wintered in Florida.

He was a special attorney in the Bureau of Corporations here from 1903 to 1905 prior to being appointed to the post of solicitor. His participation in the Standard Oil case, in which Judge Kenesaw Mountain Landis imposed the huge fine, came when he was United States Attorney in Chicago from 1906 to 1911.

Mr. Sims was sent to Alaska by President Roosevelt in 1906 to investigate fur seal and salmon fisheries, a trip which resulted in his drafting bills to tax these industries. Increased taxes were received in Alaska through this legislation.

Ruspoli's Widow Dies In Italy Home

The Princess Ruspoli, widow of Prince Carlo Ruspoli, and niece of Mason Terry of 1330 19th st. nw., died in Repallo, Italy, May 30, of typhoid fever, it was learned here yesterday.

The Princess Ruspoli was the daughter of the late Admiral Filippo Camperio, Naval Attache at the Italian Embassy here from 1908 to 1910, and his wife, the former Eleanor Terry, daughter of the late Admiral Silas Terry, USN, and Mrs. Terry.

The Princess Ruspoli was born in Washington in 1914, and was married in Rome in July, 1946. The following spring she and her husband, who had taken a position with Standard Oil Co., came to New York to live. Prince Ruspoli, a well known sportsman and aviator, died shortly thereafter while on a business trip to Buenos Aires.

Immediate survivors of the princess include a 13-month-old son, two brothers and a sister, all living in Italy.

Bosox Sweep Series From Indians, 8-6

This Morning

—With Shirley Povich

IT'S A PHOTO FINISH at Laurel, even before the trotters set hooves on the track four nights hence in the unveiling of Washington's newest sports enterprise. Construction men are trying to whelp a harness racing plant into being before 8:15 on Monday night in a furious head-to-head stretch duel against mud, material shortages, the elements and the clock.

POVICH

The labor gangs are going to win it, at least that's what Dick Hutchison, jr., says. "Our number will go up, I think," said the young president of Laurel Raceway, "but it will be a photo all right." Hutchison isn't content with hope, however. At any of the 16 daylight hours he can be seen in boots and work-clothes lending a hand with the bulldozers or grabbing up a hammer to help the carpentering on the new grandstands that will seat 3800.

The brass is pretty much in evidence about the plant. Helping to superintend the job is Secretary-Treasurer Tom Claggett who like Hutchison is in for a heavy amount of the $500,000 gamble that they can get harness racing going midway between Washington and Baltimore by Monday night. In work clothes there's little to distinguish the track's two top guys from the scores of laborers, electricians, truck drivers and steelworkers in noisy toil.

IT'S MORE THAN a coincidence that President Hutchison and Secretary Clagett are in the thick of it with the construction folks. They're no green peas at the business of getting things built. Hutchison, a graduate engineer from Virginia Military Institute, built Army camps during the war, and Clagett was with a Navy construction outfit in the Pacific cutting landing strips out of jungles with the same kind of bulldozers he's been driving at Laurel.

They say it's going to be a big league track, and they say they're not trying to con anybody about it. There's no evidence that it's a fly-by-night promotion. The Hutchison family owns the property. They've been horse people for a long time. High among the track's directors is Lawrence B. Sheppard, otherwise known as Mr. Hanover Shoe Farm, wealthiest of all the trotting horse breeders. The solid stables are flocking to the place for stall room.

Trotting races will always smack of the county fair, but Laurel is adding big league appurtenances. The electric totalizator is being installed at a pretty cost and a high daily rental. The odds will be corectly flashed to the minute from the machines imported from England, which still makes the best totalizator gadgets, despite the high claims for American genius.

EVEN AS THEIR HORSES are of a different strain than the running horse, the trotting people are a breed apart from the running-horse folk. The harness trainer and the sulky driver think theirs is the greater art of training and racing horses, and 25 per cent of the men in the sulkies own the horses they have on the track. The 70-year-old sulk jockey is commonplace and with their bicycle wheels weight is no factor.

Right now the leading driver at the Roosevelt Raceway, biggest of the harness tracks, is 240-pound Frank Safford, whose physique would make a thoroughbred trainer swoon. But on those bicycle wheels Safford is no burden to the standard-breds, except as a mild weight factor at the get-away. For five years Safford has been the top driver at Roosevelt, a driving fool they call him, but that isn't true.

"He may look like a dare-devil driver, but don't confuse it with his confidence in what he can do," points out Ed Keller, Laurel's racing secretary. "These old boys aren't the kind that take chances. They can judge a sulky opening to a quarter of an inch on either side and they know it. What looks crazy to the spectator is an art with these veteran drivers."

THERE ARE SEPTUAGENARIANS among the drivers who wouldn't dare step off the curb as pedestrians in the lightest kind of traffic, but they'll shoot sulkies through openings that don't seem to exist, says Keller. "Some of them have been driving those carts for 50 years. They know their horses, they know the track, and they know themselves That last is what they know best."

It's not a young man's business, nor is it particularly a business for young horses. When the famous Single G. ran his wonder mile in 1:58½ he was 13 years old. At the ratio of seven-man years to one horse-year, that was the equivalent of Dizzy Dean pitching the best game of his career at the age of 91. Stabled now at Laurel is Hanover Express, unbeaten this year, and a winner two weeks ago at the age of 19.

Like everything else about harness racing, night racing is not of recent date. Thirty years ago, the trotters began racing under the lights in Ohio. There are more trotting tracks, 78, in the State of Ohio alone, than there are running tracks on the East Coast. Legalized betting helped the harness sport to grow up and the trotting people are now a mutuel admiration society.

Braves Win Pair, Take Over Lead

Boston, June 17 (AP).—The Boston Braves once again took over the National League lead today, coming from behind twice to edge the cellar shackled Chicago Cubs, 7-6 and 8-7, in a Bunker Hill holiday twin bill witnessed by 24,714 happy paid fans.

The double triumph gave the Tribe an eight-percentage point bulge over second-place Pittsburgh Pirates who shaded the New York Giants, 9-8. The Braves and the Pirates were tied for first before today's games.

Big Bill Voiselle, who was knocked out of the box in the first inning yesterday by these same Cubs, finished up both games and gained credit for two decisions.

The Braves now have beaten Chicago 9 times in 10 games between the two clubs.

The Cubs hustled a 5-0 lead in the first game as they drove starter Lefty Warren Spahn to an early tub. The Braves proceeded to score twice in both the third and fifth innings and added three more, enough to win, in the sixth.

Reds Finally Beat Bums, 5 to 3, Behind Fox

Brooklyn, June 17 (AP).—The Cincinnati Reds salvaged the final contest of their three-game series with the Brooklyn Dodgers today, 5 to 3, before 9334.

Rookie Howard Fox wobbled through the first inning when the Dodgers scored all their runs, then held the Brooks scoreless for his third victory against three defeats.

Joe Hatten, the loser, blew up in the fourth when the Reds overcame the Dodger lead with four runs. A single by Hank Sauer and two walks filled the bases. A fly scored Sauer and two more walks forced in the second run and sent Hatten to the showers. Erv Palica replaced the lefthander and was greeted with a two-run single by Claude Corbitt.

Fox gave up nine hits, six in the first two innings. He fanned the side in the third.

Brooklyn scored in the first inning on singles by Marv Rackley, Carl Furillo and Gene Hermanski, a double by Pee Wee Reese and a pair of infield outs.

Joe Walcott OK'd by Doc; Weighs 197

By Jack Hand

Grenloch, N. J., June 17 (AP).—Jersey Joe Walcott passed a routine physical exam with flying colors today and then sparred five rounds in a so-so workout for Wednesday's Yankee Stadium date with Heavyweight Champion Joe Louis.

The drill was not calculated to change the 13 to 5 odds favoring the titleholder.

The 34-year-old challenger weighed 197 pounds after the workout, as compared to 194½ on December 5 when he lost a hotly disputed decision to the Bomber.

"Louis and Walcott are in equally good physical condition," said Dr. Vincent Nardiello, New York athletic commission physician who examined the champ Tuesday at Pompton Lakes.

"I noticed particularly that Walcott was more confident than in December," Dr. Nardiello reported. "His pulse was 60 before exercise, 84 after exercise and 110 after the workout. He is in excellent condition and could go tomorrow."

Walcott continued to wear those long white tights that he has worn throughout his training grind of 110 rounds, puzzling many of the visiting boxing reporters. The official explanation was that Jersey Joe was trying to weight himself down so that he would feel much lighter and freer in his action for the fight. It's the same theory of a baseball player swinging two or three bats before he goes to the plate.

Apparently at his peak, he did not choose to extend himself in two rounds with Austin Johnson of Atlantic City, N. J., and one round each with Curtis Sheppard of Baltimore, Charley Robinson of Pennsville, N. J., and Cliff Dyes of Miami, Fla.

The squat challenger parried questions neatly, especially when asked about his future plans.

"If I win I have a contract to give Louis another chance in September," he said, "but I don't have any contract that says he has to fight me."

Louis Looks Good In Sparring Drill

Pompton Lakes, N. J., June 17 (AP).—Joe Louis stalked, jabbed and retreated for four rounds today against four different sparring partners in one of his better workouts.

The Brown Bomber had trouble with only one of the sparmates, Tiger Roy Taylor. Taylor, a Walcott model, ducked and sidestepped and played the ropes expertly and gave Louis few chances to get a solid crack at him.

Rain Halts Title Bout in Chicago

You Got It, Pop!

Looking at little Arnold Cream, jr., you'd say there was no doubt of the outcome of next Wednesday's heavyweight title fight. The winner, of course, would be Jersey Joe Walcott, Arnold's dad, over Joe Louis. Young Cream is banking on his old man's good right arm

Cards Win, 4-1, On Musial Hit

Philadelphia, June 17 (AP).—Stan Musial's triple with the bases loaded and two out in the eighth inning gave the St. Louis Cardinals a 4-1 triumph over the Philadelphia Phillies tonight. Musial also scored on Whitey Kurowski's single.

Until the big eighth, Curt Simmons, young Phillies southpaw, had a slight margin over Harry (The Cat) Brecheen; thanks to a fourth-inning run. The Phils picked up the tally on singles by Johnny Blatnik, Del Ennis and Eddie Miller and Andy Seminick's fly to center.

Locke Ahead On Record 65

Chicago, June 17 (AP).—Bobby Locke registered nine one-putt greens to shoot a course record 65—six under par—and captured the first-round lead of the $15,000 Chicago Victory golf championships today.

Par is a respected 35-36—71 over the 6587-yard layout. The course record of 66 by Harry Hampton of Chicago had stood for 10 years.

Following Locke—the country's third leading money winner—for the $2000 first prize in the four-day tourney, were Dick Metz of Arkansas City, Kans., with 67, and Johnny Revolta of Evanston, Ill., and Jim Turnesa of White Plains, N. Y., with 69 each.

A group of 70 shooters included Bob Hamilton of Evansville, Ind.; Cary Middlecoff of Memphis, Clayton Heafner of Charlotte, N. C., and Jim Ferrier, registering out of San Francisco.

Locke's 65 combined with a 74 for his amateur partner, George Dawson of Chicago, put the twosome in the lead of the proamateur competition with 139. Ferrier and Mike Stefanchik of Gary, Ind., combined 70-73—143 for second in the proamateur bracket.

Pirates Outslug Giants, 9 to 8

New York, June 17 (AP). — The Pittsburgh Pirates polished off the New York Giants for the third time in a row today, 9 to 8, as the Giant pitchers failed again despite heavy hitting support.

Nats Bundle Losing Streak Into Chicago

By Morris Siegel,
Post Reporter

St. Louis, June 17.—Tonight the Nats left St. Louis, where they haven't won a ball game all year, for Chicago, where they haven't lost all season.

A late afternoon rain brought about the second postponement in the three-game series with the Browns and also prevented the Nats from extending their latest series of setbacks to six straight.

Mad, but not discouraged over his club's recent string of reversals, Manager Joe Kuhel was confident that Walter Masterson would have stopped the Brownies tonight. He'll string along with the bespectacled right-hander and open the four-game stand against the White Sox with Walter tomorrow night in Comiskey Park.

Replying to reporters who today asked, "What's wrong with the Nats?" Kuhel answered:

"The same thing that's wrong with the league-leading Cleveland club—they aren't getting any hitting or pitching."

Kuhel is worried a bit about Gil Coan. The youthful outfielder appears to have lost a bit of his confidence at the plate. Last night for example, he took a called third strike in the ninth inning against Al Widmar when a fly ball would have meant a run and a tie game.

If Gil doesn't snap out of it against the comparatively easy pitching he'll face in Chicago, he may be rested for a couple of games. Kuhel hopes that won't be necessary, however. All Coan needs, the manager feels, is to rap out a couple of hits in the opener against the Chisox and he'll be off on another of his good batting performances.

After Masterson, the Nats will use Early Wynn against the Chisox Saturday afternoon and Sid Hudson and Rae Scarborough in the Sunday twin bill.

NAT NOTES—Rookie Catcher Len Okrie could have been something of a hero in his major league debut last night. He ran for Mark Christman after Christman had singled to open the ninth. A walk and a wild pitch got him to third with only one away, but he missed the chance to score the tying run when Coan and Wooten left him on third . . . Dick Welteroth was slated to get his chance as a starter against the Chisox, but Kuhel has sidetracked him in favor of one of the pitching regulars, what with a five-game losing streak to snap . . . Sportsmans Park was jammed today with persons buying tickets for the All-Star game here next month.

DiMaggio's Homer Wins Game in 6th

Cleveland, June 17 (AP).—The resurgent Boston Red Sox handed the league-leading Cleveland Indians their fourth straight loss today, edging the faltering Tribe 8-6 for a sweep of the three-game series.

Dom DiMaggio's sixth-inning home run broke a 6-all deadlock and clinched the game for the Sox, who now have won 11 of their last 14 games.

Black Blasted

Don Black started for Cleveland, but failed to last the first inning as Boston tallied three times. Johnny Pesky walked and went to third on on Stan Spence's fly.

Black then issued a single to Ted Williams' single. Pesky scored Vern Stephens and a walk to Bobby Doerr to load the bases. He walked Bill Goodman to force Williams across the plate. Steve Gromek came in as relief and walked Birdie Tebbetts to force another man in.

The Indians tied it up in their half of the same inning on singles by Larry Dolby, Lou Boudreau, a double by Hank Edwards and a single by Joe Gordon.

Bosox Regain Lead

Boston regained the lead in the second when DiMaggio singled and went to third on Edwards' error. Eddie Robinson muffed Williams bounder and DiMaggio scored. Stephens then clouted his tenth homer.

The Indians tied the count again in the fourth when Edwards singled and Gordon belted his ninth round-tripper. Ken Keltner, the league's pace-setter in the homer department, then knotted the count with his sixteenth smash of the season.

Treacherous Track Closes Charles Town After Second Race

Knockdown Tops Stymie At Aqueduct

Aqueduct, N. Y., June 17 (AP).—The still agile but aging Stymie today found the combination of his heavy impost and the sharp speed of Knockdown too much for him in the Queens County Handicap, opening day feature at Aqueduct.

Beating the world money-winning champion for the second time in their three clashes this season, Knockdown carried Mrs. Elizabeth Graham's silks to an easy three-length decision over Mrs. E. D. Jacobs' 7-year-old chestnut. Stymie wore down A. J. Sackett's Gasparilla by a half length for the place in the forty-third edition of the mile and a sixteenth opening-day fixture, witnessed by 23,557 fans.

Knockdown a $9-for-$2 second choice carrying 113 pounds (including 4 pounds of overweight for Jockey Ferril Zufelt, who was scoring a double) was clocked in 1:44 3-5 as he picked up the winner's share of $15,025.

Riders Ask For Halt; Two Thrown

Charles Town, W. Va., June 17.—Due to the treacherous condition of the track, racing was canceled for the afternoon after the running of the second race. Action was taken at a meeting of the commissioners, stewards and jockeys after the first two races had produced near accidents.

The official announcement: "Because of the unsafe condition of the track and at the request of the jockeys, the remainder of the program has been canceled by commission action."

Early this morning Chief Steward John Morrissey called a meeting of the jockeys and asked them if they would ride. The boys agreed that they did not want the program called off.

After the second race, however, the jockeys sent a representative to the stewards with word that they would not take further mounts on what they termed "an unsafe track."

Betting was already under way on the third race at the time of the cancellation announcement and the mutuel department refunded $7656.

A crowd of 5000 was taking part in the sport. The track was termed "heavy," but the riders said it was slippery and that horses shod for off going were not getting a grip with their hooves.

Heavy rain fell here Tuesday night and Wednesday morning. The weather cleared today and there was every indication that racing could be resumed tomorrow.

The first race saw Jockey Joe Becerril being tossed by R. Weller's Black Tide when the horse stumbled while racing wide approaching the first turn. In the second race, Freddie Kratz, leading rider at the meeting, went down with E. Conney's Rendova while racing on the inside at the stretch turn. Both jockeys and horses escaped injury.

Mrs. H. S. Grinder's Brinks, the favorite in the second race, finished third and pulled up very lame. However, the 7-year-old appeared to be favoring his right front leg going to the post.

The daily double paid $218.20. L. A. Hancock's Shrewla came from behind to win the first race at $7.80. In the second, H. L. Schultz,'s Just Great went to the front and stayed there, paying an individual mutuel of $27.

High School Coach Accepts Frosh Job at Georgetown

Georgetown University acquired a new freshman basketball and football coach yesterday, according to the new freshman basketball and football coach.

In Steubenville, Ohio, Coach Mac Cara of that city's Central High School, announced he had accepted the job in Washington. Georgetown's athletic authorities, to a man, were out of town and unavailable to verify the report.

Cara, a graduate of North Carolina State, has been a scholastic coach for nine years. He also played two years of professional football with the Pittsburgh Steelers.

Mrs. Pray, And Crocker Eliminated

Mrs. Betty Meckley of Kenwood and Mrs. A. B. Bower of Indian Spring will tee off at 10 a. m. today at Woodmont Country Club for the first flight championship of the Women's District Golf Association.

Mrs. Meckley gained the finals yesterday with a 5-and-3 triumph over Mrs. L. G. Pray of Columbia. Mrs. Bower had a more difficult time in her semifinals match with Mrs. S. B. Crocker of Kenwood. Mrs. Bower trailed 2 down at the end of nine holes, but won six of the next seven holes to gain the finals, 4 and 2.

Mrs. John Ives of Columbia outstroked Mrs. Theodore Peyser of Woodmont, 5 and 3, in second flight semifinals play. Her finals opponent at 9:55 a. m. today will be Mrs. O. L. Altman of Army-Navy who yesterday defeated Mrs. R. E. Zuber of Manor, 3 and 1.

Mrs. E. B. Lockett of Kenwood yesterday won the fourth flight championship when she defeated Mrs. H. C. Fisher of Columbia, 4 and 3.

In third flight play Mrs. G. W. Calvert of Washington trounced Mrs. H. L. Lacey of Manor, 8 and 7, and Mrs. Sam Brown of Woodmont defeated Mrs. E. Foley of Kenwood, 2 and 1. The two winners will meet for the third flight title today at 9:35 a. m.

PLAY WITH YOUR HEAD
I take plenty of strokes off the scores of businessmen golfers with whom I play by telling them first, make up their minds where they want the ball to go; then to take the club that should gain that distance without pressing—AND AIM! If pros were as hasty and negligent about aiming as high-handicap players usually are, the pros, too, would have a hard time breaking 80.

Touchdowners Frolic Today In Big Program at Manor

Principal event, and probably the most serious one, is the golf tournament starting at 8 a. m. Maury Nee will defend his title.

Most of the interest is centered on the "track meet." Three dashes are scheduled. First is a 50-yard open speed race. Then there will be a 40-yard race for men 225 pounds and over and a 25-yard sprint for men over 50.

Printz Wins Post League Clincher

Otiz Printz hurled an 8-hitter for the winners while his mates were pounding three Sunnybrook hurlers.

Catcher Eddie Lloyd led the onslaught with five hits in six times at bat, driving in five runs. Bernie Goode and Joe Valenti checked in with four hits apiece, Goode getting the oonly home run of the day with nobody on base in the third inning.

6 Americans Gain In London Tennis

Louise Brough of Beverly Hills, Calif.; Mrs. Margaret Osborne du Pont of Bellevue, Del.; Mrs. Patricia Canning Todd of La Jolla, Calif., and Doris Hart of Miami, America's four top-ranking feminine stars, were the qualifiers for the women's semifinal on the Queen's Club courts.

WOMAN PILOT—In fact, Maizie Rogers, 2915 Connecticut ave., shown above piloting A-6, is believed to be the only female Class A power boat pilot in the East. Here she leads Eddie Van Hooten, Kearny, N. J., to the turn buoy. Both will compete in Sunday's National Capital Power Boat Regatta on the Potomac between Memorial Bridge and 14th St. Bridge.

Carter Heads Midget Card

Duane Carter, the Indianapolis Speedway driver from Los Angeles, begins a busy weekend at the West Lanham Speedway tonight. He will compete in the seven-event card at Lanham which starts at 8:30 and will race at Langhorne, Pa., tomorrow and at Indianapolis Sunday.

Carter will drive a midget Offenhauser at Lanham tonight and at the Pennsylvania speedway Saturday. Sunday he will switch to the big cars for the 100-lap National Convention Sweepstakes at Indianapolis.

Tonight, Carter will be opposed by nine Offenhausers and 15 Ford V-8 entries. George Fonder, who won at both Lanham and the Philadelphia Yellow Jacket Speedway last weekend, will lead the opposition.

Fishermen Now Choosy; Virginia Bass Season Ready

By Jack Walsh
Post Reporter

NOW THAT THE salt-water fishing in this area is really booming—at long last—fisher men have an opportunity to be a little choosy with the bass season also at hand.

In Virginia, bass-taking time starts Sunday. West of the Blue Ridge Mountains it continues to December 31; east of them until March 15, 1949.

Nearly all of the public impounded waters of Virginia have been stocked liberally. More than 55,000 large and smallmouth bass were deposited last fall, more than half of them of catchable size.

The limit for 10-inch bass is 10 a day, 150 a season. Fifteen rock, or red-eye, bass may be taken daily but the same season limit prevails.

IN MARYLAND'S non-tidal waters in eight counties, the bass season opened the first of June. Tidal water season commences July 1. The counties where bass may be taken now are Kent, Queen Annes, Caroline, Talbot, Dorchester, Somerset, Wicomico and Worcester.

West Virginia's season opens Saturday at 12:01 a. m. (EST).

SALT-WATER ANGLERS, disappointed when they tried to rush the season in Chesapeake Bay and its environs, are singing a different tune now. They're happily taking advantage of what they're calling the best season in years.

All along the coast, the bluefish are more plentiful than they've been in 13 years. And, off Solomons, the best hardhead fishing in five years is being enjoyed.

MISCELLANY—Virginia's Game Commission is one of the first in the country to take advantage of the educational benefits of television. It's televising a wildlife program over Richmond's WMBG (TVR) . . . More than 400 skeet shooters from all over the country are competing in the sixteenth annual Great Eastern Skeet Championships at Lordship, Conn. The three-day shoot runs through tomorrow . . . The lungfish is called one of the most remarkable creatures in the world. It lives to be more than 100 years; forms a cocoon and sleeps from one to five years; can exist without food by living on its own fat and body tissues; possesses lungs as well as gills; looks like an eel and lives much like any other fish except that it must rise to the surface to breathe . . . Unanswered is the question: But does it have any fun?

Miss Lenczyk Wins College Semifinal

Columbus, Ohio, June 17 (AP).—Grace Lenczyk of Newington, Conn., and Marilynn Smith of Wichita, Kans., won the right to fight it out for the 1948 National Women's Collegiate golf title today.

Miss Lenczyk, representing John B. Stetson University, Deland, Fla., moved into the finals of the fourth annual tournament with a 6 and 5 victory over Barbara Canine of Western Michigan College.

Miss Smith of the University of Kansas collected the same 6 and 5 margin over Alice O'Neal of Rollins College, former Indiana State women's champion.

Harrell Hurls 3-Hit Victory

Pitcher Ben Harrell threw a three-hitter at Eastman Kodak yesterday to notch his fourth straight triumph in the second half play of the Eastern Recreation League and give the District Fire Department a 14-0 verdict over Kodak.

It was also the fourth straight win for the Firemen and kept them atop the league. Bill Moore was the offensive big gun for the Firemen, driving in two runs with a pair of singles. The losers committed 11 errors.

Harrell Heads Post League Clincher

Cameo Furniture nine put on a power hitting exhibition yesterday in the decisive first-half game of The Washington Post-Industrial League, marking up 29 safeties as it won the midway championship in a 22-3 victory over Sunnybrook.

Catcher Eddie Lloyd led the onslaught with five hits in six times at bat, driving in five runs. Bernie Goode and Joe Valenti checked in with four hits apiece, Goode getting the oonly home run of the day with nobody on base in the third inning.

6 Americans Gain In London Tennis

London, June 17 (U.P.).—Gardnar Mulloy of Miami, Fla., and Bob Falkenburg of Hollywood, Calif., swept into the semifinals of the London grass courts tennis championships today while four United States women galned the round of four in their division.

Louise Brough of Beverly Hills, Calif.; Mrs. Margaret Osborne du Pont of Bellevue, Del.; Mrs. Patricia Canning Todd of La Jolla, Calif., and Doris Hart of Miami, America's four top-ranking feminine stars, were the qualifiers for the women's semifinal on the Queen's Club courts.

WOMAN PILOT—In fact, Maizie Rogers, 2915 Connecticut ave., shown above piloting A-6, is believed to be the only female Class A power boat pilot in the East. Here she leads Eddie Van Hooten, Kearny, N. J., to the turn buoy. Both will compete in Sunday's National Capital Power Boat Regatta on the Potomac between Memorial Bridge and 14th St. Bridge.

Carter Heads Midget Card

Duane Carter, the Indianapolis Speedway driver from Los Angeles, begins a busy weekend at the West Lanham Speedway tonight. He will compete in the seven-event card at Lanham which starts at 8:30 and will race at Langhorne, Pa., tomorrow and at Indianapolis Sunday.

Carter will drive a midget Offenhauser at Lanham tonight and at the Pennsylvania speedway Saturday. Sunday he will switch to the big cars for the 100-lap National Convention Sweepstakes at Indianapolis.

Tonight, Carter will be opposed by nine Offenhausers and 15 Ford V-8 entries. George Fonder, who won at both Lanham and the Philadelphia Yellow Jacket Speedway last weekend, will lead the opposition.

Fishermen Now Choosy; Virginia Bass Season Ready

By Jack Walsh
Post Reporter

NOW THAT THE salt-water fishing in this area is really booming—at long last—fisher men have an opportunity to be a little choosy with the bass season also at hand.

In Virginia, bass-taking time starts Sunday. West of the Blue Ridge Mountains it continues to December 31; east of them until March 15, 1949.

Nearly all of the public impounded waters of Virginia have been stocked liberally. More than 55,000 large and smallmouth bass were deposited last fall, more than half of them of catchable size.

The limit for 10-inch bass is 10 a day, 150 a season. Fifteen rock, or red-eye, bass may be taken daily but the same season limit prevails.

IN MARYLAND'S non-tidal waters in eight counties, the bass season opened the first of June. Tidal water season commences July 1. The counties where bass may be taken now are Kent, Queen Annes, Caroline, Talbot, Dorchester, Somerset, Wicomico and Worcester.

West Virginia's season opens Saturday at 12:01 a. m. (EST).

SALT-WATER ANGLERS, disappointed when they tried to rush the season in Chesapeake Bay and its environs, are singing a different tune now. They're happily taking advantage of what they're calling the best season in years.

All along the coast, the bluefish are more plentiful than they've been in 13 years. And, off Solomons, the best hardhead fishing in five years is being enjoyed.

MISCELLANY—Virginia's Game Commission is one of the first in the country to take advantage of the educational benefits of television. It's televising a wildlife program over Richmond's WMBG (TVR) . . . More than 400 skeet shooters from all over the country are competing in the sixteenth annual Great Eastern Skeet Championships at Lordship, Conn. The three-day shoot runs through tomorrow . . . The lungfish is called one of the most remarkable creatures in the world. It lives to be more than 100 years; forms a cocoon and sleeps from one to five years; can exist without food by living on its own fat and body tissues; possesses lungs as well as gills; looks like an eel and lives much like any other fish except that it must rise to the surface to breathe . . . Unanswered is the question: But does it have any fun?

TODAY'S TIP — The Cape Charles, Va., area is offering channel bass fishing.

Miss Lenczyk Wins College Semifinal

Columbus, Ohio, June 17 (AP).—Grace Lenczyk of Newington, Conn., and Marilynn Smith of Wichita, Kans., won the right to fight it out for the 1948 National Women's Collegiate golf title today.

Miss Lenczyk, representing John B. Stetson University, Deland, Fla., moved into the finals of the fourth annual tournament with a 6 and 5 victory over Barbara Canine of Western Michigan College.

Miss Smith of the University of Kansas collected the same 6 and 5 margin over Alice O'Neal of Rollins College, former Indiana State women's champion.

Harrell Hurls 3-Hit Victory

Pitcher Ben Harrell threw a three-hitter at Eastman Kodak yesterday to notch his fourth straight triumph in the second half play of the Eastern Recreation League and give the District Fire Department a 14-0 verdict over Kodak.

It was also the fourth straight win for the Firemen and kept them atop the league. Bill Moore was the offensive big gun for the Firemen, driving in two runs with a pair of singles. The losers committed 11 errors.

Bogley, Yates Dominate Tennis

Rye, N. Y., June 17 (AP).—Gil Bogley and Jack Yates carried the colors of Washington's Landon School in to the semifinals of the sixteenth annual private boarding school tennis today at Manursing Island Club.

Bogley defeated Edwin Phenix of Tabor Academy, 6-2, 6-1. Yates triumphed over Cecil North of Milton Academy, 6-2, 6-0.

The two Washington players teamed earlier to gain the doubles semifinals and send their team into a tie with Hill School for team honors. Each has 14 points.

Sentelle Wins 19th

First-place Sentelle took its nineteenth triumph in 22 games yesterday, defeating second-place Myron Cowell, 7-6, in a Park and Planning Commission softball league game at Meadowbrook.

Riggs Gains Semifinals

Forest Hills, N. Y., June 17 (AP). Bobby Riggs of Altadena, Calif., defending titlist in the twenty-first annual National Professional Tennis Championship, entered the semifinal round today after a hard fought victory over eighth-seeded Elwood Cooke, New York, 6—4, 4—6, 6—3, 6—0.

Riggs, top-seeded, had a tougher time in winning than he did last year when he scored over Cooke in a straight-sets quarterfinal contest. And, like last year, Riggs will face Frank Kovacs, fourth-seeded player from Oakland, Calif., in the round of four.

Second-seeded Jack Kramer of Los Angeles, a favorite to dethrone Riggs, was forced to play some of the best tennis of his career to defeat Welby Van Horn, fifth-seeded entry from Germantown, Pa., in 73 games, 3—6, 16—14, 4—6, 8—6, 6—4.

Kramer will meet Don Bridge in Saturday's semifinals. Bridge eliminated Dinny Pails of Australia, 4—6, 6—2, 6—3, 6—2.

Black Yanks Lose To Grays, 6 to 2

The Homestead Grays increased their first-place lead to a game and a half, defeating the New York Black Yankees, 6-2, in a Negro National League game last night at Griffith Stadium.

Drive out today and compare the features in this new rambler against those homes you've seen, but found lacking in some feature you desire. This one has a spacious entrance hall, living room that will accommodate a grand piano and a Thermopane picture window and log-burning fireplace; a family-size dining room, a model kitchen that practically prepares the meals itself, a tile bath, 2 corner bedrooms (both twin-bed size). This home was designed to add a future bedroom and bath should it ever be required. Other features are a level lot 160x227 ft., attached garage; basement with outside entrance; fireplace for recreation room, Sunbeam oil heat, copper plumbing and gutters. Situated on a knoll favored by every breeze; on a direct route to city and Pentagon, and very near to new Shirley hwy. Priced right at $18,950; substantial cash required.

WASHINGTON: FRIDAY, JUNE 18, 1948

Mary Haworth's Mail

Wed to Fine Man Who Is Everybody's Friend, Wife Asks How to Overcome Her Mental Bias Toward Criticism; It Runs in Her Family

DEAR MARY HAWORTH: I am 35, married to a wonderful man and we are very happy together. He is a very friendly person; as the saying goes, "He knows no stranger." I want to help and not hinder him, but here is my story:

As far back as I can remember, my family always found fault with everything; and my parents habitually complained about the "cost" of every necessary purchase.

We had no friends to speak of. If mother would mention having someone visit us, father would say, "What! Those high-and-mighty people who think they know everything! They brag about this and that until it makes you sick," etc. If we had unexpected guests, criticism broke out the minute the door closed behind them.

Father Was Unstable

Defensive Character

FATHER was forever quitting jobs. If he stayed one place a year, that was a long time for him. He was plant foreman several times and superintendent at two other places; but he always quit because "they" didn't like him.

There were four of us children: two girls and two boys. My sister died in childbirth a few years ago; my second brother was lost at sea during the war, and my elder brother is married to a lovely girl, an interior decorator.

They bought a home which she furnished beautifully, making most of the things herself, but our parents found fault with this-and-that, until finally brother had his company transfer him to another part of the country, where he and Bess are very happy, I understand.

Wife Thinks Many People Insincere

I CAN'T decide whether our parents were jealous of their happiness, or whether fault-finding is their special pleasure. In any event, my husband never criticizes anyone, and I have learned to hold my tongue, but mentally I am always criticizing our associates.

If we go to a party, he makes the most of it, regardless of the company, but often I can't sleep afterwards, wondering . . . did they like us as much as they seemed to . . . were they just playing up to us, hoping Gil would favor them in business . . . etc.

Some people don't seem sincere to me; but is this distorted think-

Mrs. Ellender's Favorite Recipes

Louisiana's Famed Food Has Creole Savor

This is the second of a series of articles on regional cookery in the United States, with favorite recipes and menus by wives of our Nation's legislators.

By Lucia Brown

THOUGH red-haired Mrs. Allen J. Ellender is of Irish-English descent, her cooking has French and Spanish ancestry. It's Louisiana Creole—and delicious.

The wife of the senior Senator from Louisiana was born in New Orleans, famed for its suave and savory cuisine, and has spent most of her married life in Houma, a town of five bayous and a large French population. Creole cookery, seafood, and wild game abound in the area, and Mrs. Ellender is enthusiastic about them all.

Houma—the name means "Rising Sun" in Indian dialect—is located 50 miles south of New Orleans. It is the capital of Terrebonne Parish, which borders on the Gulf of Mexico. Sugar cane is raised on much of the "good land" of this parish, including Aragon, the plantation on which Senator Ellender was reared. He and Mrs. Ellender make their home in Houma now, when not in Washington. Their son, Dr. Allen J. Ellender, jr., is engaged in the practice of medicine there.

"Autumn is the best time for food—as well as the most beautiful time—in that part of the world, I think," says Mrs. Ellender. "Wild ducks abound in streams and fields. The oysters are rich and fat and pecans are falling from the trees. Pumpkins lie on the ground in yellow mounds, and the sugar cane is being harvested."

Wild rice, as well as wild duck, is a favorite item on the menu there, according to Mrs. Ellender. Rice grows farther north, around Crowley, La., and is one of the State's most important crops. In Houma, it's served at least once a day in practically every home.

Shrimp is a vital factor in the business life of Houma, as well as on its dinner tables. The world's largest shrimp cannery is located there, says Mrs. Ellender, and shrimp boats constantly ply up the bayous from the Gulf to get ice and bring the shrimp.

Louisiana Menu

ASKED to suggest a dinner menu featuring Louisiana dishes, Mrs. Ellender selected wild duck with rice as the piece de resistance. She suggested that it be preceded by Oysters a la Rockefeller, a famous New Orleans dish known by old-time Creole bon vivants as Huitres a la Montpelier. Her recipe for it follows:

OYSTERS A LA ROCKEFELLER

1 pound spinach, cooked
4 slices bacon
Several sprigs parsley
1 shallot or tender green onion top
2 tablespoons lemon juice
2 tablespoons cracker crumbs
4 tablespoons butter, melted
Few celery leaves
Salt and cayene pepper
Pie plates filled with coarse freezing salt

After pie plates are filled with salt, arrange six to eight oysters in half shells on this salt bed. One plate of them is served to each guest. The pan of oysters is placed under broiler until oysters begin to curl, then sauce made of the spinach and other ingredients is poured over then in their shells and they are returned to the oven to brown slightly. Serve them immediately after they come from the oven.

To make the sauce, run through a meat grinder the bacon, cooked spinach, parsley, celery, and onion tops. Add lemon juice, melted butter, cracker crumbs, and seasonings. Pour one tablespoon of this sauce over each oyster.

* * *

AS main dishes for luncheons, Mrs. Ellender suggests Filet de Truite Marguery, and gumbo with rice. The Truite Marguery is a favorite dish in certain restaurants in the "Vieux Carre," the French section of old New Orleans. Mrs. Ellender describes its making as follows:

FILET DE TRUITE MARGUERY

3 or 4 pound filet of trout
1 pound shrimp
2 hard-boiled eggs
1 dozen oysters
1 onion
2 tablespoons butter
1 tablespoon flour
1 cup cream or rich milk
1 bay leaf
Chopped parsley
Mushrooms (as desired)
Salt and pepper

Boil the trout, allow to cool, then skin and break into bits. Boil and shell the shrimp. Chop up the hard-boiled eggs. Combine these ingredients with the raw oysters and arrange in a baking dish.

Make a sauce by frying the chopped onion in butter and adding the flour. Add the milk, mushrooms, parsley, bay leaf, salt and pepper. Pour this mixture into the baking dish with the fish, shrimp, and oysters. Grate American cheese over top and bake in moderate oven for an hour. Serve from baking dish at table. This recipe makes 6 generous servings.

CHICKEN GUMBO WITH RICE

1 slice ham, diced
2 tablespoons butter
1 onion, minced
1 green pepper, chopped
1 sprig thyme, minced
1 sprig parsley, minced
6 fresh, or 1½ cans, tomatoes
½ pound okra, sliced
3 quarts boiling water
1 bay leaf
Salt and pepper to taste

Disjoint chicken into serving portions, salt and pepper it, and fry in butter with diced ham in covered kettle. Simmer for about 10 minutes. Remove from pot and fry sliced okra in same grease over slow fire for 15 minutes. Add onion and other seasonings, browning slightly. Next add tomatoes and chicken, simmering, and lastly the boiling water, cooking over slow fire for about 2 hours. Serve in tureen, accompanied by boiled rice, or serve in soup bowls with a mound of rice. This recipe will serve 6 persons.

By Henry Rohland—The Washington Post.

GUMBO in the making: Mrs. Ellender prepares the vegetables and meat for Crab-Shrimp Gumbo. She uses the same recipe given on this page for Chicken Gumbo, but substitutes 4 crabs and 1 pound of shrimp for the chicken.

Ask Anne: About Gloves For Wedding

I am to be married in June and would like to know the procedure for wearing elbow-length gloves during the ceremony. Should I leave the short hand part of the glove off completely, or should it be worn until the ring is placed on my hand? In other words, is it proper to wear just the long, arm part of the glove? T. U.

You could leave the hand part of the left glove off. However, some brides prefer to open the seam of the third finger of the left-hand glove so that only the finger is free. The finger portion of the glove can be inconspicuously tucked under. I think you would find it difficult and confusing to remove any portion of the glove during the ceremony.

In the process of spring house cleaning, I shellacked all my floors, using 1 quart old (6 months) shellac and 1 of new. The floors that were shellacked with the old still remain very sticky, but walkable. How can the sticky floors be treated? J. E. P.

Shellac which is 6 months old or older is very likely to have deteriorated, especially if it is in a tin container. One sign of this deterioration is its failure to harden. The only sure way to eliminate the trouble is to remove the sticky shellac. One way this can be done is by soaking with alcohol and wiping up with a coarse cloth. When the floor is clean and dry, apply shellac which you know to be fresh.

In redecorating our living room, we find our red leatherette ottoman would fit in much better if it were yellow or some shade of blue. Is there a paint which will cover leatherette, and can you suggest where I might find it? J. M.

There is a plastic coating on the market which is designed for this very purpose. It comes in 22 different colors so you should find one which would suit your color scheme. To contact the store which sells it, call DIstrict 1130.

I have a child's rocker which I want to reupholster but the chair has become mildewed. Can I cover the mildew after cleaning the material or is there some special solution I should use to make sure all the fungus is destroyed? M. K.

If the old upholstery is thoroughly cleaned and dried, the mildew fungus will probably be completely killed. However, as an added precaution, you could treat the upholstery with a mildew-proofing liquid. This product is available in the housewares sections of most department stores. It removes the musty odors of mildew as well as prevents further growth.

Is there anything that can be put in paints that are to be used for interior decorating so that they won't affect anyone allergic to paint? E. M. R.

There seems to be no product on the market such as you mention. However, since the majority of those allergic to indoor paint seems to be sensitive to the solvent or thinner in the paint, one solution would be to use one of the water mixed paints which contains none of this type of solvent. If this doesn't solve your problem, it would be necessary for your doctor to determine what factor in the paint is causing your trouble and then choose a paint which does not contain that material.

I have a small room with one window and two doors which is now painted a light blue (walls and woodwork). In order to make the room appear large, should I paint the woodwork a different color or leave the room as it is? E. W.

Since a light plain color on the walls makes a room seem larger, I would say that the present color of your walls gives the room as spacious an appearance as any color. Having the woodwork the same color as the walls also adds to the feeling of size. Other things you could do to give the room a larger appearance would be to use wall-to-wall carpeting, draperies the same color as the walls and many mirrors, keep the furnishings simple, without many figures in the upholstery or slip covers, and eliminate the appearance of clutter by removing all small nicknacks on table tops, etc.

Bawl Street Journal Quips On Truman's 'Old Ties', Prexy Eisenhower's 'No'

By Mary Van Rensselaer Thayer

ONCE annually the boys who rule the marts of high finance go limp with humor, kid the banking broking business in a hilariously bawdy parody of the staid Wall Street Journal. The Bawl Street Journal, published by the Bond Club of New York, runs eight pages, costs a whole dollar, features esquirish cartoons, news items tailored to its financewise subscribers. Advertising space can't be bought. Top headline of this just off-the-press edition banners "Truman Returns t Old Ties."

The Bawl Street's Washington haywire features a special Friday report from their Capital Bureau, reporting that "No, No, A Thousand Times No" may be the new college song of Columbia University. Plans to ditch the traditional tune for this more sprightly number were let slip by prexy Eisenhower during a visit to Washington. Covering up, Eisenhower hastened to assure reporters that the decision is not final. Some members of the university's board are holding out for "Your Lips Tell Me No No but There's Yes Yes in Your Eyes."

Minor memos are nice too. They start off—"Father Divine (Peace It's Wonderful)" is Wallace's choice for next Secretary of State."

"Republicans will make high prices a campaign issue, they will remind voters how far a dollar went in Hoover's time."

"Building inspectors rate the White House as a fire hazard. Truman asks 'what am I doing in this fire trap.'"

"Reece resolves Republican presidential deadlock. GOP National Chairman promotes a pat solution to the Taft-Stassen-Dewey impasse. Instead of a nasty fight at Philadelphia, says Reece, why not let the voters decide. Under his plan, Republicans will have three candidates in next November's race. High man will get to be President. Runner-up gets the Vice Presidency. Low man can be Vice President in 1952. All that will be necessary is for each member of the GOP Taft-Stassen-Dewey triumvirate to run ahead of Mr. Truman. 'This should offer no problem,' claims Mr. Reece, "inasmuch as none of the Republican candidates is a Chinaman.'"

Favors the G. O. P.

IT'S EASY for even this politically dumb department to see that the Bawl Street Journal favors the Republican Party. From the Bawl Street Journal Washington Bureau comes a brief item, "President Truman disclosed today that he was eyeing Alabama's Governor James (kissing boy) Folsom as a successor to Postmaster Jesse M. Donaldson." "It is common knowledge," Mr. Truman commented, "that no other man in public life knows more about Postoffice than Folsom."

An intriguingly titled bit starts off—"Double Buck is Back," then datelined Washington, continues—"Secretary of the Treasury Snyder announced today that the United States will soon resume printing $2 dollar bills for the first time since the depression. It's the only way a consumer can buy a dollar's worth of food," he explained.

Most entertaining of all are the phony headlines, the ads inserted by Wall Street's most distinguished firms. Morgan Stanley leads off "We plan no change in policy. As in the past it is anticipated that our partners will be in 'meeting' or 'at luncheon' from 9 to 5 daily."

The Manufacturers Trust Company urges readers to open a checking account—and you can check your suitcase, briefcase or overnight bag at any of our offices.

Miss Hoover Makes Bow; Boyds Fete Miss Stanley

WEARING a white lace and marquisette frock and holding a shower bouquet of white larkspur, white orchids and blue delphinium, Miss Louise Hoover made her bow to society yesterday afternoon at a tea given by her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Reeve Hoover at their home in Georgetown.

The debutante and her mother received guests in the drawing room and the tea table was set up in the garden with almost a dozen friends of the hostess asked to take their turn at the tea and coffee services. Mrs. Hoover's gown was of light blue lace and she wore a cluster of white orchids at the shoulder.

Assisting Mrs. Hoover at the tea table were Mrs. J. Blaise de Sibour, Mrs. G. Howland Chase, Mrs. Harry Eaton, Mrs. Adolphus Staton, Mrs. David S. Barry, Miss Elizabeth Houghton, Mrs. Claude Mickelwait, Mrs. Edward R. Finkenstaedt, Mrs. Sidney Thomas and Mrs. Winslow Van Devanter.

Miss Hoover has as her guests for her party, Miss Jane Lancaster of Woodstock, Vt., Miss Frances Davis of New York; Miss Peggy Lumpkin, of Matoon, Ill.; Miss Courtland Marcy of Rye, N. Y.; Miss Julia Morrill of Great Barrington, Mass., all schoolmates at Westover in Connecticut from which the debutante was graduated earlier this month.

Also here for the occasion are Mrs. Hoover's mother, Mrs. William J. Tully, and her sister, Miss Alice Tully of New York. Following the debut tea Mr. and Mrs. Hoover entertained at dinner for 80 young people at the Chevy Chase Club for their daughter.

IN THE garden of their house on River rd., Bethesda, Dr. and Mrs. Walter Willard Boyd entertained yesterday for Miss Katharine Willard Stanley. Miss Stanley is the only niece of Dr. Boyd, and her marriage to Frederick Menx of Blue Ridge Summit, Pa., will take place tomorrow. She is the granddaughter of the late Mrs. John C. Boyd who was Miss Kate Willard.

In the gathering of over 500 guests yesterday were many old Washington names. The bride-elect received with the host and hostess and her mother, Mrs. A. Camp Stanley.

Among those who attended were the Bishop of Washington and Mrs. Angus Dun, Dr. and Mrs. Montgomery Blair, Mrs. Henry Willard, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Carroll Glover, 3rd, Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Harsch, Mr. and Mrs. Samuel H. Kauffmann, 2d, Mr. and Mrs. Rudolph Max Kauffmann, Mr. and Mrs. Herbert Elliston, and Mr. and Mrs. G. Howland Chase.

Also, Mr. and Mrs. Harold Jefferson Coolidge, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Thomas Clagett, jr., Mr. and Mrs. Travis Brown, Mr. and Mrs. David Gaillard, Dr. and Mrs. Gilbert Grosvenor, Mr. and Mrs. Aladar Szegedy-Maszak, Mr. and Mrs. Crauncey G. Parker, jr., the Secretary of the Navy and Mrs. John L. Sullivan and Mrs. Frederick Denys, mother of the prospective bridegroom.

Those who assisted at the garden fete were Mrs. Worth Daniels, Mrs. Charles Carroll Morgan, Miss Carolyn Nash, Miss Blossom Reed, Mrs. Lemuel Shepherd, Miss Lena Hitchcock, Mrs. Woodson Houghton, Mrs. Edward Russell and Mrs. George Roper.

Mrs. Marshall Gives Tea For Envoys

Mrs. George Marshall, wife of the Secretary of State, entertained at tea yesterday at Blair House for those Chiefs of Mission and their wives whom she has not met since their arrival in town or because of absence from town. The tea was postponed from last week owing to the death of the Secretary of Labor, Lewis Schwelelnbach.

Added to the group invited for last week were the retiring Mexican Ambassador and Senora de Espinosa de los Monteros, who will return soon to Mexico; the Portuguese Ambassador, Pedro Theotonio Pereira; the appointed Czechoslovakian Ambassador, Vladimir Outrata, and the appointed Panama Ambassador, Octavio Vallarino.

Susan Miller Christened

The small daughter of Lieut. Col. and Mrs. Henry L. Miller was christened Susan Winroth Miller on June 13 in Westminster Presbyterian Church, Alexandria. The Rev. Cliff R. Johnson officiated. Water from the River Jordan, which Col. Miller procured while in Palestine, was used in the ceremony. The baptismal gown was once worn by the baby's paternal great-grandfather.

Phi Chi Theta Opens Convention With Welcome Luncheon

The welcome luncheon of Phi Chi Theta, National Women's Commerce Fraternity, held at the Congressional Room of the Willard Hotel yesterday, formally opened the twelfth biennial convention of the fraternity.

Dr. Barnard Joy, assistant to the administrator of the Research and Marketing Act, in the Department of Agriculture, was the guest speaker. In explaining the Agriculture Research and Marketing Act of 1946, Dr. Joy said "If Congress appropriates the funds, there will be increasing opportunities for a considerable number of people in the next four or five years. The largest area of opportunity will be in the marketing research field. Some opportunities, he added, will be available to young women, particularly to the ones trained in economic statistics, marketing and to women familiar with agricultural problems.

Phi Chi Theta members today will visit the French and Greek Embassies to receive the thanks of the embassy staffs of those countries for the fraternity's gift packages to their needy abroad.

Miss Elenita Dyer, Col. Batte Wed

IN an all-white wedding at the Naval Chapel, Miss Elenita Dyer, daughter of Capt. Robert Allan Dyer, USN, and Mrs. Dyer, yesterday became the bride of Col. James Batte, USA. The bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. George Albert Batte of Concord, N. C. The ceremony at 7 p. m. was performed by Gen. Luther D. Miller, chief of Army chaplains, and a large reception followed at the Sulgrave Club.

Captain Dyer gave his daughter in marriage. For her wedding she wore a gown of ivory silk satin made with a train. The fitted bodice with square-cut neckline was fashioned of lace with short sleeves. Over her dark hair the bride wore an heirloom rose point veil which had belonged to her great grandmother, arranged in mantilla effect. She carried a sheaf of Easter lilies.

Miss Dorothy Dyer, her sister's maid of honor, wore a white marquisette gown with a bertha of eyelet embroidery and a bouffant skirt tied with a wide taffeta sash. A shoulder length net veil was held by a coronet of white lilacs. The other attendants wearing costumes like that of the maid of honor were Miss Drucie Snyder, daughter of the Secretary of the Treasury and Mrs. John W. Snyder; Miss Jane Lingo, Miss Ines Eastwood of Oakland, Calif., cousin of the bride, Mrs. Peter Dillingham of Honolulu, Mrs. Peter Challis-King and Mrs. McNeale Moffett.

Satterthwaite—Veit

Miss Nancey Helen Veit became the bride of William Bryan Satterthwaite, jr., last evening at the Transfiguration Episcopal Church. The daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Paul H. Veit of Silver Spring, Md., she was given in marriage by her father. Her husband is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Bryan Satterthwaite of Washington. The Rev. John J. Queally officiated.

The bride was gowned in white sitin trimmed in princess lace that has been worn by several generations of brides of her family. Her veil was also of the lace and she carried a white orchid on her prayer book.

Mrs. James E. Watkins was matron of honor, wearing white dotted swiss with a lavender satin sash. Similarly dressed was Miss Barbara Ann Satterthwaite, maid of honor. The bridesmaids, Misses Frances M. Brook, Patricia A. McInturff, Jean M. Pumphrey and M. Arlene Duffy, wore dotted swiss frocks with purple sashes. All carried nosegays of lavender and white flowers.

James K. Atherton was best man and the ushers were William R. Duffy, Vincent E. Corvelli, Vincent Pugliese, Oliver N. Garrison and Nick Corvelli.

Brennan—Fagan

St. Matthew's Cathedral was the scene of the weddin, of Miss Dorothy Fagan, daughter of Philip J. Fagan, and Dr. John Francis Brennan, jr., son of Dr. and Mrs. John Francis Brennan, yesterday morning.

The bride, escorted by her father, was gowned in white organdy. Her veil of French illusion was held by orange blossoms and she carried lilies of the valley and stephanotis. Miss Margaret Fagan was her sister's only attendant and Dr. Joseph A. Dugan was best man. Thomas M. and Paul V. Brennan, brothers of the bridegroom, served as ushers.

The Rev. Walter J. Hayes officiated at the nuptial mass and read the papal blessing which was received by the bridal couple.

McGaha—Liskey

Miss Clara Marie Liskey, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. Floyd Liskey of Burtonsville, Md., and Thomas E. McGaha, son of Thomas E. McGaha, repeated marriage vows June 12 at Our Lady of Sorrows Church, the Rev. James F. King officiating.

The bride wore white satin with a fingertip veil held by a tiara of seed pearls. She carried a white lace fan decorated with white orchids and showered with lilies of the valley.

Underwood & Underwood
MRS. W. B. SATTERTHWAITE, JR.
. . . former Miss Veit

Mrs. Jack Weller, sister of the bridegroom, was matron of honor and Miss Loretta Carroll and Mrs. Stanley O'Neale were bridesmaids. The bride's sisters, Misses Lucille and Rachel Liskey, were junior bridesmaids. J. Floyd Liskey, jr., the bride's brother, was ring bearer. Eugene Liskey, another brother, served as best man and the ushers were Jack Weller, Charles Burton, Joseph N. Peter, jr., and Stanley O'Neale.

After a reception at the bride's home, the couple left for a Northern trip. They will reside at Takoma Park, Md.

Ball—Gould

Miss Kathryn MacLeod Gould and Andrew Thomas Ball were married June 12 in the First Parish Congregational Church of Freeport, Me., the Rev. Leslie R. Craig officiating, assisted by the Rev. Charles W. Crooker. The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Franklin F. Gould of Freeport and her husband is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph J. Ball of Stamford, Conn.

The bride wore a gown of white pique with fingertip veil and carried a bouquet of white summer flowers. Mrs. Alden H. Grant was her sister's matron of honor and Mrs. Elizabeth Crooker and Mrs. Elizabeth Provencher were bridesmaids.

Frank Merschrod was the best man and Franklin F. Gould, jr., and John Gould were ushers.

Ames—Silsbee

Miss Frances Gillis Silsbee, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Francis Briggs Silsbee, and Herbert Tate Ames, son of Mr. and Mrs. Herbert Otis Ames, were married June 16 at the home of the bride's parents, the Rev. William Creighton of St. John's Episcopal Church of Bethesda officiating.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, wore a gown of white marquisette and a Brussels lace cap and carried a bouquet of roses.

Harris & Ewing
MRS. HERBERT TATE AMES
. . . married at home

Miss Marion Berresse of White Plains was maid of honor. Robert Quimby was best man.

The couple will reside in Providence, R. I., where the bridegroom is a student of Brown University. The bride attended Skidmore College and Pembroke College in Brown University.

Brown—Berry

Miss Joan Catherine Berry, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Berry of Washington was married June 9 to James Alan Brown, son of Mr. and Mrs. James A. Brown of Washington. The ceremony took place in St. Gabriel's Catholic Church at 10 a. m., the Rev. John B. Roecer officiating.

Givxen in marriage by her father, the bride wore a white gabardine suit with hat to match, and she carried a prayer book with cascade bouquet of orchids.

Miss Anna May Moss was maid of honor, Paul M. Hunt, jr., served as best man, and the ushers were Donald Riley and Allen Garland.

ing on my part? I don't want to continue in the family rut, so please advise me how to help myself. E. F.

Sweetness Stems From Self Esteem

DEAR E. F.: Sunny attributes, or their reverse, run in families not due to heredity but as a result of emotional attitudes ingrained in the early formative years of life.

Genuine affability derives from ineradicably rooted self esteem. Happy people think well of themselves, and inasmuch as beauty lies in the eyes of the beholder, they see others in their own image and likeness. This is the Rx of their happiness, good will and the worldly success which usually attends their buoyant gracious state of mind.

Your father took for granted that "they" (meaning others) didn't like him because he'd been conditioned to look askance at himself, to feel apologetic for his very existence, I suppose, even as you were conditioned in turn—hearing your parents rasp in rejecting tones about the burdens of child rearing, and hearing also his bitter self deprecating harangues which seemed to apply to the whole household.

Critics Speak Of Themselves

PERSONS thus unconsciously poisoned with self contempt are most critical, most demanding of impossible perfection, in relation to their own—those with whom they identify themselves.

Feeling defeatist about himself, such a person would have his next of kin, individually and collectively, afford overwhelming proof of all-around excellence, to envelop his cowering spirit with some protective social prestige; and yet if they rise and shine, to cast reflected glory on him, he is bitten by envy, too, and looking at them through jaundiced eyes, he "reads" into their nature all the ignoble qualities he imputes to himself. And so it goes.

However, I'm confident that you're not as bad as all that. Your fortunate marriage, also your brother's good choice of helpmeet, suggests that a sturdy strain of mental health runs in the breed, which your father's neurosis didn't cross up. And perhaps the best way to get back to yourself, to the wellspring of sweetness at the core of your nature, is to study and apply the principles told in Dr. Harry Emerson Fosdick's book, "On Being a Real Person" (Harper & Brothers). M. H.

Action Committee Urges International Platform Plank

The Women's Action Committee for Lasting Peace has Recommended platform planks to both the Republican and Democratic parties. Nominating conventions will be urged to include in their platform an international plank "expressing determination to prevent another war, to assist democratic nations, and to act fairly but firmly toward Russia," according to an announcement issued yesterday by Mrs. Dana Converse Backus, the committee's interim chairman.

As pertaining to Russia, the suggested plank proposes that "while uniting with other member states of the United Nations to pursue a firm policy toward Russian aggression—either direct or indirect—this country should make every effort to reduce the tensions between the East and West. Also, that all channels be left open to the possibility of genuine, mutual East-West cooperation on specific measures."

Another portion of the plank reads, "The United States must make clear its determination to prevent another world conflict, and to this end the people must be prepared to make the necessary sacrifices for the attainment of lasting peace. This country must give courage and strength to free peoples through cooperative economic aid, military preparedness and moral conviction."

The WACLP assumes the basic position that the "United Nations should be the foundation of United States foreign policy, and the effective functioning of the United Nations should be a major concern of the people of the United States. And that the United Nations can be best strengthened at this time through affirmative interpretation of the present Charter."

On the Town

ACCORDING to the calendar, it's getting very close to the first day of summer, despite the fact that Mother Nature and the weatherman can't seem to agree on the subject for more than a few hours at a time. The Annapolis Hotel, a great believer in the calendar, is about to start a new summer policy. As of now there will be no cover, no minimum, and no, something that seems to worry people more than cover or minimum, tax. The Anchor room is putting Henrietta Carrick at the Hammond organ. Henrietta is as talented on boogie as she is on the classics. Recently she's played in the Sheraton Hotel in New York and in Frank Daly's Meadowbrook in New Jersey.

Event of the week in the hearts and flowers line was the wedding of Marion Kavakos, whose brother runs Club Kavakos, to John Karis who also is in the night club business in Philadelphia.

Erwin Straus, who has been keeping the customers hollering for request numbers in the Neptune room these past months, is in his last two weeks. The Bill Thompson trio will also be moving along to new fields.

After much discussion, we finally got the straight dope on the Chesapeake Beach park dances with big name bands. Originally it was supposed to be an every Saturday night affair, but they were unable to get a suitable band for this Saturday night. We said Krupa would appear there this weekend, but Gene and the boys will be there the 26th of this month, and according to Kay Ford, who is booking for the spot, bands are booked for every Saturday through the end of next month. Johnny Long will be appearing there soon.

SPEAKING of bands, big and small, the Bali will have Louis "Satchmo" Armstrong for a week beginning tonight. This particular swing outfit has more famous names in it than any other in the country. It includes Jack Teagarden on the trombone, Sidney Catlett, drums, Barney Bigard, clarinet, Earl "Fatha" Hines, piano, Averill Shaw, bass, and Velma Middleton doing vocals.

Looks like we're not the only one reading this column, because after we said that Paul Kain had turned the baton over to a young man who was going to have a serious operation the next day—the young guy had always wanted to lead a band—the fan mail started pouring in to Paul. Not long after, he showed up for work late to find one of the members of the band doing a burlesque on his leading and getting quite a hand from the audience. The bandsmen seemed to be enjoying themselves because they were plugging along three blocks from the tune. Next thing you know they'll have a floor show out there.

Miami Beach may do a bit of idea stealing to help fill its coffers. Governor Caldwell of Florida recently visited the Sheraton lounge and liked the flimsy skirt idea so well that he said he'd mentioned it to a few of the bistro owners down there.

After much waiting the Colony restaurant has decided not to make a liar out of us. We mentioned the fact that they would be opening very soon, a couple of months ago. Time passed and they weren't open, but it now appears they'll be opening in a couple of weeks.

Lafayette Park Tour Set Sunday

A historical tour of Lafayette Park is included on the program of events offered this weekend by National Capital Parks.

The walk will begin at 2:30 p. m. Sunday at the Jackson statue in the park's center. Stanley W. McClure will tell the history of Blair House, Decatur House, Dolly Madison House and other interesting sites.

Other weekend events include:

An all-day caravan to Patuxent Bottomlands, Md., with chartered buses leaving 1416 F st. nw. at 9 a. m. Sunday. Autos can join the buses at 10 a. m. at the Patuxent Research Administration Building near Bowie, Md. The tour will include a hike.

A walk through Rock Creek Park extended from 3 to 5 p. m. Sunday. The group will meet at the East-West highway and Beach dr., in Maryland.

A stroll through Glen Carlyn Park, along Four Mile Run in Arlington from 3 to 5 p. m. Saturday. The group will meet at Columbia pike and Buchanan st., Arlington.

Carl Eklund, a biologist of the Fish and Wildlife Service, will describe "Antarctic Wild Life" at the Rock Creek Park campfire program, which begins at 8:30 p. m. Saturday, in the park adjacent to 16th st. and Colorado ave. nw.

Canal barge trips will leave the dock at Canal rd., Foxhall rd. and M st. nw., at 2 p. m., and from Lock 5, Brookmont, at 4:30 p. m., both Saturday and Sunday.

One on the Aisle—

Walter Huston Acts a Swell Dad

By Richard L. Coe

TWO OLDSTERS bring their mature skills to make the Capitol's screen-stage bill something to see.

On the screen Walter Huston is completely beguiling in the role George M. Cohan created for Eugene O'Neill's "Ah, Wilderness!" In its new guise the play is a Metro musical titled "Summer Holiday," with Mickey Rooney as the perpetual high school senior.

On the stage Pat Rooney, sr.—no relation to Mickey—is an audience wow with his dances from 57 years in show business. Though the old guy can still dance, it's not just his dancing that stops the show; it's that wonderful thing called personality. Not in a long time has the Capitol's first show brought such an ovation as Pat got yesterday afternoon.

"Summer Holiday" attempts to be something different in screen musicals and while it doesn't completely come off, it's got some neat sequences and is interesting for what it's trying to do.

The flavor Director Rouben Mamoulian evidently was trying to catch for his musical of Connecticut small-town life 40-odd years ago is that which he captured so brilliantly on the stage in "Oklahoma!" and "Carousel." The songs are part of the plot and Charles Walters' dances stem from the folkways Agnes DeMille employed in those stage miracles. Every so often the Technicolor cameras catch young folks dancing on the lawn—long shots of real charm and beauty. And in the scene devoted to Richard Miller's visit to the Danville dance hall, where he meets the lascivious Belle, the idea of song and dance to embody a mood is nicely achieved. Mickey Rooney—who played the same part in the straight film version all of 13 years ago—and Marilyn Maxwell do this melange perfectly.

But at catching the quiet, nostalgic subtitles of the O'Neill original, "Summer Holiday" completely misses the mark. Its bursts of patiotism thump rather than pulse, its tone is socko rather than gentle and its approach is overblown rather than underplayed.

Hitting the O'Neill mood squarely on the head is Huston. As the father of an "average" family, a newspaper editor and a bemused man, the veteran actor is richly resourceful. He calls on his publicly forgotten skills as a singer by starting the picture off with a plot song about "Our Town." And his version of the celebrated scene, in which the father attempts to explain the facts of life to his son, is a masterpiece of humorous sentiment.

Because Mickey Rooney has played the same role under so many guises, one gets the feeling that here we are again back at dear old Carvel High. No one's better than Mickey at this sort of thing, but Mickey's familiarity gives the part an unfortunate staleness; it's not his fault, for he's a good entertainer; it's just life. And he is finely funny in his graduation speech—a scene that Mamoulian has framed with satiric nostalgia.

The rest of the cast is expert—Frank Morgan, Selena Royle, Agnes Moorehead and Gloria De Haven, but of them all you'll go for Butch Jenkins. This clip-toothed nuisance is wonderfully amusing and a cynical observer can't help wondering how much longer Butch can manage to be pert without becoming offensive.

The songs might have been better, though you can't complain about Ralph Blane's and Harry Warren's "The Stanley Steamer."

For his next-to-closing spot on the Capitol stage, Pat Rooney, sr., makes his entrance from stage right, virtually a novelty for Capitol performers. With a suit to match his thriving thatch of white hair, Rooney goes into "Sweet Rosie O'Grady," "Alexander's Ragtime Band" and "Tea for Two." You know that he was a really swell dancer years ago and it's rather amusing that to an audience most of which could hardly have seen Joe Frisco, Rooney's imitation goes over big.

Another fine old act is on stage—Willie, West and McGinty, whose house-building blunders are eternally funny. The Fontaines open the bill with balancing tricks in soignee attire and Dorthy Blaine gives some modern twists to some popular ballads. Gene Archer and Milt Slosser are on tap in their accustomed places.

"SUMMER HOLIDAY." M-G-M release produced by Arthur Freed. Screen play by Frances Goodrich and Albert Hackett, adapted by Irving Brecher and Jean Holloway from the play, "Ah, Wilderness!" by Eugene O'Neill. Photography by Charles Schoenbaum. Music by Harry Warren. Lyrics by Ralph Blane. Technicolor by Natalie Kalmus and Henri Jaffa. Directed by Rouben Mamoulain. At the Capitol.

ONE OF THE stickiest dilemmas the occasional movie reviewer finds himself in is that engendered by the so-so, or harmless, type picture. What, exactly, do you say about it?

If your movie is a real four-master, or at any rate one which pleases you, you can trot directly to the thesaurus, throw away any thought of restraint, and give it the full treatment. And if it's a pure-blood stinker you can fish your No. 1 snear out of the drawer, settle down and really enjoy yourself.

But the so-so number. That's a rough one.

"Why, ah—not bad."

Not bad? Whataya mean not bad?"

The trouble is, not bad's what you mean. You couldn't, in any conscience, advise people to stay away. You certainly, on the other hand, are not going to go about buttonholing friends and casual visitors, urging that they go to see it.

All this, of course, is well known to the trade and I wouldn't assume to be pictured as a great illuminator.

But take "The Big Punch," for instance, which is now at the Metropolitan. Here's a story that has one or two soft spots in it, but not enough to concern one. It's three principal performers, and one or two of the others, seem to have thought about their parts some before they started to talk in front of the cameras, the dialogue is for the most part reasonable, and the pace is generally quick. The incidental music is, to be sure, inappropriate and unpleasant, but I've decided people don't care about such things anyway.

The story is about a fighter of the "tanker" type—he throws fights to facilitate betting coups—who wins a fight and thus double-crosses his manager, a low bounder and crook. The latter, incensed at this treatment, kills a cop and pins the rap on the boxer, who leaves town and winds up at a little village in Pennsylvania. There he connects with Fayne Morris, a minister and former football star who heads the fighter up the True Path. But the boxer's catches, as they say, up with him and Parson Morris is compelled to step down from his pulpit, if I may borrow a phrase from the official resume in front of me, to clear things up.

Gordon MacRae, a new boy, plays the fighter in somewhat scowly, but withal satisfactory, fashion. He turned a little stiff at times, but he has a pleasing voice and a nice air. I had a notion, since substantiated by some neatly placed queries in our bobby-sox division, that MacRae was a crooner or some such, and I kept expecting him to burst into happy song. He didn't peep. Lois Maxwell, the girl, without which one of these things can't go, of course, is also new to me and also satisfactory. You could by no means call her pretty, but she has a nice large mouth and handles this role, not exactly a taxing one granted, in steady, intelligent style.

Chicago's New Traffic Ticket Plan Watched

Washington's system of handling traffic tickets probably isn't the best in the Nation, various authorities here agreed yesterday, but for the present they aren't going to do anything about it.

The City of Chicago, in an attempt to save on paper work and foil violators with "friends on the force" or "down at city hall" is using a new system. It involves making out tickets in quadruplicate with one copy sent direct to the courts to be used as the official charge.

Police here use a triplicate system where the officer files the charge in court himself. His supervisors check his work periodically and police are required to publish the names of all persons given warnings or "adjustments" of tickets.

The possibility of use of the Chicago system here evoked the following comments:

Corporation Counsel Vernon E. West said, "The present system is pretty good, especially since warnings and adjustments are publicized. I don't think we have very much trouble here with abuse."

George E. McNeil, head of the recent Traffic Court conference commented, "The new system at first blush sounds good. It will save a lot of work and of course is an added precaution to see that the man who gets a ticket gets into court."

"It may be well to take note of the new system and perhaps we may decide to discuss it at our meetings," said Arthur J. Cundlun, head of the Commissioner's Traffic Advisory Board.

Inspector Arthur E. Miller, head of the Traffic Division, was not certain that the quadruplicate system by itself would be much aid. He said many experts viewed a "violators bureau" in the courts as preferable.

2 Ball Games Open Night of Thrills Today

More than 350 thrill-packed minutes are in store for Masonic Night of Thrills spectators when the curtain goes up at 1:45 p. m. today at Griffith Stadium.

The highlight will be a four-ring circus.

A treat is in store for parade lovers. The line of march includes six divisions of military personnel, numerous bands, colorful drill teams of the Shrine, Tall Cedars, Grotto and Ladies Oriental Shrine.

Crowning of Queen of Thrills Doris Jean Wagner by Arch McDonald will be a colorful piece of pageantry.

The day opens with a baseball double-header at 1:45 p. m., the Silver Spring and Alexandria DeMolays clashing in the first game. The Martin Bombers of Baltimore will meet the Quantico Marines at 4:15 p. m. A display of fireworks is scheduled for 11 p. m.

Armory Board Hearing Today

Congressional District Committee chairman have called a meeting for 11 a. m. today to interview candidates for membership on the new District Armory control board.

The new law for regulating nonmilitary activities at the armory sets up a three-member board, one to represent the District, one to represent the National Guard and the third to be selected by chairmen of the House and Senate District Committees.

Chairman C. Douglass Buck (R., Del.) of the Senate committee, and Chairman Everett M. Dirksen (R., Ill.) of the House committee, will make the board appointment.

Committee sides said four or five applicants are expected to appear. Their names were not announced.

Ring the Bell and You Get a Cigar

When the talk turned to smoking the other night, William M. Stuart of 2124 I st. nw., recalled the best cigar he ever smoked.

Back around the turn of the century, young Bill was a cub

"There's a rumor that John Wanamaker of Philadelphia is going to open a store in New York," said the city editor. "J. P. Morgan is supposed to be financing the deal. Run up to the Morgan mansion and ask J. P. if the story is true."

As Bill set off into a driving rainstorm, the gang on the city desk howled with glee at the thought of the Morgan portal being slammed in another cub's face.

But the financier's butler took pity on the dripping specimen before him. "I'm really not supposed to admit reporters," he said, "but you'd better come in and dry out."

"It's a practical joke they play on all young reporters," he sighed. "But wait here; maybe we can fool them this time."

In a few minutes he was back. "Mr. Morgan is entertaining Senator Chauncey M. Depew," he said, "and regrets that he cannot see you.

"But he sympathizes with your plight, and asks that I give you one of his special cigars and match boxes, and that I tell you that the rumor is true."

"Thanks," gulped Bill, "but why am I being given the cigar and the match box?"

"That," explained the butler, "is Mr. Morgan's way of proving to your editors that you were really here."

And as District Liner Stuart recalls with a sigh, nobody ever enjoyed a cigar more than the cub reporter who swaggered back into that city room, puffing a Morgan special.

"ODDITY" IN THE NEWS

NBC's 3-Star reporter recently used the story about the two college boys who were making a fortune at roulette out in Nevada. A listener promptly sent the newscaster a letter containing "the real lowdown" on gambling odds, and Henle now thinks that the wheel's edge is 10 to 9 against the player.

I suspect that somebody has been cheating that listener of Ray's. In standard American practice, it's only 9½ to 9 against the roulette player.

There are 38 divisions on wheels used in this country—36 numbers plus single zero and double zero. The payoff is 36 for 1 (35 to 1 and your own money back). Ergo: 38 to 36 equals 9½ to 9.

It's not much of an edge, but, as the gamblers contentedly point out, "It's so steady."

THE PEMBERTONS OF E ST.

When Mrs. Murdock Pemberton found a stray white Persian cat the other day, I learned something about the theater.

Mrs. Pemberton advertised her find in our classified columns and, naturally enough, located the owner the first day.

That should have ended the incident. But the name "Murdock" Pemberton intrigued me.

I knew that Brock Pemberton was presenting "Harvey" at the National Theater, so I checked on him in some standard reference works.

I discovered that the maiden name of Brock's mother was "Murdock." Which merely served to deepen the mystery.

The Pembertons finally explained it. Murdock Pemberton is Brock Pemberton's brother, and theatrical associate.

Next time I'll try not to be such a dope. I'll remember that Murdock is the one with the white cat, and Brock the one with the white rabbit.

Leonard Lyons . . .

NEW YORK—Beatrice Lillie, who in "Inside U. S. A." keeps sighing that the best things in life are so expensive, was in a philosophical mood at the Stork Club last night. She turned to Jack Haley and said: "Yesterday is dead, and tomorrow isn't born yet." She paused, and added: "I keep saying that over and over again—but it never seems to help."

Lili Palmer bought a painting of G. B. Shaw as a gift for her husband, Rex Harrison. They sent it to Shaw for his inscription . . . Shaw studied the artist's impression of how he looked, and wrote an inscription: "George Bernard Shaw — the Original, who is 90, looks 20 years younger, and much tidier."

W. Averell Harriman is in Paris to help administer the European Recovery Plan. His official title is "United States Special Representative." Last week Mr. Harriman discovered that his title, as is customary in Government and press references to all such titles, was being abbreviated and only the initials were being used. He may seek a change of title, because now he is referred to as "U. S. S. R."

A seasoned Broadway gambler offered some advice one night to a newcomer who was willing to bet on almost anything. "Put your bets on unmarked cards, on the weather, on honest dice, or on whether the next car around the corner will have odd or even numbered license plates," the veteran advised. "What I'm suggesting is that you shouldn't bet on prize fights, or events like that. Remember—if you ever bet on something that can talk, look out."

Stassen Made the Public Think

By Drew Pearson

(Editor's Note—The character and prospects of Harold Stassen are analyzed by Drew Pearson today in his series of columns on GOP candidates.)

Whether Harold Stassen wins or not—and he probably won't—he has done a great service to the Republican Party.

Stassen

When other candidates were being coy, and while certain leaders were saying they did not want to be President, the refreshing Mr. Stassen announced that he was one who wanted to be President and proceeded to go out and hustle for it. Furthermore, he made other candidates hustle. Result was more scrutiny of candidates, more public thinking about the Republican nomination, than in any other recent presidential year.

For this alone, the American people owe Mr. Stassen a large vote of thanks.

The Stassen campaign today is dragging. His campaign chest, once amply supplied, is now reported to be $100,000 in the red. Many of the big-money boys, once enthusiastic over Stassen, cooled off after his Oregon debate. It was not that they disagreed with Stassen, but rather that they want to be on the winning bandwagon and they figured Stassen wouldn't win.

Crucial Debate

History may show the Dewey debate was the turning point in the race to decide who will be the next President of the United States.

Stassen, in challenging Dewey, figured he was playing safe. The advantage was against Dewey. Not only did it appear more popular at that time to outlaw communism, but Stassen was accustomed to rough-and-tumble debate. After all his speeches he had invited questions from the audience. He had had a lot of practice. In his grain-speculation charges against Ed Pauley, he had outtalked both Pauley and his defending Senators. Holding press conferences was Stassen's forte.

Knowing this, some of Dewey's friends advised him not to accept the Stassen challenge. The youthful Minnesota Governor, Paul Lockwood warned Dewey, was baiting a political trap.

"If I am going to be defeated," replied the usually cautious Mr. Dewey, "I know of no better issue to be defeated on. We cannot have thought control in the United States."

The debate which followed sent Dewey's battered stock soaring. It may have decided who will be the next President of the United States.

Stassen Was "Too Liberal"

Three other factors are working against Stassen:

1. His youth. He is 41 and many people think he can afford to be aged in the wood a bit.

2. The party bosses. They don't want a man they cannot control, would much prefer a party hack like Bricker of Ohio, or good-natured Speaker Joe Martin.

3. Stassen's liberal background.

Stassen's onetime liberalism now appears to be diluted with growing gobs of conservatism. Some suspect the onetime crusading Governor of Minnesota of trying to carry water on both shoulders in order to keep happy both his labor following and the large group of businessmen who have oiled his political machine.

At any rate, Stassen, who favored strong antitrust prosecution, and urged heavy taxes on high profits, has now pulled in his horns on many of these issues.

To his credit it should be noted that he has had the courage to take a stand on almost everything—even the dynamite-laden question of whether the United States Ambassador to the Vatican should be recalled and whether United States taxpayers' money should be used for buses to parochial schools. As a result, a storm of criticism has poured on his head from his own church (Baptist) and other Protestant groups.

Immigrant Grandparents

As a young Minnesota lawyer, Stassen was so forthright that in his first race for Governor he defeated both the Farmer-Labor candidate and the Old Guard Republican machine. The AFL and CIO generally supported him.

It was Senator Joe Ball, a St. Paul newsman whom Stassen appointed to the Senate, who later reciprocated by persuading the White House to appoint Stassen as a U. S. delegate to the first United Nations conference in San Francisco. There, Stassen, a returned naval hero, did a good job. Given the thankless chore of conferring with the peace organizations desiring to "consult" with the U. S. delegation, Stassen not only kept them reasonably happy but made political friends for the future.

More important, he proved himself a better statesman than Vandenberg by battling against the veto. Van has received the major credit for constructing the U. N. Charter, but it was the youthful Minnesotan who foresaw the veto reefs ahead.

Unquestionably he would be a much better President than various of his Republican stablemates, but certain of the party bosses would almost cut off their left arm before they would let him get the nomination. They would take him for Vice President with great pleasure, however. And that, probably, is where Stassen will end up.

Just for Today

Each day is like a separate life . . . Of opportunity . . . Where we may gain the golden height . . . Of what we want to be . . . Because each yesterday is gone . . . And all that happened then . . . Is just the picture of a past . . . That cannot rise again . . . And what tomorrow holds in store . . . We cannot ever know . . . For there is no assurance of . . . The way the wind will blow . . . But it is up to us to choose . . . How we shall live today . . . And whether we shall forge ahead . . . Or fall beside the way . . . So let us do the best we can . . . From morning until night . . . And try to reach our goal before . . . The sun is out of sight.
